CHAPTER 1

Welcome to Heroes of Legend

The door has held for a hundred years. Tonight, someone on the other side is knocking. Your companions look at you. You have a lantern, a scar that aches before rain, and one very bad idea that might get everyone through this alive.

Heroes of Legend is a fantasy roleplaying game about people who become remarkable through the choices they make. You might be a scholar who reads an opponent's stance like a page, a guardian who plants a shield in the only safe doorway, or a wanderer who calls the forest to your friends' defense. Your character is built from ancestry, experience, class and learned abilities. The combinations belong to you.

At the table

Each player speaks and acts for one hero. One participant is the Dungeon Architect, or DA: the person who describes the world, portrays the people and creatures in it, presents danger, and adjudicates uncertain situations. The DA tells you what your hero can perceive. You say what you try. Together, you discover what happens.

You do not need to act in a voice, memorize this book, or find a single correct solution. Ask questions. Describe a practical approach. Listen to what your companions want to attempt. A good plan can change the situation before anyone touches a die.

You will need three six-sided dice, and ideally three more for Boons and Banes. Consumable supplies use d4, d6, d8, d10, d12 and d20 inventory dice. Bring a character sheet, your learned abilities, something to record changes, and tokens or miniatures when a scene benefits from a square grid. A virtual tabletop can do the same work.

The promise of the game

Character development rewards planning. You choose which disciplines to study and which abilities make those studies useful. At the table, the chosen ability tells you what to do: its action, attribute, range, outcomes and limits are printed together. Your sword's appearance is yours to invent; the attack describes what it accomplishes.

Attacks connect. A poor roll changes how much harm and pressure an attack creates; it does not usually erase the turn. A stronger result may push an enemy away, expose a weakness, leave them burning, or put an ally where they need to be.

You recover HP after a safe breath, but wounds and spent Grit follow you. Victories can leave permanent scars. A hero who rises again is not untouched by what happened.

Learn one roll

When an uncertain action has consequences, roll 3d6 + one attribute. The six attributes are Brawn, Fortitude, Agility, Guile, Knowledge and Reason. An ability names its attribute; otherwise the DA calls for the attribute that fits the attempt.

Total	Result	What it means
8 or less	Weak	Make the printed progress; you have not necessarily completed your purpose.
9–14	Standard	Apply the Standard outcome.
15 or more	Strong	Apply the Strong outcome.

Three retained natural ones give Weak plus a complication. Three retained natural sixes give Strong plus a benefit. These exceptional results use the numbers on the dice, before adding your attribute.

Boons help and Banes hinder. Cancel one against one. Each remaining Boon adds a die; keep the highest three. Each remaining Bane adds a die; keep the lowest three. Use at most three net extra dice. Add your attribute after choosing the three dice. Difficulty changes the dice you keep, not the Weak/Standard/Strong boundaries.

> Example — a dangerous crossing. Lira has Agility +2. The DA asks for Agility to cross a crumbling beam before the pursuers arrive. The rotten surface adds 1 Bane; an ally's secured rope supplies 1 Boon. They cancel. Lira rolls 2, 4, 5: 11 + 2 = 13, a Standard result. She reaches the far ledge as agreed before the roll. If there were no danger or meaningful cost, the group could simply describe crossing.

A moment of play

DA: The broken bridge ends two squares short of the far bank. Water roars below. The rider behind you is reaching for a horn.

Lira: I have room to run. Can I jump the gap?

DA: Your Agility is +2, so your running broad jump reaches four squares. There is a clear landing. Spend the movement and you are across; no roll needed.

Borin: I cannot leave Oren behind. I plant myself between him and the rider. I use Defend and keep my Reaction ready.

Oren: I use Force on the jammed bridge mechanism. Can we lower the remaining span?

DA: Yes. It needs two progress. A Weak result loosens it, but the rider will have time to sound the horn. A Standard or Strong result opens it now.
Oren: Brawn +0. I roll 3, 4, 5: twelve. Standard, two progress.
DA: The catch tears loose. The span drops with a crack, giving you a route across. The rider lowers the horn and draws a blade instead.
This is play: make choices in the fiction, apply the rule that fits, and let the result change what can happen next. Force is an action Oren chooses. Brawn is the attribute the action tells him to roll.

Find your way through the book

Read Create Your Hero to build from the beginning, or choose one of the six ready-to-play heroes near the back. Ancestries, origins and classes supply your first choices. Disciplines show how to qualify for learned abilities. Playing the Game explains combat; Beyond the Battlefield covers the rest of an adventurer's life.
Keep your own abilities close at hand. You do not need to memorize everyone else's catalog. The universal actions are available to every character, provided they have any required equipment. A learned card does not replace the ordinary permission to try something anyone could reasonably attempt.

Before the first adventure

Agree on the tone of the campaign and why your heroes travel together. Discuss what kinds of danger, injury and horror people want included or left offstage. Anyone can ask to pause a scene or change an uncomfortable detail. The wound tables describe fictional injuries; their descriptions can be adjusted while retaining the rules.
Choose names, something each hero wants, and a connection between companions. Decide how to share maps and record supplies. The DA should explain what your characters already know about the first destination. You can discover the rest in play.

> About this edition. This is the complete player-facing level 1–10 playtest manuscript. Existing design proposals were approved for inclusion. It is intended for real table feedback; numerical balance remains open to refinement. Small boxes labeled “Playtest ruling” identify newly discovered boundaries that still need review. The DA's bestiary and encounter-building book are separate.

CHAPTER 2

Create Your Hero

Begin with a person you want to play: an armored healer, an eloquent duelist, a hunter who speaks with ghosts. Decide what they want, then choose how they pursue it.

Character creation has two stages. Level 0 is your life before choosing a class. Level 1 is the completed adventurer you bring to the first session. Finish and close the level-0 ledger before making level-1 purchases. Both stages have their own DP pool; unused points expire separately.

Before making purchases, turn to Disciplines and Character Paths. It explains what discipline ranks mean and how they qualify you for abilities. Keep that chapter and your intended class entry handy as you build.

1. Assign attributes

Assign a value from −2 to +2 to each of the six attributes. Their total must be +3. A straightforward starting array is +2, +1, +1, +0, +0, −1, arranged as you choose. Check your intended class's minimums before settling the array.

Attribute	Common uses
Brawn	Exert strength, use Force, climb and make many melee attacks.
Fortitude	Endure harm, resist bodily threats and make death rolls; contributes to HP.
Agility	Move deftly, remain Hidden, jump and make many ranged attacks; contributes to Speed.
Guile	Deceive, misdirect, improvise and exploit an opening.
Knowledge	Apply learning, recognize patterns, craft and use learned techniques.
Reason	Notice details, perceive danger, judge a situation and keep your thinking clear.

These are not exclusive lists. Roll the attribute printed on the ability you use. Some techniques deliberately use an unusual attribute, such as Knowledge for a carefully studied attack. There is no added skill rating.

Your chosen attributes stay fixed as you gain levels. Explicit items can modify an attribute while their rules apply. Ordinary published item adjustments run no higher than +2 or lower than −2, but can move your total outside the creation range. Matching bonuses do not add together: use the largest. A curse can explicitly suppress bonuses or set a value instead. Item changes never revise your creation DP.

2. Choose ancestry

Choose Human, Elf, Dwarf or Halfling. Record the ancestry's HP contribution and base Speed, then choose two of its five traits. Read the exact benefits: a description of keen eyes does not grant an extra sense unless the rules say so.

Ancestry	HP contribution	Base Speed	Starting coin contribution
Human	+2	6	+1
Elf	+2	6	+2
Dwarf	+4	5	+2
Halfling	+1	5	+0

Any ancestry can grow up in any culture. Your ancestry is not a compulsory profession, personality or allegiance.

3. Choose culture and background

Your culture describes the community that shaped you. Your background describes part of your life or work before adventuring. Choose one of each from the origin chapter, then select one complete paired option from each. A pair grants a rank-1 discipline and its accompanying ability. Do not take the rank from one pair and the ability from another.

A granted ability supplies its stated prerequisite grants. Record the ranks before buying anything. If a grant duplicates something you already have, receive 1 DP for that stage. It does not raise the rank, give an unrestricted replacement, or carry forward after the stage ends.

Record Common and one ordinary language learned in your home community, then apply explicit extra language grants. See Languages for the shared list, spoken-only grants and campaign alternatives.

4. Spend level-0 DP

Your level-0 pool is 10 + Knowledge + Reason + Guile, plus any duplicate-grant compensation. Negative attributes reduce this pool too. Buy eligible Novice abilities for 2 DP each. Their printed requirements must already be met by your origin grants. You may not buy discipline ranks at level 0.

Record each purchase in order. Buy any eligible kind of ability. One or two attacks can define your fighting style, leaving room for talents useful between battles.

Close the stage. Unused level-0 DP expires. Your future class cannot qualify a purchase you made earlier.

5. Choose a class

Choose one class. Both of its required attributes must be at least 0; Odd has no minimums. Record its HP contribution and discipline prices. Choose two distinct rank-1 disciplines from its starting list, applying duplicate compensation where appropriate. Choose one of its three level-1 signature abilities.

Your class sets discipline prices and signature access. You can buy any eligible shared ability. There is no multiclassing.

6. Spend level-1 DP

Start a new pool of 10 + Knowledge + Reason + Guile, plus level-1 duplicate compensation. Now you can purchase discipline ranks at your class's prices as well as eligible abilities. You must buy ranks sequentially: rank 2 requires owning rank 1, and rank 3 requires owning rank 2. There is no additional level gate on ranks.

Your class entry lists the price of every discipline rank. The comparison table in Disciplines and Character Paths shows all classes together. Each price buys that rank alone. For example, a Blade pays 1 DP for Arms 1 and 2 DP for Arms 2, spending 3 DP to learn both from scratch. A rank grants no action or bonus by itself; it qualifies you to learn abilities.

All card prerequisites must be owned before purchase, not merely before use. You can own an item whose requirements you do not meet, but cannot use the gated capability. A flaming sword's special power does not become available simply because you found it.

Close the stage. Unused level-1 DP expires. Later levels allow saving DP.

> Example — two separate budgets. A hero with Knowledge +1, Reason +1 and Guile −1 gets 11 DP at each creation stage. At level 0, five Novice purchases cost 10 and the last point expires. At level 1, a duplicate class rank adds 1 to the new pool, making 12. Buying a discipline rank priced at 3 DP and four Novice cards for 8 spends 11; the remaining point also expires. Nothing from the first stage was borrowed.

7. Resolve equipment and recipes

Read every acquisition line. Some learned cards grant an ordinary item when first acquired. A grant supplies the compatible basic item only if you do not already own it. Three attacks that require a melee weapon can share the same weapon; they do not generate three free weapons. The same principle applies when you learn training later. Selling an item does not reactivate its old grant.

Describe your weapon now. A sword, axe or stout staff can express the same permitted melee attacks. Its ordinary appearance changes no damage. A ranged attack still requires compatible ranged equipment. Most ordinary melee and ranged weapons use 1 Bulk each. Special items add only their printed effects.

Choose any recipes explicitly granted by crafting cards. Recipe knowledge is not a free finished product or a supply of ingredients. Record tools, materials and future recipe opportunities separately.

8. Finish your numbers

Record	Calculation
Maximum HP	12 + ancestry HP + class HP + Fortitude + explicit benefits
Capacity	10 + 3 × Brawn
Encumbrance	Carried Bulk above capacity, minimum 0
Speed	Ancestry base + Agility − encumbrance, minimum 0
Stability	0 unless an explicit grant raises it; highest source, cap 3
Starting Grit	2, plus any explicitly purchased increase
Starting wounds / death marks	0 / 0

HP does not automatically grow each level. A purchase such as Conditioned Body can increase it within that card's limits. Record current and maximum HP separately. Record your highest resistance for each damage type, never a sum of matching armor.

> Example — Borin's pack. Borin is a dwarf Protector with Fortitude +2. His base maximum HP is 12 + 4 + 5 + 2 = 23. His chosen trait and Conditioned Body each add 1, giving 25. Brawn +1 gives capacity 13. His 11 Bulk fits, so Agility +0 leaves his dwarf base Speed at 5. Armor does not automatically add Stability.

9. Take coins and shop

Starting coins are 40 + ancestry + culture + background + class contributions. The Starting Coins reference at the end of this chapter gives the exact additions. This produces 50–70 coins before shopping. Resolve equipment grants first. Everyone begins with a plain worn outfit; a pack, supplies and potion are purchases unless explicitly granted.

Use the market. Record coins spent, coins left, supply dice and every item's Bulk. A container does not cancel its contents' Bulk. Decide which items are held. A bow, a two-handed weapon, or weapon and shield can leave no free hand for healing. Sharing a rope or light is practical; somebody still carries it.

10. Put a person on the sheet

Name your hero and give them a reason to stay with the party. Put your most-used actions on your first reference page. All learned cards remain available; there is no prepared-card hand limit.

Before play, check both DP ledgers, requirements, grants, Bulk, free hands and class minimums. The six complete characters near the back show every step.

Growing into a legend

The DA awards levels at milestones. At level 2 and every later level, receive 8 + your new level DP. Save these points or spend them in a place the DA agrees is safe. Mental attributes modify only the two creation pools, not these awards.

New level	DP award	Other universal milestone
2	10	—
3	11	+1 Grit; choose a level-3 class signature; Adept cards available
4	12	—
5	13	—
6	14	—
7	15	+1 Grit; choose a level-7 class signature; Master cards available
8	16	—
9	17	—
10	18	—

Novice, Adept and Master abilities cost 2, 4 and 8 DP and require minimum levels 1, 3 and 7. Novice purchases are explicitly permitted during level-0 creation. Higher tiers do not require an earlier card in a chain. Mixed requirements mean you need every listed rank. Class signatures require only their class and level; extra eligible signatures can be purchased for the same tier price.

Your Grit increases are universal experience, not class features. They do not refund previous expenditure. A once-only learned card can grant one additional Grit. Ordinary rest does not refresh Grit. Your abilities, scars and choices tell the story of the hero you become.

Starting HP

Your maximum HP brings together your heritage, training and endurance. Calculate it after choosing your traits and purchases; then start at that maximum.

12 + ancestry + class + Fortitude + explicit benefits

Fortitude and benefits

Add your Fortitude, including a negative value. Then add only benefits you actually chose. Deep Constitution and Conditioned Body, for example, each add 1 HP.

HP does not increase automatically with level. Record current HP separately from your maximum.

Two different beginnings

Dwarf Protector

12 + 4 ancestry + 5 class + 2 Fortitude = 23 HP. With the dwarf's HP trait and Conditioned Body, the total is 25.

Halfling Arcanist

12 + 1 ancestry + 2 class − 1 Fortitude = 14 HP, before any explicit benefits. Low HP need not limit the hero's imagination or ambition.

Starting coins

Starting coins = 40 + ancestry + culture + background + class.

Add these once after completing level 1. This is a starting purse, not income each level. It does not use DP or attributes. Resolve card equipment grants before shopping; there is no coin reimbursement for a duplicate or declined grant.

Contributions represent what the character brings on departure: savings, community support, prior work and preparation. They are not innate ancestry wealth, a moral ranking of cultures or a continuing class stipend. The largest ancestry difference is two coins. These allocations describe preparation, not biology.

Examples

All 23,040 ancestry/culture/background/class combinations fall between 50 and 70 coins, before shopping. This enumerates coin contributions only; class attribute eligibility is still checked separately.

Minimum: Halfling + Forest Communities + Grove Tended + Odd = 40 + 0 + 5 + 5 + 0 = 50. Maximum: Elf + Learning Houses + Court Questioner + Intellect = 40 + 2 + 10 + 10 + 8 = 70.

At the low end, road essentials and a lesser potion cost 44 and leave 6. At the high end, the same basket leaves 26. The market lists all prices; purchases still consume Bulk and obey hand/training requirements.

The six worked characters now include purses and actual shopping ledgers. No one receives higher-level cards, extra DP or free potions.

CHAPTER 3

Ancestry, Culture and Background

Choose the people, places and experiences that shaped you. Choose two ancestry traits, then one complete culture pair and one complete background pair. Any ancestry may come from any culture.

Your ancestry supplies inherited traits. Your culture describes a community and its traditions. Your background recalls something you did or experienced before adventuring. These choices offer connections, memories and capabilities; they do not dictate your personality. Ancestry traits are passive unless stated otherwise. Base-statistic changes are permanent; other benefits last while their stated circumstances apply.

Choose each origin as a complete pair: its rank and ability belong together. Resolve all level-0 grants before making purchases. Duplicate grants add one DP to that stage rather than a higher rank or unrestricted replacement.

Human

Restless, adaptable and fiercely invested in a life that never feels long enough.

Choose two of the five traits below. These are invitations to a familiar fantasy, not a required personality. Any ancestry may grow up in any culture.

Starting values: HP +2; base Speed 6.

- Never Quite Finished — There is always one more person to help, one more hill to cross.
- Road in the Blood — The horizon has never looked like a place to stop.
- A Foot in Two Worlds — You learned early that a stranger is sometimes only a person whose words you do not know.
- Make Room at the Fire — You can turn a cold greeting into a place at the table.
- The Impossible Streak — Someone says it cannot be done, and you hear a challenge.

Starting coin contribution: +1 coins. See starting coins.

Never Quite Finished

You wipe the sweat from your face and lift the load again, remembering the people still waiting for you.

Maximum HP +1. Describe the ordinary hardship that taught you to keep going.

Road in the Blood

You settle your pack higher on your shoulders and lengthen your stride toward the next rise.

Base Speed +1. Long journeys remain ordinary travel; this creates no exhaustion rule.

A Foot in Two Worlds

You greet a stranger in the words of another home, smiling as they answer in the same tongue.

Know two additional ordinary spoken languages. Choose the communities that taught you; this does not grant a second culture's discipline or card.

Make Room at the Fire

You shift a bowl toward the stranger and offer a place beside the fire before asking their name.

Once per scene, when you offer genuine food, shelter or shared work to a nonhostile person, gain 1 Boon to the next Guile roll seeking ordinary hospitality or trust from them before the scene ends. No automatic friendship or compelled response.

The Impossible Streak

You study the harder route, tighten your grip and begin with the stubborn care of someone determined to finish.

Once per day, declare before an ordinary noncombat roll that you are taking the difficult way on purpose. Gain 1 Boon. You still need a plausible method and any specialist permission; this does not change a card's attribute.

Elf

Old memory, woodland grace and a sense that the hurried world has forgotten how to listen.

Choose two of the five traits below. These are invitations to a familiar fantasy, not a required personality. Any ancestry may grow up in any culture.

Starting values: HP +2; base Speed 6.

- Footfall on the Leaves — Even the fallen leaves seem reluctant to betray your passing.
- A Lifetime Ago — You remember when the old road was new.
- The Wood Whispers — A startled bird tells you what a shouted warning never could.
- Grace of the Elder Folk — Where others hurry, you seem simply to arrive.
- Dream beneath the Stars — Your body rests while part of you walks old paths.

Starting coin contribution: +2 coins. See starting coins.

Footfall on the Leaves

You step between stems and over tangled roots, leaving the leaves scarcely trembling behind you.

Natural undergrowth does not increase the cost of your voluntary movement. Other difficult terrain, forced movement and occupied-square rules are unchanged.

A Lifetime Ago

You pause beside the broken road and recall the voices of the people who laid its first stones.

Choose one place or community you knew in an earlier age. Gain 1 Boon to Knowledge or Reason rolls recalling its history, people or construction. The DA can tell you what you genuinely witnessed without a roll; memory reveals no events you never knew.

The Wood Whispers

You stop talking as the birds fall quiet, turning toward the rustle that disturbed them.

In woodland, gain 1 Boon to a consequential roll interpreting living signs of nearby disturbance. The signs can indicate a general direction, not an unseen creature's exact square; this does not bypass Hidden.

Grace of the Elder Folk

You lengthen your stride and weave past the obstacles without breaking the rhythm of your steps.

Base Speed +1. Describe whether your grace is effortless balance, long strides or a dancer's economy.

Dream beneath the Stars

You settle beneath the stars with your eyes half open, letting old memories drift through the sounds of the waking camp.

You may rest in a quiet waking reverie instead of sleeping, remaining aware of nearby ordinary sights and sounds. It grants no automatic detection, extra downtime work, shorter treatment interval or Grit recovery. Magical Asleep still works normally.

Dwarf

Stone, craft, stubborn loyalty and a memory for debts both kind and cruel.

Choose two of the five traits below. These are invitations to a familiar fantasy, not a required personality. Any ancestry may grow up in any culture.

Starting values: HP +4; base Speed 5.

- Stubborn as Bedrock — Your ancestors did not dig a home from the mountain by yielding politely.
- The Mountain Remembers — You know a mason's lie by the stone around it.
- Rooted in Stone — Let the storm waste its strength on you.
- An Honest Maker's Hand — Your thumb finds the seam; your ear knows the ring of sound metal.
- A Grudge Well Kept — You remember who struck first. You intend them to remember what followed.

Starting coin contribution: +2 coins. See starting coins.

Stubborn as Bedrock

You draw a deep breath, tighten the strap over your bruised shoulder and shoulder the load again.

Maximum HP +1. Gain no additional resistance from this trait.

The Mountain Remembers

You run your fingers across the stonework, stopping where an old seam has been cut anew.

Gain 1 Boon to examining stonework for an unsafe passage, concealed join or later alteration. Obvious construction clues need no roll; the trait does not reveal an untouched wall's far side.

Rooted in Stone

You spread your boots against the stone and lean into the approaching shove.

While standing on solid ground, gain 1 Boon to defense against forced movement. This is not immunity and does not reduce the resulting distance separately.

An Honest Maker's Hand

Your thumb finds the seam; your ear knows the ring of sound metal.

After handling an ordinary metal or stone item, recognize shoddy workmanship and common material without a roll. Gain 1 Boon when a consequential inspection seeks subtler defects. This is not crafting or magical identification permission.

A Grudge Well Kept

You rub the place the blow landed, fix its giver in your gaze and step back into the fight.

Once per combat, after a creature damages you, gain 1 Boon to your next attack against it before the end of your next turn. Choose whether to invoke the trait when the damage occurs. No damage bonus or extra attack.

Halfling

Quiet feet, a generous table and courage that surprises people who judge by height.

Choose two of the five traits below. These are invitations to a familiar fantasy, not a required personality. Any ancestry may grow up in any culture.

Starting values: HP +1; base Speed 5.

- Bigger on the Inside — Your knees may shake. Your friends will never see you leave them.
- Under Their Noses — The grand folk rarely remember to look beneath the table.
- Quiet as a Burrow — You learned to come home late without waking the household.
- A Little Luck — The latch catches your coat a heartbeat before you step into trouble.
- Second Breakfast — You know how to make a small comfort last.

Starting coin contribution: +0 coins. See starting coins.

Bigger on the Inside

You swallow, glance at the friends beside you and step forward even while your knees shake.

Gain 1 Boon to rolls affected by Frightened. Resolve the Boon and Banes normally; you are not immune to fear.

Under Their Noses

You duck beneath the table and draw your knees behind its legs as the hurried footsteps pass.

You fit through openings the DA judges suitable for your actual small size, and gain 1 Boon to hiding behind ordinary furniture that plausibly conceals you. Standing creatures still block their squares; no free movement through enemies.

Quiet as a Burrow

You ease your heel onto the floor and lift the latch with the care of someone coming home to a sleeping household.

Gain 1 Boon to quiet movement outside combat. On a Strong result, one willing companion following your route gains 1 Boon to their next quiet-movement roll this scene. You cannot confer Hidden by walking in open view.

A Little Luck

The latch catches your coat a heartbeat before you step into trouble.

Once per day, before a roll that uses an attribute, gain 1 Boon. Describe a small piece of good fortune. No reroll after seeing the result and no effect on inventory dice.

Second Breakfast

You break the bread, tuck the smallest crumbs into the wrapping and make room beside you for a second breakfast.

When sharing a food bundle with one companion during a safe meal, make one inventory check for the two of you instead of one each. Food is still required; this grants no healing, resistance or extra recovery.

Cultures

Your culture is the community that taught you how to live: its customs, shared knowledge and ways of meeting hardship. An elf raised among dwarven halls may know their songs and stonework; a human from a wandering company may feel at home wherever people gather around a fire. Choose a culture independently of your ancestry.

Choose one complete paired option from its entry. You gain the listed rank-1 discipline and ability together at level 0. Its coin contribution also helps determine your starting purse. These gifts describe what you learned, not what you must believe or how you must behave. See Disciplines and Character Paths for how your new discipline opens further choices.

Each duplicate grant gives 1 level-0 DP instead of an automatic higher rank or a replacement choice. Spend it before closing that stage. Follow the granted ability's equipment line; an item is supplied only if its grant calls for one.

Border Marches

Your neighbors know the difference between vigilance and fear, though keeping that distinction takes work.
Who taught you to welcome a traveler and watch the road at once?

Choose one:
- Guard 1 and A Sign against Harm.
- Marksmanship 1 and Read the Quarry.

Starting coin contribution: +7 coins. See starting coins.

Cairn Communities

The dead are remembered at supper and in council, while the living argue freely about their advice.
Whose name do you speak when courage runs short?

Choose one:
- Calling 1 and A Hand from Before.
- Life 1 and Keep the Door Closed.

Starting coin contribution: +5 coins. See starting coins.

Cloister Valleys

Bells mark the day, but no two residents agree about what a disciplined life should become.
Which lesson did you question before you left?

Choose one:
- Athletics 1 and The Untroubled Hand.
- Medicine 1 and Treat Mental Trauma.

Starting coin contribution: +5 coins. See starting coins.

Deep Halls

Homes, gardens and markets fill the chambers beneath the hills; the surface is only one neighborhood.
What does your home smell like after the forge fires dim?

Choose one:
- Craft 1 and Trail Workshop.
- Armor 1 and Wake the Iron Rune.

Starting coin contribution: +7 coins. See starting coins.

Ember Cities

Kilns, glassworks and night markets make the streets glow after sundown.
What beautiful thing did you first learn to make?

Choose one:
- Flame 1 and Speak with the Hearth.

Culture and background can point in the same direction or reveal different sides of your hero. Resolve duplicate grants before spending your level-0 DP. The discipline chapter explains the requirements those ranks satisfy.

Each duplicate grant gives 1 level-0 DP instead of an automatic higher rank or a replacement choice. Spend it before closing that stage. Follow the granted ability's equipment line; an item is supplied only if its grant calls for one.

CHAPTER 4

Classes

Choose the identity you want to bring to the company. Each class grants two starting discipline choices and a signature at levels 1, 3 and 7. Shared abilities remain open to anyone who qualifies. Signatures belong only to their class. Choose one free signature at each milestone; extra eligible signatures cost 2 / 4 / 8 DP. They require only your class and level, with no discipline or earlier-signature requirement.

Meet both attribute minimums before choosing your class. A minimum of zero leaves room for an unconventional hero who succeeds through other strengths. Odd has no minimums and pays the same discipline prices across every field.

Choose one class; there is no multiclassing. You can still learn any shared ability whose requirements you meet, but another class's signatures remain exclusive.

Class	Attributes at least 0	HP contribution
Arcanist	Agility, Knowledge	+2
Blade	Agility, Brawn	+4
Intellect	Knowledge, Reason	+2
Leader	Guile, Fortitude	+4
Odd	None	+3
Protector	Fortitude, Reason	+5
Shadow	Agility, Guile	+3
Shepherd	Reason, Guile	+3
Unbalanced	Brawn, Fortitude	+6
Warden	Fortitude and Knowledge	+4

Protector

You see who needs shelter and step into the space between them and harm.

Attributes: Fortitude, Reason ≥ 0. HP: +5. Coins: +5.

Level 7 choices
- Unbroken Passage

- Drive Back the Circle

1 Between Them

Reaction · None — no roll 2 DP
Signature / Skill / Defense / Movement · Class Protector; minimum level 1

You step your guard into the line of the strike and wave your companion behind you as it lands.

Target: One adjacent willing ally, after a single-target attack is declared against it but before rolling.
Become the target if you meet the attack's range and targeting requirements. Resolve the attack once against you; your ally receives none of its effects. Afterward the ally may move up to 2 squares without provoking if able. You do not move to intercept and cannot redirect an area attack.
Duration: The triggering attack and immediate ally movement.

1 Set Your Feet

Passive · None — no roll 2 DP
Signature / Skill / Defense · Class Protector; minimum level 1

You settle your weight into the ground and draw your guard close, letting the shove spend itself against your stance.

Target: Self while your Defend is active.
Gain Stability 2 while your Defend is active. Use your highest applicable Stability, maximum 3. You still need to use Defend normally; this grants no resistance to damage.
Duration: While your Defend remains active.

1 Close the Gap

Maneuver · None — no roll 2 DP
Signature / Skill / Movement / Defense · Class Protector; minimum level 1

You hurry to a companion's side and turn outward, ready to meet whatever followed them.

Target: Self; one visible ally.
Move up to 2 squares toward that ally without provoking. If you end adjacent to it, gain Defend's 1 Boon to defense until the start of your next turn. This is the ordinary Defend benefit and does not multiply an existing Defend.
Duration: Movement is immediate; Defend ends at the start of your next turn.

3 Break Their Advance

Reaction · None — no roll 4 DP
Signature / Skill / Control / Movement · Class Protector; minimum level 3

You absorb the hit and answer with a hard shove, stepping forward as the attacker stumbles away.

Target: One adjacent enemy, after it damages you.
Push it up to 2 squares directly away from you, then you may move 1 square toward it without provoking. Use legal routes and a free endpoint. The damage already taken remains; normal collision rules apply.
Duration: Immediate push and movement.

3 Shelter the Fallen

Maneuver · None — no roll 4 DP
Signature / Skill / Recovery / Movement / Defense · Class Protector; minimum level 3

You drop beside your fallen companion, steady their breathing and drag them behind your guard in one practiced motion.

Target: One adjacent Dying player-character ally.
Stabilize it, then move it up to 2 squares to a free square adjacent to you without provoking. You need a free hand and must be able to support its weight. Gain Defend until the start of your next turn. This restores no HP and removes no wound; it cannot interrupt Last Words.
Duration: Stabilization and relocation are immediate; your Defend ends at the start of your next turn.

3 Make a Refuge

Maneuver · None — no roll 4 DP
Signature / Skill / Defense · Class Protector; minimum level 3

You draw a companion into the shelter of your stance and meet the next threat with both of you behind your guard.

Target: Self and one adjacent willing ally.
Use Defend and extend its 1 Boon to that ally. Both benefits last until the start of your next turn; the ally must remain adjacent while you can act. The ally gains Stability 1 for the first forced movement during the ward, including joining a collision chain. Use the highest applicable Stability, maximum 3. Consume this grant after that event even if another source was higher. Reusing this card replaces the ward, not its spent Stability grant.
Duration: Until the start of your next turn; adjacency is required for the ally.

7 Unbroken Passage

Main Action · None — no roll 8 DP
Signature / Skill / Movement / Defense · Class Protector; minimum level 7

You put yourself at the front and guide your companions through the press, keeping each dangerous opening behind your shoulder.

Target: Self and up to two adjacent willing allies.
Move yourself and the chosen allies up to your Speed each without provoking, in an order you choose. Choose legal routes and separate free endpoints; the allies must finish adjacent to you. Each ally gains 1 Boon to its next defense before the start of your next turn while it remains adjacent to you and you can act. This does not carry an immobile creature or grant attacks.
Duration: Movement is immediate; each defensive Boon expires when used, adjacency is lost or your next turn starts.

7 Defiant Rescue

Reaction · None — no roll 8 DP
Signature / Skill / Defense / Movement · Class Protector; minimum level 7

You see the blow gathering over your companion and charge into its path, driving them back behind your shoulder.

Target: One willing ally within 3 squares, after a single-target attack is declared against it but before any attack or defense roll.
Move up to 3 squares without provoking to a free square adjacent to the ally. You must then be a legal target of that attack. Become its target and resolve it once against you; gain 1 Boon if you make a defense roll. Afterward the ally may move up to 2 squares without provoking if able. If you cannot reach a legal interception position, you cannot use this card.
This is declared before the outcome is known. It neither transfers already-resolved damage nor redirects an area attack.
Duration: The interception, attack and immediate ally movement.

7 Drive Back the Circle

Main Action · None — no roll 8 DP
Signature / Skill / Control / Movement · Class Protector; minimum level 7

You brace and surge outward, forcing the surrounding enemies back while your companions scramble into the room you have made.

Target: Every enemy adjacent when you begin; up to two willing allies initially within 2 squares.
Push each enemy 2 squares directly away from you, in an order you choose. Then each chosen ally may move up to 2 squares without provoking. The allies need legal routes and free endpoints. No direct damage; collisions resolve normally.
Duration: Immediate displacement and ally movement.

Blade

You make the hard choices in the space between one stroke and the next.
Attributes: Agility, Brawn ≥ 0. HP: +4. Coins: +4.
Starting ranks: Choose two distinct rank-1 disciplines from Arms, Marksmanship, Athletics, Subterfuge.

Level 3 choices

- Fell the Balance

Level 7 choices
- Dance Through Steel
- Relentless Pursuit
- Perfect Placement

1 Cut and Turn

Passive · None — no roll 2 DP
Signature / Skill / Movement · Class Blade; minimum level 1

You follow the stroke through with your feet and slip around the edge of your opponent's guard.

Target: Self, after your Main Action melee attack resolves.
Move up to 1 square without provoking. On a Standard or Strong attack, you may move up to 2 squares instead. Use a legal route and free endpoint; this grants no additional attack.
Duration: Immediate movement.

Limits: Once on your turn.

1 Pressure Point

Passive · None — no roll 2 DP
Signature / Skill / Control · Class Blade; minimum level 1

You turn your strike across a joint or supporting limb, leaving your opponent struggling to keep pace.

Target: One target of your Main Action melee attack.
After a Standard result, apply Slowed 1 to one target. After Strong, apply Slowed 2 instead. The attack otherwise resolves normally.
Duration: Slowed uses normal decay.

Limits: Once on your turn; no benefit from free attacks.

1 Measured Guard

Reaction · None — no roll 2 DP
Signature / Skill / Defense / Movement · Class Blade; minimum level 1

You catch the incoming blow on your guard and turn your shoulders, stepping smoothly past its line.

Target: Self, before a defense against an adjacent enemy.
Gain 1 Boon to the defense. After the attack resolves, you may move up to 2 squares without provoking, whatever the defense result. This does not prevent the attack's damage or conditions; you must still be able to move.
Duration: The triggering defense and immediate movement.

3 Sweeping Entry

Maneuver · None — no roll 4 DP
Signature / Skill / Movement / Control · Class Blade; minimum level 3

You rush in behind a broad sweep, using the threat of the blade to claim a better position.

Target: Self; a visible enemy you can approach by a legal route.
Move up to 3 squares toward that enemy without provoking. Your next Main Action melee attack this turn may push one of its targets 1 square directly away after resolution, on any result.
Duration: Movement is immediate; unused push benefit expires at turn end.

3 Return Stroke

Reaction · None — no roll 4 DP
Signature / Skill / Attack · Class Blade; minimum level 3

You let the attack slide past your guard and bring your weapon back before your opponent recovers.

Target: An adjacent melee attacker, after you resolve a Standard or Strong defense against its attack.
Make one free Basic Melee attack against it, rolling Brawn and using Basic Melee's outcomes. You need a melee weapon and must still be able to attack. A triggering free attack cannot trigger this free attack. No further free attacks arise from your return stroke.
Duration: Immediate attack after the triggering attack resolves.
Gear: Requires a melee weapon; grants one ordinary melee weapon, Bulk 1, if absent.

3 Fell the Balance

Passive · None — no roll 4 DP
Signature / Skill / Control · Class Blade; minimum level 3

You feel their weight shift, hook their footing with your own and let the strike finish the fall.

Target: One target of your Standard or Strong Main Action melee attack.
After the attack resolves, you may knock that target prone. This does not require a push rider or replace another effect. It adds no damage and cannot turn Prone into a numbered condition.
Duration: Prone lasts until removed normally.

Limits: Once on your turn; no benefit from free attacks.

7 Dance Through Steel

Main Action · Agility 8 DP
Signature / Skill / Attack / Movement · Class Blade; minimum level 7

You turn through the surrounding blades, strike each opening in a single flowing sequence and step out before the circle closes.

Target: Up to three distinct adjacent enemies.
Choose the targets and roll Agility once using the least favorable net Boons/Banes among them.

- Weak: Deal 4 physical damage to each.
- Standard: Deal 4 physical damage to each; you may move up to 1 square without provoking afterward.
- Strong: Deal 6 physical damage to each; you may move up to 2 squares without provoking afterward.

This is one signature attack, not three free attacks. All targets are chosen before any movement.
Duration: Damage and movement resolve immediately.
Gear: Requires a melee weapon; grants one ordinary melee weapon, Bulk 1, if absent.

7 Relentless Pursuit

Reaction · None — no roll 8 DP
Signature / Skill / Movement / Attack · Class Blade; minimum level 7

You follow the retreating shoulder through the press, keeping your blade close enough that escape becomes another opening.

Target: A visible enemy within 2 squares when it begins voluntary movement.
After it finishes moving, move up to your Speed toward it without provoking. If you end adjacent, you may make one free Basic Melee attack against it using Brawn. Choose a legal route and endpoint; this does not stop or rewind its movement. If that movement was granted by a free attack, it cannot trigger this card's free attack. No attack chains.
Duration: Immediate pursuit and optional attack.
Gear: A melee weapon is required for the attack; grants one ordinary melee weapon, Bulk 1, if absent.

7 Perfect Placement

Passive · None — no roll 8 DP
Signature / Skill / Control / Movement · Class Blade; minimum level 7

You turn your opponent with the flat of your weapon, then step into the ground you have made them surrender.

Target: One target of your Standard or Strong Main Action melee attack, then self.
After resolving the attack, push the target up to 2 squares directly away from you. Then you may move up to 2 squares without provoking. Resolve both in order along legal routes; normal collision rules apply to the push.
Duration: Immediate push and personal movement.

Limits: Once on your turn; no benefit from free attacks.

Arcanist

You study the impossible until your hands can give it a shape the world must briefly accept.
Attributes: Agility, Knowledge ≥ 0. HP: +2. Coins: +6.

1 Bent Trajectory

Signature / Magic / Utility · Class Arcanist; minimum level 1

You incline a finger, sending your spell around the nearer edge of a pillar before it turns toward your mark.

Target: Your single-target spell; choose one visible adjacent unoccupied origin square before rolling.
Your single-target spell may originate from the chosen square. Determine cover and attack path from there, but measure range from you. You must still see the target and cannot cast through an opaque barrier. This changes only the spell's origin; it adds no roll or action.
Duration: For that spell.

1 Deliberate Spark

Signature / Magic / Control · Class Arcanist; minimum level 1

You flick a final spark into the ground beside your target's foot, forcing a stumbling step as the spell lands.

Target: One creature hit by your Main Action damaging spell.
On a Standard or Strong result, after resolving the spell, you may push one of its targets 1 square directly away from you. Use this once on your turn. It adds no direct damage; normal collision rules apply.
Duration: Immediate push after the spell.

Limits: Once on your turn; no benefit from free attacks.

1 Study the Pattern

Signature / Magic / Utility · Class Arcanist; minimum level 1

You trace the glowing lines in the air until you can feel which thread is holding the magic together.

Target: One visible ongoing magical effect within 5 squares.
Learn its purpose, whether it is sustained by a creature or an object, and its remaining duration if it has one. The DA also identifies one actual way to end or avoid it, if one exists. Gain 1 Boon to your next roll using that information before the scene ends. This reveals no hidden caster location, grants no dispelling ability, and does not identify an item's dormant properties or curses.
Duration: Information remains known; the Boon ends when used or the scene ends.

Limits: One Boon from studying a given effect per scene; reexamining it does not refresh that Boon.

3 Cast and Scatter

Signature / Magic / Movement · Class Arcanist; minimum level 3

Your spell bursts from your hands and you follow its recoil into a quick sidestep, robes brushing the space where you stood.

Target: Self, after your Main Action spell resolves.
Move up to 2 squares without provoking. Choose a legal route and free endpoint. This uses no movement allowance and does not change the spell's result.
Duration: Immediate movement.

Limits: Once on your turn.

3 Leave a Window

Signature / Magic / Utility · Class Arcanist; minimum level 3

You spread your fingers around a companion's silhouette and the gathering storm parts around them.

Target: One creature in your area spell, chosen before rolling.
Exclude the chosen creature from every effect of that spell. Determine the least favorable net Boons/Banes from the remaining targets and roll once as usual. This changes no range or area and grants no immunity to later effects from other sources.
Duration: For that spell.

3 Arcane Deflection

Signature / Magic / Defense · Class Arcanist; minimum level 3

You catch the approaching spell against a spread palm and twist, sending its pressure back toward its maker.

Target: Self or one willing ally within 3 squares, before its defense against a spell.
Grant 2 Boons to that defense, including a defense against an area spell. After a Strong defense, you may push the visible caster 1 square directly away from you if it is within 5 squares. Make no extra roll; this does not cancel the spell or protect other targets.
Duration: The triggering defense and immediate push.

7 Fold the Distance

Maneuver · None — no roll 8 DP
Signature / Magic / Movement · Class Arcanist; minimum level 7

You pinch a crease in the air and step through it, drawing a companion across with your outstretched hand.

Target: Self and optionally one adjacent willing ally; visible free destinations within 4 squares of you.
Teleport yourself to a chosen destination. You may bring the ally to a separate free square adjacent to your destination, also within range. Both destinations must fit their occupants; no opaque barrier may separate either traveler from its destination. Neither traveler provokes, and the ally spends no action.
Duration: Immediate teleportation.

7 Choose the Edge

Passive · None — no roll 8 DP
Signature / Magic / Control · Class Arcanist; minimum level 7

You turn both hands as the spell breaks, guiding its last rush of force toward the places you want emptied.

Target: Up to two creatures affected by your Standard or Strong Main Action spell.
After the spell resolves, push each chosen creature up to 2 squares directly away from you. Choose the order. This adds no direct damage; use normal forced movement and collisions. The spell need not already cause displacement.
Duration: Immediate displacement.

Limits: Once on your turn; no benefit from free attacks.

7 Open the Circle

Maneuver · None — no roll 8 DP
Signature / Magic / Defense · Class Arcanist; minimum level 7

You sweep a ring of light around your companions, its edge rising like a thin glass wall when magic strikes.

Target: Self and willing allies within 2 squares when used.
Each recipient gains 1 Boon to defenses against spells until the start of your next turn. During that time, each recipient gains Stability 2 for the first forced movement against them, including being struck in a collision chain. Use the highest applicable Stability, maximum 3. This grant expires after that forced movement even if a higher Stability applied; it never reduces distance a second time. This is a ward, not physical cover.
Duration: Until the start of your next turn; mark each recipient's Stability grant when used.

Limits: Reapplying replaces your previous ward; it does not refresh a recipient's spent Stability grant before your next turn.

Shepherd

You listen for the wavering voice and help it find its way back to the others.

1 Gentle Return

Passive · None — no roll 2 DP
Signature / Skill / Recovery / Movement · Class Shepherd; minimum level 1

You steady your companion as warmth returns, guiding their first step away from the place where they fell.

Target: One willing ally you have just restored HP to with a spell or potion.
That ally may stand without spending movement, then move 1 square without provoking if able. This works even if it was above 0 HP before healing. It grants no extra HP, reduces no healing payment and cannot reverse Last Words.
Duration: Immediate stand and movement after healing.

Limits: Once on your turn; the ally must actually regain HP.

1 Hear Me Still

Passive · None — no roll 2 DP
Signature / Magic / Recovery / Movement · Class Shepherd; minimum level 1

You keep speaking as you move closer, giving the fading breath a familiar voice to follow.

Target: One willing Dying ally within 3 squares that can hear you, when you use Stabilize.
Your Stabilize can reach that ally without touch. After stabilizing it, you may move 1 square toward it without provoking. Stabilize still costs a Maneuver, clears death marks and restores no HP. The wound remains; Last Words cannot be interrupted.
Duration: Immediate stabilization and personal movement.

1 Ease the Burden

Main Action · Reason 2 DP
Signature / Skill / Recovery · Class Shepherd; minimum level 1

You kneel close, steady the trembling hands or bind the hurt, and talk your companion through the next breath.

Target: Self or one adjacent willing creature.
Choose one temporary condition on the target: Bleeding, Frightened or Poisoned. Reduce only that condition, minimum 0.

- Weak: Reduce it by 1.
- Standard: Reduce it by 2.
- Strong: Reduce it by 3; the target may also move 1 square without provoking if able.

This restores no HP and does not remove starred sources or wound scars.
Duration: Immediate reduction and possible movement.

3 Quiet the Tremor

Maneuver · None — no roll 4 DP
Signature / Skill / Recovery / Defense · Class Shepherd; minimum level 3

You meet their unfocused gaze, name something familiar and wait for their breathing to settle.

Target: One willing creature within 3 squares that can hear you.
Reduce its temporary Frightened or Dazed by up to 2, minimum 0. Choose one condition. The target also gains 1 Boon to its next defense before the start of your next turn. No HP restored, no starred condition removed, and no actions already spent are refunded.
Duration: Reduction is immediate; the Boon expires when used or the start of your next turn.

Limits: Once on your turn.

3 Bring Them Near

Reaction · None — no roll 4 DP
Signature / Skill / Movement / Defense · Class Shepherd; minimum level 3

You reach toward your companion as the blow lands, calling them back along the safe route you can see.

Target: One willing ally within 4 squares, after it takes damage.
If still able to move, the ally may move up to 3 squares toward you without provoking. If it ends adjacent to you, it gains 1 Boon to its next defense before the start of your next turn. The attack already resolved; this does not undo its damage or move a Dying or restrained creature.
Duration: Movement is immediate; Boon expires when used or the start of your next turn.

3 Careful Transfer

Signature / Magic / Recovery · Class Shepherd; minimum level 3

You press an open hand toward the injury and give a measured surge of your own warmth, keeping your voice steady as the effort leaves you pale.

Target: One willing creature within 3 squares, including self.
Pay 3 HP before rolling, bypassing all resistance and leaving yourself above 0. A free hand is required. Apply Life resistance to healing, minimum 1 while HP is missing, and never exceed maximum HP.

- Weak: Restore 5 HP.
- Standard: Restore 10 HP and reduce temporary Bleeding by 1.
- Strong: Restore 15 HP, reduce temporary Bleeding by 2 and temporary Dazed by 1.

This removes no wound or scar and does not restore Grit or reverse Last Words. It is a complete healing spell, not a modifier requiring another learned heal.
A willing creature explicitly harmed by healing instead takes the listed HP amount as Life damage, with normal resistance and minimum damage; apply no beneficial recovery riders. An unwilling creature harmed by healing can be targeted as described below.
Duration: Healing and reductions are immediate.
Gear: A free hand; no item granted.

Offensive healing: this spell may target an unwilling creature harmed by healing. Resolve it as an attack using its printed attribute, range, action and HP cost; the HP result becomes Life damage, without beneficial recovery riders. This is the explicit exception to willing-only targeting above. Use the creature's printed defense when a player defends; no opposed second roll.

7 A Hand in Darkness

Reaction · None — no roll 8 DP
Signature / Skill / Recovery / Movement · Class Shepherd; minimum level 7

You hurry to the fallen voice, keep a hand against the wound and draw your companion into the shelter beside you.

Target: One ally within 3 squares, immediately after it enters Dying and its wound is resolved.
Move up to 3 squares without provoking to a free square adjacent to the ally, then Stabilize it. You may move the ally 1 square to another free square adjacent to you without provoking if you have a free hand and can support its weight. If no route reaches it, you cannot use this card. Restore no HP and remove no wound; Last Words cannot be interrupted.
Duration: Immediate approach, stabilization and optional extraction.

7 Restore Composure

Main Action · Reason 8 DP
Signature / Magic / Recovery · Class Shepherd; minimum level 7

You take their shaking hands and pour life into them, holding their gaze until the battlefield comes back into focus.

Target: One willing creature within 3 squares, including self.
Pay 7 HP before rolling, bypassing all resistance and leaving yourself above 0. Requires a free hand. Apply Life resistance to the healing, minimum 1 while HP is missing, capped by missing HP.

- Weak: Restore 8 HP and reduce temporary Dazed by 1.
- Standard: Restore 16 HP and reduce temporary Dazed by 1.
- Strong: Restore 24 HP, reduce temporary Dazed by 2 and temporary Blinded by 1.

Remove no starred conditions or scars. No Grit restoration or reversal of Last Words. This is a complete spell; no earlier healing card is required.
A willing creature explicitly harmed by healing instead takes the listed HP amount as Life damage, with normal resistance and minimum damage; apply no beneficial recovery riders. An unwilling creature harmed by healing can be targeted as described below.
Duration: Healing and reductions are immediate; spent actions are not restored.
Gear: A free hand; no item granted.

Offensive healing: this spell may target an unwilling creature harmed by healing. Resolve it as an attack using its printed attribute, range, action and HP cost; the HP result becomes Life damage, without beneficial recovery riders. This is the explicit exception to willing-only targeting above. Use the creature's printed defense when a player defends; no opposed second roll.

7 Shared Resolve

Main Action · None — no roll 8 DP
Signature / Skill / Recovery / Defense · Class Shepherd; minimum level 7

You gather your companions with a few familiar words, steadying one trembling voice after another until they answer together.

Target: Self and up to three willing allies within 3 squares that can hear you.
Each recipient chooses one temporary condition from Frightened, Dazed or Poisoned and reduces it by up to 2, minimum 0. Each also gains 1 Boon to its next defense before the start of your next turn. No HP restored, no starred source removed and no spent actions returned. A recipient without those conditions still gains the defensive Boon.
Duration: Reductions are immediate; Boons expire when used or the start of your next turn.

1 Spot the Leverage

Maneuver · None — no roll 2 DP
Signature / Skill / Utility · Class Intellect; minimum level 1

You study the hinges and weight of the obstacle, then point to the place where a small effort will matter most.

Target: One visible ordinary obstacle within 3 squares.
Learn whether Force can overcome it, its remaining progress target, and one practical point at which to apply force. You or one ally who can hear your explanation gains 2 Boons to the next Force action against that obstacle before the scene ends. No permission to force an impossible obstacle is granted.
Duration: Information persists; the Boons expire when used or the scene ends.

Limits: One application per obstacle per scene; repeated examination does not refresh spent Boons.

1 Make the Connection

Main Action · None — no roll 2 DP
Signature / Skill / Utility · Class Intellect; minimum level 1

You set two pieces of evidence side by side and notice the small detail that makes them belong to the same story.

Time: One minute.
Target: An accessible person, object or scene with evidence you can examine.
Spend one minute examining the evidence and state a question. Learn one supported fact relevant to it and a specific way to investigate further: a person to question, place to examine or test to perform, if one exists. If the evidence cannot answer your question, learn what kind of evidence is missing. No roll; obvious clues remain available to everyone. This does not reveal thoughts or invent events.
Duration: Information remains known.

Limits: One reading per question until new evidence becomes available.

1 Prepared Explanation

Passive · None — no roll 2 DP
Signature / Skill / Utility / Movement · Class Intellect; minimum level 1

You give your companion a few precise words, then point out the place their next step should land.

Target: One ally within 3 squares that can hear and understand your Aid.
Your Aid can reach that ally. When you give Aid, the ally may also move 1 square without provoking before making the aided roll. This movement uses no ally action or movement allowance. Aid's Boon and expiry are unchanged.
Duration: Movement is immediate; Aid lasts until used or the start of your next turn.

Limits: The movement benefit can be granted once on your turn.

3 A Better Angle

Maneuver · None — no roll 4 DP
Signature / Skill / Utility / Movement · Class Intellect; minimum level 3

You call two short directions, placing your companion where they can see the opening you have found.

Target: One willing ally within 4 squares that can hear and understand you.
The ally may move up to 3 squares without provoking. It gains 1 Boon to its next roll before the start of your next turn if that roll acts on a visible objective you name when using this card. The ally chooses whether and how to act; this grants no attack.
Duration: Movement is immediate; Boon expires when used or the start of your next turn.

3 Diagnose the Failure

Main Action · None — no roll 4 DP
Signature / Skill / Utility · Class Intellect; minimum level 3

You stop the turning wheel with a tool, listen to the last click and show your companions exactly where the mechanism went wrong.

Time: One minute.
Target: One accessible ordinary mechanism, damaged or functioning.
Examine it for one minute. Learn its purpose, its working parts and a specific safe way to disable or repair it, if one exists. You can perform a simple accessible adjustment with suitable tools during that minute; a job requiring materials, dismantling or crafting still needs its usual permission and work. For such a job, you or one ally gains 2 Boons to the next appropriate roll following your diagnosis. This does not reveal a magical mechanism or a recipe.
Duration: Information persists; the Boons last until used or the mechanism changes.
Gear: Suitable tools required for adjustments; grants craft tools, Bulk 1, if absent.

Limits: One Boon grant per mechanism until it materially changes.

3 Predict the Motion

Reaction · None — no roll 4 DP
Signature / Skill / Defense · Class Intellect; minimum level 3

You watch the attacker's hips and shoulders, then call the turn before the weapon follows.

Target: Self or one willing ally within 3 squares, before defending against a visible physical attack.
The recipient may use Reason for this defense instead of its normal attribute and gains 1 Boon to the roll. An ally must hear and understand your warning. Resolve the ordinary defense once. This does not apply to poison, internal injury or mental intrusion.
Duration: The triggering defense only.

7 A Route for Everyone

Main Action · None — no roll 8 DP
Signature / Skill / Movement / Defense · Class Intellect; minimum level 7

You trace the route in the air and name each companion in turn, turning a crowded battlefield into a sequence of clear steps.

Target: Self and up to three willing allies within 5 squares that can hear and understand you.
Each recipient may move up to 3 squares without provoking, in an order you choose. Each gains 1 Boon to its next defense before the start of your next turn. Choose legal routes and separate free endpoints; this grants no attacks.
Duration: Movement is immediate; each Boon expires when used or the start of your next turn.

7 Test the Hypothesis

Main Action · None — no roll 8 DP
Signature / Skill / Utility · Class Intellect; minimum level 7

You arrange the evidence, explain what must have happened and ask your companions to watch while you test the part that could prove you wrong.

Time: Ten minutes.
Target: An accessible evidence set and one question about what happened.
Spend ten minutes examining the evidence. Obtain a supported sequence of events answering your question as far as the evidence allows. The DA states what remains uncertain, one contradiction in your explanation if the evidence contains one, and a concrete lead for checking it if one exists. Share the account with your companions; they need no duplicate interpretation rolls. No secret facts are invented.
Duration: The account and its stated limits remain known.

Limits: One account per question; new evidence permits a new examination.

7 Expose the Mechanism

Maneuver · None — no roll 8 DP
Signature / Skill / Utility · Class Intellect; minimum level 7

You point out the repeating hesitation in the creature's movements and call to your companions just as it happens again.

Target: One visible creature or active device within 5 squares; up to two allies within 5 squares that can hear you.
Learn one actual resistance and one actual weakness of the target, if present, and one capability you have seen it use in this scene. The DA explains that capability's visible trigger or limitation. Each chosen ally gains 1 Boon to its next roll against that target before the start of your next turn. No weakness is created and no resistance is reduced.
Duration: Information persists; each Boon expires when used or the start of your next turn.

1 Follow My Signal

Signature / Skill / Utility · Class Leader; minimum level 1

You lift two fingers and catch a pair of answering glances; both companions know what comes next.

Target: Up to two allies within 3 squares that can see or hear your Aid signal.
When you use Aid, you may assist two allies instead of one. Name the task for each and explain how your signal helps. Each gains Aid's normal 1 Boon to its next matching roll before the start of your next turn. Outside combat, Aid still replaces your own contribution to a group roll.
Duration: Each Boon expires when used or the start of your next turn.

Limits: One two-recipient Aid on your turn; further Aid uses are ordinary.

1 Lead the Step

Passive · None — no roll 2 DP
Signature / Skill / Movement · Class Leader; minimum level 1

You give ground with one hand extended, drawing your companions after you before the enemy can separate you.

Target: Up to two adjacent willing allies, when you use Disengage.
Each chosen ally may move 1 square without provoking, in an order you choose. Your Disengage works normally. The allies spend no actions or movement allowances and must end in separate free squares.
Duration: Immediate ally movement; your Disengage lasts for this turn.

Limits: Once on your turn.

1 Stand Together

Signature / Skill / Defense · Class Leader; minimum level 1

You plant yourself beside a companion and turn your guard outward, making the space between you a harder place to attack.

Target: Self and one adjacent willing ally.
Both gain 1 Boon to defense until the start of your next turn while adjacent to one another. You must remain able to act. Reusing this card replaces your previous application; it does not multiply it.
Duration: Until the start of your next turn or adjacency is lost.

3 Press the Opening

Signature / Skill / Attack · Class Leader; minimum level 3

You spot an enemy's exposed side, shout your companion's name and send them into the gap.

Target: One willing ally within 4 squares that can perceive your signal and is adjacent to an enemy.
The ally makes one free Basic Melee attack against an adjacent enemy, using its own Brawn and Basic Melee outcomes. On Strong, it may also push the target 1 square directly away from itself. The ally needs a melee weapon and must be able to attack. Free attacks trigger no further free attacks.
Duration: Immediate attack.

Limits: Once on your turn; the attack is basic, never a specialty card.

3 Orderly Withdrawal

Maneuver · None — no roll 4 DP
Signature / Skill / Movement · Class Leader; minimum level 3

You call a short retreat and count the steps, keeping the line together as everyone moves.

Target: Two willing allies within 4 squares that can perceive your signal.
Each may move up to 2 squares without provoking, in an order you choose. Each may end farther from or nearer to the fight as needed; no attack is granted. Choose legal routes and free endpoints.
Duration: Immediate movement.

3 Hold Your Nerve

Reaction · None — no roll 4 DP
Signature / Skill / Recovery · Class Leader; minimum level 3

You call your companion's name above the din, steadying their breath before panic or shock can take hold.

Target: One willing ally within 4 squares that can hear you, when it gains temporary Frightened or Dazed.
Reduce the newly applied contribution of that condition by up to 2, minimum 0, before it takes effect. This does not remove an older contribution or a starred source. No HP is restored.
Duration: Immediate reduction of the new contribution.

7 Coordinated Rush

Main Action · None — no roll 8 DP
Signature / Skill / Attack / Movement · Class Leader; minimum level 7

You signal the rush and watch two companions strike together, each arriving where the other needs them.

Target: Two willing allies within 4 squares that can perceive your signal.
Each ally may move up to 3 squares without provoking, then make one free Basic Melee attack against an adjacent enemy if able. Resolve one ally completely before the other. Each attack uses that ally's Brawn and Basic Melee outcomes; on Strong it may push its target 1 square. Weapons are required. These attacks trigger no further free attacks.
Duration: Immediate movement and attacks.

7 Refuse the Rout

Maneuver · None — no roll 8 DP
Signature / Skill / Recovery / Defense / Movement · Class Leader; minimum level 7

You stand where everyone can see you, raise your voice and turn a scattering retreat into a line that holds.

Target: Self and up to three willing allies within 4 squares that can hear you.
Each recipient reduces temporary Frightened by up to 2, minimum 0, and gains 1 Boon to its next defense before the start of your next turn. Each may immediately move 1 square without provoking. Resolve movement in an order you choose. No effect on starred conditions, and no restoration of actions already spent.
Duration: Condition reduction and movement are immediate; Boons expire when used or the start of your next turn.

Limits: Once on your turn.

7 Watch the Rear

Reaction · None — no roll 8 DP
Signature / Skill / Defense / Movement · Class Leader; minimum level 7

You shout a warning before the blow lands, then direct your companion out of the next attacker's reach.

Target: One willing ally within 5 squares that can hear you, before its defense against an attack.
Grant 2 Boons to that defense. After the entire attack resolves, the ally may move up to 3 squares without provoking if still able. This does not invalidate, redirect or rewind the attack.
Duration: The triggering defense and subsequent movement.

1 Shoulder Through

Passive · None — no roll 2 DP
Signature / Skill / Control / Movement · Class Unbalanced; minimum level 1

You drive your shoulder into the resistance and keep pushing after the first step gives way.

Target: One creature pushed by your Force action.
Add 1 square to your Force push, on any result. You may then move 1 square directly toward the target without provoking if the square is free. This adds no grapple reduction or obstacle progress, and grants no attack.
Duration: Immediate additional push and following step.

Limits: Once on your turn.

1 Wild Approach

Maneuver · None — no roll 2 DP
Signature / Skill / Movement · Class Unbalanced; minimum level 1

You roar and charge into the opening, arriving with your whole weight behind the next blow.

Target: Self; one visible enemy.
Move up to 3 squares toward that enemy. This movement provokes normally. Gain 1 Boon to your next Main Action melee attack this turn. You must actually move at least 1 square to gain the Boon.
Duration: Movement is immediate; Boon expires when used or this turn ends.

1 Laugh at the Fall

Passive · None — no roll 2 DP
Signature / Skill / Movement · Class Unbalanced; minimum level 1

You spit out the dust, bark a laugh and surge to your feet before the enemy has finished enjoying the sight.

Target: Self, when you stand from Prone.
Standing costs 1 square of movement instead of 2. After standing on your turn, gain 1 Boon to your next Force action or Main Action melee attack before that turn ends. This grants no ability to stand while movement is prohibited.
Duration: Standing cost is always changed; the Boon expires when used or this turn ends.

Limits: The Boon can be gained once on your turn; repeated standing does not stack it.

3 Crush the Barrier

Main Action · Brawn 4 DP
Signature / Skill / Utility / Movement · Class Unbalanced; minimum level 3

You hear the first crack, plant your feet and drive through the weak point with another heave.

Target: One adjacent ordinary physical obstruction.
Use Force to overcome the obstruction; the DA states its progress target and consequences before rolling.
- Weak: Add 2 progress.
- Standard: Add 4 progress.
- Strong: Add 6 progress.

If this completes the target, you may move up to 2 squares through the opened route without provoking. This affects no creature or grapple and cannot force an impossible structure.
Duration: Progress and any completed opening persist; movement is immediate.

3 Fling the Captive

Main Action · Brawn 4 DP
Signature / Skill / Attack / Control · Class Unbalanced; minimum level 3

You catch the struggling body, turn hard at the hips and release the whole tangle in a violent throw.

Target: One adjacent creature, whether or not you already grapple it.
Release any Grappled contribution you maintain on the target, then roll Brawn. You must have a Main Action before releasing; this card cannot be used while you are Grappled 3.
- Weak: Deal 3 physical damage and push 1 square.
- Standard: Deal 4 physical damage, push 2 squares and knock prone.
- Strong: Deal 6 physical damage, push 3 squares and knock prone.

No prior grappling card or existing hold is required. The DA judges whether your body can plausibly throw the target; use normal collision rules.
Duration: Immediate damage, push and Prone.

3 Raging Recoil

Reaction · None — no roll 4 DP
Signature / Skill / Control / Movement · Class Unbalanced; minimum level 3

You snarl at the pain and shove back into the attacker, following the stumble with another aggressive step.

Target: One adjacent creature, after it damages you.
Push it up to 2 squares directly away, then you may move up to 2 squares toward it without provoking. Choose a legal route and free endpoint. The original damage remains; this adds no attack or direct damage beyond collisions.
Duration: Immediate push and movement.

7 Scatter the Line

Main Action · Brawn 8 DP
Signature / Skill / Control · Class Unbalanced; minimum level 7

You throw your arms wide and drive into the bodies around you, sending the whole front rank stumbling away.

Target: Every enemy adjacent when you begin.
Roll Brawn once using the least favorable net Boons/Banes among the targets.
- Weak: Push each 2 squares directly away from you.
- Standard: Push each 3 squares.
- Strong: Push each 4 squares and knock each prone.

Resolve the targets in an order you choose. No direct damage; normal collisions apply.
Duration: Immediate displacement and Prone.

7 Break Their Grip

Maneuver · None — no roll 8 DP
Signature / Skill / Control / Movement · Class Unbalanced; minimum level 7

You wrench your shoulders free and crash back against the hands that tried to hold you.

Target: Self while Grappled 1 or 2, and one adjacent creature contributing to that grapple.
Reduce your Grappled rating by up to 2, removing actual contributions you choose and the matching burden on those grapplers. Then push one contributing adjacent grappler up to 2 squares directly away and move 1 square without provoking if now able. You must have retained a Maneuver; at Grappled 3 you cannot use this card.
Duration: Immediate release, push and possible step.

7 Crash Down

Passive · None — no roll 8 DP
Signature / Skill / Control / Movement · Class Unbalanced; minimum level 7

You drive the target backward and finish the motion with a downward wrench that leaves them sprawled where they land.

Target: One creature pushed by your Main Action attack or Force action.
After that push resolves, you may knock the target prone even if it did not strike an obstruction. Then you may move 1 square toward it without provoking if a legal free square is available. This adds no collision damage and cannot create numbered Prone.
Duration: Immediate knockdown and step.

Limits: Once on your turn; no benefit from free attacks.

Shadow

You learn the unguarded routes through a world that rarely looks in the right direction.
Attributes: Agility, Guile ≥ 0. HP: +3. Coins: +3.

1 Fade Behind

Passive · None — no roll 2 DP
Signature / Skill / Movement · Class Shadow; minimum level 1

You give ground without a sound, using the enemy's reaching weapon to hide the direction of your first step.

Target: Self, when you use Disengage.
As part of Disengage, move up to 2 squares without provoking. This additional movement makes no audible footfalls but does not silence speech or deliberately used equipment. It does not grant Hidden in open view; actual concealment still matters.
Duration: Immediate movement; Disengage lasts for this turn.

Limits: Once on your turn.

1 Soft Landing

Maneuver · None — no roll 2 DP
Signature / Skill / Movement · Class Shadow; minimum level 1

You vault the low rail and land on bent knees, catching your balance before a loose stone can rattle.

Target: Self; a visible supported free landing within 2 squares.
Jump to the destination without provoking. You may cross a gap or low obstacle but not a wall or an occupied standing creature's square. Land standing without audible footfalls. This grants no protection from a separate fall and requires a landing you can reach within the printed distance.
Duration: Immediate jump.

1 Turn Their Eye

Maneuver · None — no roll 2 DP
Signature / Skill / Utility / Movement · Class Shadow; minimum level 1

You send a glance and a tiny distracting motion toward one side while your companion slips quietly toward the other.

Target: One willing ally within 3 squares that can perceive your signal.
Provide a plausible distraction that nearby observers can see or hear. The ally may move up to 2 squares without provoking and gains 1 Boon to its next roll to remain unnoticed before the start of your next turn. The movement itself grants no Hidden in open view.
Duration: Movement is immediate; Boon expires when used or the start of your next turn.

3 Pass the Guard

Maneuver · None — no roll 4 DP
Signature / Skill / Movement · Class Shadow; minimum level 3

You slip along the blind side of the struggle, ducking below a reach and stepping through the open space beyond.

Target: Self; a legal route of up to 3 squares.
Move up to 3 squares without provoking. Ignore the extra cost of difficult terrain during this move, but do not cross standing occupied squares or barriers. The movement grants no attack or automatic Hidden.
Duration: Immediate movement.

3 Strike and Vanish

Passive · None — no roll 4 DP
Signature / Skill / Movement · Class Shadow; minimum level 3

Your strike lands and you slip away on its follow-through, already looking for the next patch of cover.

Target: Self, after your Main Action attack resolves.
After any result, move up to 1 square without provoking. After a Standard or Strong result, move up to 3 squares instead. An attack from Hidden ends Hidden normally; this movement does not automatically hide you again.
Duration: Immediate movement.

Limits: Once on your turn; no benefit from free attacks.

3 Open the Way

Main Action · Guile 4 DP
Signature / Skill / Utility · Class Shadow; minimum level 3

You find the lock's rhythm through the tool, work its stubborn point and ease it open without a click.

Target: One adjacent ordinary lock.
Use lock tools to work toward the DA's stated opening target. Each attempt takes a Main Action, in or out of combat.

- Weak: Add 2 progress.
- Standard: Add 3 progress.
- Strong: Add 4 progress.

Your tool work makes no audible noise and leaves no tool marks. This does not silence the door or disarm a linked trap; the DA states any known risk before you begin.
Duration: Progress persists for that lock.
Gear: Lock tools required; grants one set, Bulk 1, if absent.

7 Unseen Passage

Main Action · None — no roll 8 DP
Signature / Magic / Utility / Movement · Class Shadow; minimum level 7

You draw the surrounding shadow across your body like a cloak and slip away while your outline fades from sight.

Target: Self.
Shroud yourself from sight, then move up to 3 squares without provoking. Until the end of your next turn, you cannot be selected as a visible target. Attacks that do not require seeing you and areas covering your square can still affect you. You remain solid and audible; this grants no passage through barriers or occupied squares.
The shroud ends immediately after you make an attack, cast another spell or use a card on another creature. Your own movement does not end it. This card supplies its complete concealment effect; it does not require a separate Invisible condition or change anyone else's detection rules.
Duration: Until the end of your next turn, or immediately after an ending action.

7 Exploit Confusion

Reaction · None — no roll 8 DP
Signature / Skill / Attack / Movement · Class Shadow; minimum level 7

You see the enemy stagger under a companion's blow and dart in before they can gather themselves.

Target: A visible enemy within 3 squares, after another creature applies temporary Dazed, Blinded or Frightened to it.
Move up to 2 squares toward that enemy without provoking. If you finish adjacent, make one free Basic Melee attack using Brawn; on Strong you may also move 1 square without provoking afterward. You need a melee weapon and must be able to attack. If the triggering condition came from a free attack, it cannot trigger this card's free attack. No further free attacks arise from your attack.
Duration: Immediate approach, attack and possible exit.
Gear: Requires a melee weapon for the attack; grants one ordinary melee weapon, Bulk 1, if absent.

7 Leave No Pursuit

Main Action · None — no roll 8 DP
Signature / Skill / Utility · Class Shadow; minimum level 7

You brush away the obvious prints, point out the stones that keep none and lead the party off the route their pursuers expect.

Time: Ten minutes preparation, then up to one hour of guided travel.
Target: Self and up to six willing companions following your route outside combat.
Spend ten minutes preparing a departure from a campsite or other stopping place. Conceal ordinary traces of the departure and guide the group for up to one hour. Attempts to follow those ordinary tracks take 2 Banes. This does not erase magical marks, remove witnesses or conceal people from direct view. The protection ends where the party leaves your guidance or creates a conspicuous new trail.
Duration: The concealed trail remains difficult to follow until new evidence exposes it.

Limits: One application per departure; repeated preparation does not add more Banes.

Odd

You have never fit the expected answer, and have learned to make that useful.
Attributes: No minimums. HP: +3. Coins: +0.

- Useful Interruption
- Always a Way Around

Level 3 choices
- Unlikely Assistant
- Change the Question
- Wrong Place for That

Level 7 choices
- Strange but Effective
- An Unexpected Exit
- One Last Remark

1 Sideways Thinking

Passive · None — no roll 2 DP
Signature / Skill / Utility · Class Odd; minimum level 1

You turn the problem around in your hands, notice a familiar principle and begin doing something no one else thought to try.

Target: Self, before an ordinary noncombat task roll.
Describe a plausible approach based on reasoning. Use Reason for that roll and gain 1 Boon. You still need any specialist permission and suitable tools. This cannot replace an attribute printed on another learned card or make an impossible action possible.
Duration: That roll only.

Limits: Once per scene, declared before rolling.

1 Useful Interruption

Maneuver · None — no roll 2 DP
Signature / Skill / Utility / Movement · Class Odd; minimum level 1

You interrupt with a question, a spilled drink or an absurdly well-timed cough, and your companion moves while everyone looks at you.

Target: One creature within 3 squares that can see or hear your distraction; one willing ally within 3 squares.
Describe a distraction the creature can perceive. The ally may move up to 2 squares without provoking from that creature. It also gains 1 Boon to its next roll against that creature before the start of your next turn. Other enemies can still react to the movement. This does not compel belief or grant Hidden.
Duration: Movement is immediate; the Boon expires when used or the start of your next turn.

1 Always a Way Around

Passive · None — no roll 2 DP
Signature / Skill / Movement · Class Odd; minimum level 1

You brace, tug or shove until something gives, then slip into the space the struggle has opened.

Target: Self, after you resolve Force.
Move up to 2 squares without provoking after your Force action. If you reduced your own Grappled rating to 0, you may stand without spending movement before taking this move. The card does not let you use Force without a Main Action or move while still Grappled.
Duration: Immediate stand and movement if allowed.

Limits: Once on your turn.

3 Unlikely Assistant

Passive · None — no roll 4 DP
Signature / Skill / Utility · Class Odd; minimum level 3

You wedge a boot where a tool should go, offer an unexpected comparison and somehow make the work easier.

Target: One ally within 3 squares that can understand your Aid.
Your Aid reaches that ally and grants 2 Boons instead of 1 to the declared task's next roll. Describe how your unusual method helps. It grants no missing specialist permission, extra crafting attempt or additional contribution to a group check.
Duration: Until the aided roll or the start of your next turn.

Limits: Normal Aid action and group-check restrictions apply.

3 Change the Question

Main Action · None — no roll 4 DP
Signature / Skill / Utility · Class Odd; minimum level 3

You stop pulling at the locked door and look up at the hinge, then show everyone the different problem you mean to solve.

Time: One minute.
Target: One noncombat obstacle you and your companions can examine.
Spend one minute examining the obstacle and describe an alternative approach. The DA identifies one workable alternative using available people, tools or features, if one exists, and states its risks. If none exists, learn the concrete missing resource or access that prevents it. You and one ally each gain 1 Boon to the next roll pursuing that alternative this scene. This grants no automatic success or specialist permission.
Duration: Information remains known; Boons expire when used or the scene ends.

Limits: One examination of an obstacle per scene unless its circumstances change.

3 Wrong Place for That

Reaction · None — no roll 4 DP
Signature / Skill / Movement · Class Odd; minimum level 3

You catch a companion by the sleeve and stumble away together, leaving the next blow aimed at suddenly empty ground.

Target: Self and one adjacent willing ally, after an attack against either of you resolves.
You and that ally may each move up to 2 squares without provoking. Choose the order and legal free endpoints. Each must still be able to move. The triggering attack has already resolved; this provides no retroactive protection.
Duration: Immediate movement.

7 Strange but Effective

Main Action · Guile 8 DP
Signature / Skill / Control / Utility · Class Odd; minimum level 7

You loop a strap, plant your heel against a unlikely purchase and pull with a grin as the whole problem lurches sideways.

Target: One adjacent obstacle or creature, or your own Grappled condition.
Choose Force's intended result before rolling: obstacle progress, reducing your Grappled rating, or pushing a creature. Describe a plausible means of exerting force.

- Weak: 2 progress, Grappled reduction, or squares of push.
- Standard: 3 progress, Grappled reduction, or squares of push.
- Strong: 4 progress, Grappled reduction, or squares of push.

Afterward you may move up to 2 squares without provoking if able. Grappled 3 leaves no Main Action to spend; this cannot release a fully restrained user.
Stability: apply it only to the push option, not obstacle progress or Grappled reduction.
Duration: Immediate progress, reduction or push, then movement.

7 An Unexpected Exit

Maneuver · None — no roll 8 DP
Signature / Skill / Movement · Class Odd; minimum level 7

You spot the half-hidden stair, haul your companion toward it and disappear from the place everyone thought had you cornered.

Target: Self and optionally one adjacent willing ally.
Move up to your Speed without provoking. The ally may follow along a legal route up to the same distance, spending no action, and must end in a separate free square adjacent to you. Both must be able to move; this does not cross standing occupied squares, barriers or otherwise impassable terrain.
Duration: Immediate movement.

Limits: Once on your turn.

7 One Last Remark

Reaction · None — no roll 8 DP
Signature / Skill / Movement / Attack · Class Odd; minimum level 7

You answer the cry of pain with a sharp, stubborn joke, giving your companion something to do before despair catches up.

Target: One willing ally within 4 squares that can hear you, after it takes damage; alternatively, when you hear an ally's Last Words within 4 squares.
After damage resolves, the chosen ally may move up to 3 squares without provoking or make one free Basic Melee attack against an adjacent enemy. It must be able to take the chosen action.
If triggered by Last Words instead, choose up to two other willing allies within 4 squares that can hear you; each chooses one of those benefits. The dying speaker gains no action, and its death is neither delayed nor reversed.
Basic Melee uses each attacker's Brawn, weapon and normal outcomes. Damage from a free attack cannot trigger a free attack through this card; no further free attacks arise from these attacks.
Duration: Immediate chosen benefits.

Limits: Normal Reaction cost; the Last Words benefit can trigger once per dying ally.

Warden

You read the broken fern, the distant cry and the turn of a fleeing creature. When the road ends, your companions look to you.

Attributes: Fortitude, Knowledge ≥ 0. HP: +4. Coins: +2.

Level 7 choices

- Bring Them Through
- Know What You Hunt

1 Keep the Quarry Close

Passive · None — no roll 2 DP
Signature / Skill / Movement · Class Warden; minimum level 1

You loose your shot, watch the quarry turn and run to keep its path in view.

Target: Self, after your Main Action attack against one visible creature.
Once on your turn, after resolving a Standard or Strong Main Action attack, move toward one creature affected by it: up to 1 square on Standard, or 2 on Strong. This movement does not provoke. You must be able to move and follow a legal route; it grants no attack.
Duration: Instant.

Limits: Once on your turn.

1 Read the Passing

Main Action · None — no roll 2 DP
Signature / Skill / Utility · Class Warden; minimum level 1

You kneel beside a bent stem, brush grit from a footprint and look toward the gap the travelers chose.

Time: One minute.
Target: Accessible tracks or other physical signs you can examine for one minute.
Examine the signs for one minute. Learn the direction of travel and one supported detail about the travelers, such as their number, gait or burden. If the signs cannot support either answer, learn what obscures them. Gain 1 Boon to your next roll following this trail this scene. Obvious tracks remain readable by anyone; this reveals no exact unseen location or evidence that does not exist.
Duration: Information remains known; the Boon ends when used or the scene ends.

Limits: Once per set of signs; new evidence permits another use.

1 Follow My Footsteps

Maneuver · None — no roll 2 DP
Signature / Skill / Movement · Class Warden; minimum level 1

You test the ground with your boot and offer a hand, bringing your companion onto the firm patch beside you.

Target: Self and one adjacent willing ally able to move.
Move up to 1 square, then the ally may move up to 1 square. Both movements ignore difficult-terrain surcharges and do not provoke. Each must follow a legal route and end in a separate supported free square. This does not cross gaps or standing creatures. The ally spends no action.
Duration: Instant.

Limits: Each participant moves once per use.

3 Stay on the Scent

Reaction · None — no roll 4 DP
Signature / Skill / Movement · Class Warden; minimum level 3

You watch the first turn of their shoulders and cut toward their escape route before their footsteps fade.

Target: One visible enemy within 5 squares when it begins voluntary movement.
After that movement ends, move up to 3 squares toward its final position without provoking, if you can still see it. Gain 1 Boon to your next attack against it before the end of your next turn. You must be able to move; this grants no attack and does not reveal a creature that becomes Hidden.
Duration: Movement is immediate; the Boon ends when used or at the end of your next turn.

Limits: One Reaction per use; repeated uses do not multiply the unused Boon.

3 Through Bramble and Stone

Maneuver · None — no roll 4 DP
Signature / Skill / Movement · Class Warden; minimum level 3

You lift a thorny branch, find a foothold between the stones and turn to show your companion the way through.

Target: Self and one willing ally initially adjacent.
Move up to 3 squares along a legal route, ignoring difficult-terrain surcharges and without provoking. Then the ally may move up to 1 square with the same benefits, ending adjacent to you. Both must be able to move and finish in supported free squares. If the ally cannot reach a legal adjacent endpoint, it stays where it is. No gaps, barriers or occupied standing squares are crossed.
Duration: Instant.

Limits: Each participant moves once per use.

3 A Watchful Rest

Main Action · None — no roll 4 DP
Signature / Skill / Utility · Class Warden; minimum level 3

You circle the camp, test the ground for water and point out the approaches before assigning the first watch.

Time: Ten minutes.
Target: A possible resting place and up to six willing companions; ten minutes of examination.
Spend ten minutes examining an accessible resting place. Learn its exposed approaches and any local environmental danger that observable signs can reveal. Prepare a watch plan. For the next eight hours while remaining there, you and the chosen companions gain 1 Boon to consequential rolls noticing approaching danger. This grants no automatic detection, shelter, supplies, safe-place ruling or Grit recovery. Sleeping characters do not become awake observers.
Duration: Eight hours or until the group leaves.

Limits: One prepared resting place per Warden; preparing another ends the previous benefit.

7 Turn the Hunt

Main Action · Knowledge 8 DP
Signature / Skill / Attack / Movement · Class Warden; minimum level 7

You read the turn of the beast's weight and strike where its next step must fall, driving it toward the ground you chose.

Target: One visible creature: adjacent with a melee weapon, or within 8 squares with a ranged weapon and ammunition.
Choose melee or ranged before rolling Knowledge. Make one attack.

- Weak: Deal 4 physical damage and push the target 1 square.
- Standard: Deal 5 physical damage and push it 2 squares.
- Strong: Deal 7 physical damage, push it 3 squares and apply Slowed 2.

After resolving the attack, you may move 1 square without provoking. Ranged use checks ammunition once after the attack. These are complete outcomes; this card requires no earlier signature.
Duration: Damage and movement are immediate; Slowed decays normally.
Gear: On learning, choose one ordinary melee weapon or one ordinary ranged weapon with a d8 ammunition bundle; grant each chosen item only if absent. Each item is Bulk 1. Each use requires the equipment for its chosen attack mode.

Limits: One attack per use.

7 Bring Them Through

Maneuver · None — no roll 8 DP
Signature / Skill / Movement · Class Warden; minimum level 7

You call out footholds and openings in a steady voice, guiding your companions through the broken ground before the enemy can close it.

Target: Up to three willing allies visible within 4 squares, able to hear your directions and move.
Each ally may move up to 3 squares along a legal route without provoking, ignoring difficult-terrain surcharges. Resolve them one at a time; each ends in a supported free square. This does not cross gaps, barriers or occupied standing creatures. Allies spend no actions.
Duration: Instant.

Limits: Each ally moves once per use.

7 Know What You Hunt

Main Action · None — no roll 8 DP
Signature / Skill / Utility · Class Warden; minimum level 7

You point out the plates that overlap, the limb it favors and the moment its breath catches, telling your companions where to meet it.

Target: One visible creature within 8 squares that you have seen perform an ability or leave physical evidence.
Study the creature and name up to three willing allies within 5 squares who can hear you. The DA reveals two true, useful facts from its actual resistances, weaknesses or observed ability restrictions. If fewer exist, learn all that exist; invent none. Each chosen ally gains 1 Boon to its next roll acting against that creature this scene. This does not expose its thoughts, unseen location or an unobserved secret identity.
Duration: Facts remain known; each Boon ends when used or the scene ends.

Limits: Once per creature per scene; repeated uses do not renew spent benefits.

CHAPTER 5

Disciplines and Character Paths

A discipline is a field of study. An ability is something you have learned to do with it. Your hero might study Arms to practice martial techniques, Life to restore others, or Scholarship to understand and exploit what others overlook.

Ranks run from 1 to 3 and must be bought in order. There is no level gate on a rank, but the ability you want may require level 3 or 7. Read the requirements before spending: Arms 2 and Subterfuge 1 means you must own both. A rank by itself grants no action, equipment, attribute bonus or unrestricted use of that discipline's cards.

Your class makes some disciplines easier to develop than others. A Blade learns martial techniques readily; an Arcanist has a shorter road into elemental magic. Both can study beyond those strengths. Abilities themselves cost the same DP at each tier, whatever your class.

Buying ranks

You cannot buy disciplines at level 0. After choosing your class, use the table on the following reference page or the prices in your class entry. Each cell lists the separate costs of rank 1 / rank 2 / rank 3, in DP. Buy them in order.

A Blade learning Arms from scratch pays 1 DP for rank 1, then 2 DP for rank 2, then 4 DP for rank 3: 7 DP altogether. That same Blade pays 3, 6 and 12 DP for Life. Odd pays 2 / 4 / 8 DP for every discipline.

The discipline cards below describe each field. These shared purchase rules apply to all eighteen disciplines. Each symbol also appears on ability headers; the small number over its lower edge is the required rank.

Choose a direction

Imagine what you want to do for the company. A healer might protect a retreat, restore HP, treat lasting injuries, or combine all three. A nature-focused hero might become a beast, command an animal, control the ground, or guide companions through dangerous country. These are different choices even when they share a theme.

The four character paths that follow show different ways to build a hero: a Thinking Fighter, Green Healer, Spellblade and Light-Fingered Adventurer. They are examples, not subclasses. Mix them freely where you meet the requirements. The listed cards do not waive DP, tier or discipline requirements, and a suggested future card is not part of your starting equipment.

Keep a few abilities ready for the scenes you expect most often. You may know several attacks, but you still have only the actions you can spend. A useful Maneuver, Reaction, travel skill or social technique can matter more than another similar Main Action.

Discipline costs by class

Each cell gives rank 1 / rank 2 / rank 3, in DP. These are separate purchases, not cumulative totals. Read across to compare classes or down to plan your own studies.

Some studies come naturally to your class; others take more development. Every discipline remains available after level 0.

A starting rank granted by your origin or class is already owned. Pay only for ranks you still need, in order. Ability prices remain 2 / 4 / 8 DP by tier.

Armor

You learn to carry protection as part of your own body, moving with its weight instead of against it.

Using armor and moving effectively while protected.

Arms

You practice until distance, timing and the turn of a weapon become familiar companions.

Practiced melee techniques; weapon appearance never determines damage.

Athletics

You learn what your body can do when the easy path ends.

Expert movement and exertion beyond ordinary Brawn or Agility tasks.

Calling

You learn the names and gestures that bring an answer from somewhere beyond your reach.

Summoned creatures and command techniques.

Craft

You learn to see the useful thing waiting inside the raw material.

Recipes, repairs and derivation; no group crafting.

Flame

You come to know the difference between a warming ember and a fire asking to be freed.

Fire damage, heat and controlled ignition.

Frost

You learn to listen to stillness and give it the shape of winter.

Cold damage, freezing and ice shaping.

Guard

You practice being where another person needs you before they have to ask.

Shields, interception and protection of others.

Influence

You learn how a voice can open a door, steady a friend or turn a room.

Leadership, negotiation and credible social pressure; never mind control.

Life

You learn to feel the fragile warmth that living things carry between one breath and the next.

Healing and draining the same life energy; resistance interacts with both.

Marksmanship

You practice until the distant mark feels connected to the movement of your hand.

Ranged and thrown techniques, including precise placement.

Medicine

You learn to recognize hurt, and to remain patient when the injured cannot.

Nonmagical wound treatment and condition care.

Mind

You learn to touch the uncertain border between what is there and what is perceived.

Mental attacks and temporary disabling effects.

Radiance

You learn to shape brightness into something that reveals, shelters or confronts.

Radiant attacks, illumination and revealing magic.

Scholarship

You learn to ask the question that makes an old fact useful in a new place.

Interpreting evidence, languages, histories and unfamiliar devices.

Storm

You learn the moods of moving air and the restless energy that gathers within it.

Lightning, thunder and wind-driven displacement.

Subterfuge

You learn to work in the space between what people notice and what they assume.

Stealth, misdirection and quiet access.

Wilderness

You learn to read a living landscape and find your place within it.

Environment-specific foraging and outdoor expertise.

Character paths

These four example builds show how shared abilities can express familiar fantasy heroes. Use a path as a starting idea, combine it with another, or change it freely. The suggestions waive no costs or requirements; choose a few starting abilities and grow toward the rest.

Green Healer

Where you kneel, crushed grass begins to rise.

What you bring: Healing; recovery; sanctuary.

Begin the story

Learn Sap and Breath with Life 1. Any HOL class can buy it after meeting its requirements. An origin granting Life 1 can put the idea within reach at level 0.

At the table

Choose who needs your strength and what else they need besides HP: less bleeding, their feet beneath them, or relief from poison. Healing remains a personal expenditure. The character can be gentle, severe or unsettling; the green magic does not require a kindly personality.

Give it room to grow

- At level 3, A Bough for the Fallen (Life 2 and Wilderness 1) opens another way to affect the scene.
- At level 7, The Grove Gives Back (Life 3 and Wilderness 1) offers a larger moment.

Try combining this with Root Keeper. The roles describe what you enjoy, not everything you may do.

Light-Fingered Adventurer

A lock, a ledge, a dangling key: the world is full of invitations.

What you bring: Infiltration; object play.

Begin the story

Learn The Key Changes Hands with Subterfuge 1. Any HOL class can buy it after meeting its requirements. An origin granting Subterfuge 1 can put the idea within reach at level 0.

At the table

Notice the useful object as readily as the dangerous enemy. An early theft still requires proximity; lock-reading brings Reason to entry; the distant theft makes a moment of a key nobody can reach. The rules specify objects so the player can invent the opportunity.

Give it room to grow

- At level 3, A Lock Has a Language (Subterfuge 2) opens another way to affect the scene.
- At level 7, An Impossible Theft (Subterfuge 3) offers a larger moment.

Try combining this with Roadside Artificer. The roles describe what you enjoy, not everything you may do.

Spellblade

Steel carries the spark exactly where you want it.

What you bring: Melee magic; flexible range.

Begin the story

Learn Ember Along the Edge with Flame 1 and Arms 1. Any HOL class can buy it after meeting its requirements. At level 0, a Flame origin pair and an Arms origin pair together can qualify you; Flame alone is insufficient.

At the table

The weapon is a conductor for your magic, not a second equipment damage chart. Get close, deliver heat with the strike, then use a spark-step when the line shifts. The same training could look like a burning walking stick or a ceremonial sword.

Give it room to grow

- At level 3, Step Through the Spark (Flame 2) opens another way to affect the scene.
- At level 7, A Sword Made of Dawn (Flame 3 and Arms 1) offers a larger moment.

Try combining this with Ward Weaver. The roles describe what you enjoy, not everything you may do.

Thinking Fighter

The fight happens once in your mind before your hand moves.

What you bring: Knowledge melee; prediction.

Begin the story

Learn Anatomy of an Opening with Scholarship 1. Any HOL class can buy it after meeting its requirements. An origin granting Scholarship 1 can put the idea within reach at level 0.

At the table

Describe the detail you noticed: a shoulder held too high, a knee that will not bend, an impatient breath. Knowledge drives the attack, while your later defensive technique spends a Reaction to bring Reason into the fight. Your deductions make you dangerous without making you strong.

Give it room to grow

- At level 3, Read the Next Blow (Scholarship 2) opens another way to affect the scene.
- At level 7, Checkmate in Three Steps (Scholarship 3) offers a larger moment.

Try combining this with Field Alchemist. The roles describe what you enjoy, not everything you may do.

CHAPTER 6

Playing the Game

A drawn blade changes the conversation. A broken bridge changes the journey. The rules help you decide what those changes mean when timing, danger and the choices of several characters meet.

Begin with what your hero is doing. You can use a learned ability, take a universal action, or describe something the situation makes possible. The DA establishes the circumstances and calls for a roll only when uncertainty has consequences.

Resolve an action

When you use an ability, declare it before rolling. Read its requirements, choose its targets and any printed options, and check range and equipment. Spend the action and any required cost. Roll its attribute if instructed, then apply the complete Weak, Standard or Strong outcome. Finally, record conditions and continuing effects.

An outcome is complete: do not add the Weak damage to the Standard damage. If a Strong outcome includes an earlier benefit, it says so. Instant damage happens once; a condition applied by that damage follows the condition's own timing.

A no-roll ability still costs its printed action. A treatment that takes an hour cannot be completed in one combat turn merely because it is indexed as a Main Action.

Boons, Banes and results

Roll three dice, plus one die for each net Boon or Bane, to a maximum of six dice. With Boons, retain the best three; with Banes, retain the worst three. Add the printed attribute once. Weak is 8 or less, Standard 9–14, and Strong 15 or more.

Circumstance	Usual adjustment
Meaningful help or obstacle	1 Boon or Bane
Substantial help or a severe obstacle	2 Boons or Banes
Exceptional advantage or difficulty, still possible	3 Boons or Banes

These are guides for the DA. They do not turn an impossible attempt into a possible one. Do not count the same obstacle twice under different names. Boons and Banes from distinct valid sources stack, cancel, and then use the three-die net limit.

> Example — keeping the best three. An attack has 3 Boons and 1 Bane, leaving 2 Boons. Roll five dice. On 1, 2, 4, 5, 6, retain 4, 5, 6 for 15. Brawn +1 makes 16, a Strong result. If two Banes remained instead, retain 1, 2, 4 for 7; Brawn +1 would give 8, a Weak result. Neither roll changes the attack's printed damage.

Read retained natural 111 as Weak with an additional complication and 666 as Strong with an additional benefit. The result still makes its printed progress. The DA fits a benefit or complication to the scene; it does not silently double damage or grant another action.

Taking turns

At the start of combat, one player rolls unmodified 3d6. On 12 or more, the player side acts first. Otherwise the opposing side begins. This determines which side starts every round of this combat; do not roll again each round.

The starting side chooses one of its characters to act. Then the other side chooses one. Alternate until everyone has taken a turn. If one side has no characters left to act, the other finishes its remaining turns. A character takes one turn each round. Each side chooses its order as it goes.

On your turn, you have one Main Action, one Maneuver, and movement up to your Speed. You also have one Reaction, available for its stated trigger. Refresh that turn's budget at the start of your turn. A defense roll does not itself spend a Reaction. Choose your retained categories at turn start if Dazed or Grappled.

You can split movement around your actions. You can convert your Main Action into a Maneuver and a Maneuver into another movement allowance. Conversion goes only in that direction. Converting your Main and original Maneuver into movement gives three total movement allowances: a full sprint.

> Example — reaching an ally. Speed 6 lets Mara move 6 squares. She converts her Maneuver into movement for 6 more, then uses her Main Action to heal a companion. She has not gained a second Main Action, and any difficult terrain costs still apply.

A Reaction resolves when its trigger says it does, including on someone else's turn. Once spent, it is unavailable until refreshed. A free attack granted by an ability spends no action and may occur more than once in a turn, but free attacks never trigger additional free attacks. Read the granting effect to see which attack it allows.

Attacking and defending

Players roll. When your hero attacks, roll the attack's printed attribute and read its attacker outcomes. This is true even if the target is another player character; the receiving player does not also roll a defense.

When a DA-controlled creature attacks you, roll the defense attribute specified by that attack. It might be Agility to evade a blow, Fortitude to withstand a bodily assault, or another attribute named by the attack. Apply the result from its Weak defense / Standard defense / Strong defense columns. Weak defense is the most dangerous outcome; Strong defense is the least dangerous.

Player's defense	Equivalent attacker outcome
Weak	Strong attack
Standard	Standard attack
Strong	Weak attack

Creature Evasion adds its printed Boons or Banes to your attack. Threat adds its printed Boons or Banes to your defense against that creature's attack. These use the ordinary dice rules; do not add them numerically to the total.

If you control a summon, roll that creature's printed attributes. Its player profile already presents attack outcomes in the correct direction. Your hero's own Brawn or Reason does not replace the summon's value.

Damage and resistance

Damage comes from the chosen outcome, not a weapon damage die. Your attribute has already affected the roll; do not add it again to damage. Apply each matching resistance after determining the outcome. Armor DR is physical resistance.

Use the highest applicable resistance of each type, to a maximum of 3. Two sources of physical resistance 2 do not give 4. Physical resistance 2 and Fire resistance 1 can apply together because they protect against different types.

A damaging event always deals at least 1 total damage after resistance. This minimum applies to the event, not separately to every component. It does not create damage for a harmless ability. Conditions, pushes and other riders still apply unless their own rules prevent them.

> Example — steel and flame. An attack deals 3 physical and 1 fire damage. Physical resistance 2 reduces the physical portion to 1. Fire resistance 1 removes the fire portion. Take 1 total damage, not one of each type. If both portions had been reduced to zero, the event would still deal its minimum 1 total damage.

Physical includes impacts, sonic force and supernatural force when the attack says physical. Fire, Cold and Lightning have separate resistances even though their wounds share the Elemental table. Life resistance also reduces ordinary HP healing.

Same-kind numerical bonuses do not add together unless explicitly stated. Conditions with meaningful ratings can add; binary Prone cannot. Boons and Banes use their own stacking rules. Where a creature has a weakness, use its printed procedure; do not invent extra damage simply from a descriptive vulnerability.

Shields and guarded positions

Defend is a universal Maneuver that gives 1 Boon to defenses until the start of your next turn. Repeating Defend does not increase that same benefit.

Shield Block spends a Reaction before an eligible defense. While you use the held shield, gain 1 Boon to defenses against attacks the DA judges it can block, until the start of your next turn. Most ordinary physical attacks can be blocked. Defend and Shield Block are separate sources: together they supply 2 Boons. Creatures use shields the same way.

Opportunity attacks

Leaving an enemy's melee reach voluntarily, casting beside it, standing, stowing an item, or retrieving an item can provoke. The enemy may spend its Reaction to make Basic Melee, never a specialty card. Resolve that attack at the start of the provoking action, before the original action takes effect.

Then continue the original action if its actor is capable. Damage alone does not cancel it. An actor reduced to Dying cannot continue. Commit the action on declaration; if interrupted permanently, that action is spent. Additional HP or item costs are paid only when the action continues into resolution. An unspent potion is not drunk by an interrupted character who can no longer act.

Drawing a weapon as part of attacking adds no separate action. Dropping an item is free. Stowing or picking up an item costs a Maneuver. Forced movement never provokes. An ability can explicitly allow movement without provoking.

> Example — a spell under pressure. Vaelis begins casting beside an armed foe. The foe spends its Reaction on Basic Melee. Vaelis makes the required defense and loses HP. Still conscious and otherwise capable, Vaelis continues the spell and pays any remaining printed cost. A healing spell cannot proceed if its upfront life cost would leave its caster at 0 HP.

Distance, space and cover

All distances use squares. A square is the useful unit for your map; it does not require a fixed conversion into feet or meters. A diagonal step costs one square. Normal ground costs 1 movement; difficult ground costs 2.

You cannot move through an occupied square unless its occupant is Prone. That square costs 2 movement, and you cannot end there. Standing costs 2 movement. An ability that moves you without provoking still respects terrain, occupied spaces and legal endpoints unless it explicitly says otherwise.

A target you must see must actually be visible. An attack also needs a path to it. Partial obstruction gives 1 Bane; heavy cover gives 3 Banes. Heavy cover still leaves a narrow attack path, such as fighting from behind a wall or dense thicket. A solid barrier with no attack path prevents that attack. Concealment that prevents you from seeing a sight-required target is not merely heavy cover.

For a player area attack, choose the printed range, shape, inclusion and exclusions. Roll once using the worst applicable net Boon/Bane situation among its targets. Use that result for all targets; apply their resistances individually. When an NPC area attack affects several players, each player makes their own defense roll.

Push, pull and throw

A push moves a target away; a pull brings it toward the source. Follow a card's specific direction and shape. Apply Stability once to the initial target, reducing the available forced movement, to a minimum of 0. Stability is normally 0; only an explicit grant increases it. Use the highest source, maximum 3. Spend the entered square's terrain cost from the movement budget. If any positive budget remains, the target enters the final square even if its cost exceeds that budget, then stops. For example, push 1 can enter one difficult square and stop. Stability does not reduce Prone, conditions, voluntary movement, projectile range, obstacle progress or the reduction of a grapple.
A collision with another movable creature forms a moving group. Apply collision damage to the participants using movement remaining on contact, then subtract the new creature's Stability once before continuing. The group moves together; do not charge the same creature's Stability twice in that movement. A hard obstruction stops the group and deals remaining-budget collision damage +1 to each member. The original mover then bounces one square in the opposite direction if possible.

> Example — Stability in a chain. Push 5 strikes Stability 1, leaving 4. After one normal square, 3 remains. The moving creature strikes a new creature with Stability 2. Resolve the contact, subtract 2, and use the remaining 1 to move the group one further normal square. If the attack also inflicted Burning, stopping the movement would not remove that condition.

> Playtest ruling — crowded collisions. Never finish with overlapping occupants. If a large moving group cannot fit, the DA stops it before illegal overlap and places its members in the nearest legal squares along the route. This is a temporary geometry ruling, not permission to pass through a wall or standing creature.

Grappling and capture

Grappling requires a learned ability; it is not automatically granted with Basic Melee. Grappled prevents movement. At ratings 1, 2 and 3, retain respectively two, one or none of Main Action, Maneuver and Reaction, chosen at turn start. The grappler is restricted by their own contribution as well. Multiple grapplers' contributions add on the target. Attacks against a Grappled target gain Boons equal to its rating.
If you still have a Main Action, Force can reduce your grapple by 1/2/3. Grappled 3 needs outside help. A grappler can freely release their own contribution. A grapple is maintained and does not simply decay at turn end.
Attacks are lethal by default. Taking a prisoner requires a printed nonlethal ability, grappling or restraint. Once a helpless captive is secured and no combat remains, return to ordinary narration. You do not need to keep taking turns to conduct a conversation.

Ending a fight

A fight ends when the immediate opposition is resolved, not because everyone decides to ignore an active death roll. Resolve Dying before leaving combat timing. When it is safe to pause and companions can attend to an ordinary fire or similar immediate hazard, settle that hazard as the scene allows. Other conditions remain until their own removal, expiry or remedy. A safe breath restores HP; it does not remove wounds, refund Grit, cure every condition or reverse Last Words.

CHAPTER 7

Beyond the Battlefield

The road matters. So do the people at its end. A warm welcome, a sound bridge and a name remembered at the right moment can carry your company farther than another weapon. Your abilities include ways to navigate these scenes, but you always begin with what your hero says and does.

Explore with purpose

Tell the DA what you examine, how you approach, and what you hope to learn. If lifting the rug reveals the trapdoor, you find it by lifting the rug. No perception roll is needed to discover a fact your action plainly reveals.

When searching involves uncertainty and a meaningful consequence, the DA calls for Reason. When someone might perceive your concealed hero, roll Agility to remain Hidden; the observer does not make an opposed roll. You need a plausible place to hide. Dice do not make you disappear in open view.

Active searching or attempting to hide in combat costs a Main Action unless an ability says otherwise. Hidden is universal, not separately tracked for each observer. Attacking or openly revealing yourself ends it. The DA judges whether movement maintains actual concealment. Invisible is different: you cannot be seen, but your location is not necessarily unknown.

Before an unscripted roll, establish what progress means and what the consequences are. A Weak search might narrow the location without exposing the answer; a Weak concealment attempt might reach cover while leaving evidence of where you went. These examples are possibilities, not automatic effects that override the scene.

Consequences that matter

A consequence is what is at stake: injury, lost time, exposure, spent supplies, a worse position or a closing opportunity. A complication adds a problem while preserving any progress already earned. A benefit gives a useful advantage. The DA explains the stakes before asking for the roll.

If you can repeat an attempt indefinitely without cost, danger or changed circumstances, the table may be better served by describing the time and completing it. If failure would seal an escape route or alert a guard, say so before rolling. Weak always means its stated progress, not an unannounced success or an automatic failure.

Work as a group

Group checks occur outside combat. The DA sets a progress target and states whether the task is binary or cumulative. Each participating character rolls an appropriate attribute, contributing 1 progress on Weak, 2 on Standard, or 3 on Strong. Add the contributions and compare the total to the target.

For a binary task, meet the target in that attempt or the task is not completed. For a cumulative task, retain progress between attempts as the task allows. The DA states the time and consequence of each attempt. You can provide Aid or contribute your own group roll, not both to the same attempt.

> Example — the swollen gate. Three heroes heave against a gate before a patrol arrives. The DA sets a binary target of 7. Weak, Strong and Strong contribute 1 + 3 + 3 = 7: the gate opens. Weak, Standard and Strong would total 6; the gate would stay shut and the declared consequence would follow. Pushing a boulder uphill might instead retain those 6 progress for a later attempt.

Crafting, deriving recipes and wound treatment do not use group checks. Their individual procedures and daily limits remain in force.

Travel and the outdoors

Ordinary travel does not require routine rolls, and HOL has no exhaustion track. The DA calls for a roll when weather, pursuit, a dangerous route or another specific circumstance creates a consequence. Supplies and time still matter. Decide what your company carries, shares, buys or obtains with its abilities.

Foraging expertise comes from an appropriate environment card. It is not a universal permission to identify every edible mushroom. Other heroes can still inspect the land, collect something they already recognize, or help in a way the scene permits. Specialist cards provide their own outcomes and limitations.

Climbing and swimming normally cost 2 movement per square, like difficult terrain. This does not make a sheer unsupported wall climbable or an impassable current safe. A specialist ability can improve the activity. Roll only when the execution is uncertain and the consequence matters.

Jumping and falling

A running broad jump reaches max(1, 2 + Agility) squares. It needs two squares of approach; without that approach, halve the maximum, rounding down to a minimum of 1. A high jump reaches max(0, 1 + floor(Agility ÷ 2)) squares and needs no approach. Spend movement for the distance traveled and land in a legal, supported, free square.

Agility	Running broad jump	Standing broad jump	High jump
−2	1	1	0
−1	1	1	0
0	2	1	1
+1	3	1	1

Zero high-jump squares does not mean you cannot hop over a low obstacle. The grid measures large clearances. Safe jumps within your limits need no roll; a risky landing can call for Agility. Jumping does not grant extra movement or passage through a barrier.

Falling deals 3 physical damage per complete 2 squares fallen. Round the distance down to complete pairs before multiplying; normal physical resistance applies. A fall of 5 squares deals 6 damage before resistance. A fall under 2 squares has no automatic falling damage. Exceptional surfaces and landing circumstances are DA rulings.

Talk, bargain and persuade

Speak for your character, summarize what they say, or use a mixture of both. Explain what you want and why the other person might agree. The DA portrays their interests, knowledge and limits. A roll resolves uncertainty; it does not erase their motives.

Use the attribute printed on a social ability. Without one, the DA calls for an attribute appropriate to the approach. Guile might carry a deceptive bargain; Knowledge might establish a technical argument; Reason might find the important contradiction. A useful fact or appropriate gesture can make a roll unnecessary.

A scar's intimidation Boon or persuasion Bane applies when the scar actually influences the interaction. The DA decides that circumstance, just as they decide whether a wound affects a physical activity. Personality and allegiance remain choices, not penalties assigned by a condition table.

Magic in your hands

Magic is learned through abilities and disciplines. There are no spell slots or mana pools. A spell uses the same action, attribute and outcome structure as another ability, with its printed requirements and costs. An attack spell still produces its Weak result on a Weak roll; it does not simply fizzle.

You choose a card before rolling. A line, rectangle or placed area must use its printed dimensions and range. Connected placed squares share edges. Decide targets and any damage-type choice before rolling. An illustration or evocative description does not silently make the area larger or add a condition.

Defensive interference and disruption are supplied by abilities. There is no universal spell-cancellation roll. Casting beside an enemy can provoke an opportunity attack; resolve it before continuing the spell if still capable.

Beast forms keep your own HP, attributes and wounds. They are not replaceable HP pools. Use the form's printed actions and equipment restrictions. A form does not import an entire monster entry or grant spellcasting if its rules forbid it.

Moser's law of conservation of Life energy

Healing magic transfers life energy; it does not create it freely. A Novice healing spell costs its caster 1 HP, an Adept spell 3 HP, and a Master spell 7 HP. Pay the full cost before rolling. This cost bypasses all resistance and must leave the caster above 0 HP. You cannot begin a healing spell by sacrificing your last HP. The cost applies regardless of the tradition used to describe the spell. Healing requires a free hand. Restore the outcome's printed fixed HP, reduce it by the recipient's Life resistance, and restore at least 1 if HP is missing. Never exceed maximum HP. Healing does not erase wounds or reverse Last Words. Potions have their own fixed value and inventory procedure, without a spell outcome roll or caster cost.

> Example — energy has a price. A Novice healer at 5 HP pays 1 and falls to 4, then rolls the spell. If its outcome restores 4 HP to a companion with Life resistance 2, the companion regains 2. The caster cannot use the same spell at 1 HP, because paying first would leave them at 0.

A healing spell can attack a creature whose profile says healing harms it. Use the spell's attack attribute, range and cost. Its HP result becomes Life damage; beneficial recovery riders do not help that target. This follows the ordinary player-roll procedure, with no extra opposed save.

Make, identify and derive

A crafting card grants the capability to work; a recipe describes the specific thing you can make. Recipes specify permission, tools, materials, time and output. Choose the recipes granted when learning your crafting ability. Ordinary Recipe Study offers additional eligible recipes through DP. Other recipes can be found or derived; they are not automatically on sale for coins.

Acquire the actual ingredients. Foraged materials need not be carried indefinitely; carried bundles use their printed Bulk and inventory die. Complete the recipe's full time, roll the crafting card's attribute, and increase one existing product supply by 1/2/3 inventory steps as the recipe allows. Starting from out, the first step is d4. Never exceed the recipe's cap. Check carried material supply after use.

Derivation is reverse engineering, not the same as identification. Identification cards reveal what their outcomes say; an item may require that understanding before use. A magical sword may work at once, while a tome may remain unusable until understood. A derivation card specifies its target and work interval. Exceptional objects can require years of accumulated work. No group crafting or group derivation shortens it.

Rest and development

The DA determines whether a place is safe enough to spend saved DP. Level awards are milestones, not payment for each defeated creature. Keep a record of purchases, prerequisites, recipes and scars so your development remains clear.

A wound may require repeated daily treatment even after you are ready to adventure. An inn, a friendly workshop, a healer's garden or a camp among allies can become part of the story. Rest restores what its rule says it restores. It does not refund Grit, remove a permanent scar, or refill a bottle whose inventory die is out.

Languages

A familiar greeting can open a door that gold cannot. An inscription can preserve an enemy's warning long after the enemy is dust. Languages tell you whom your hero can understand and which voices shaped their life. They do not determine ancestry, allegiance or character.

Choose your languages

Begin with Common and one other ordinary language learned in the community that raised you. Common is the campaign's shared trade language; the DA may give it a local name. Choose your other language with the DA from the list below or the campaign's equivalent. Any ancestry may know any language. Culture suggests where you learned it, rather than imposing a compulsory choice.

Record the language's actual name, not just "regional" or "community language." If Common was your only home language, choose another ordinary language learned through neighbors, work or travel. This starting choice is separate from your culture's discipline and ability pair and costs no DP.

Apply explicit extra grants afterward. A Foot in Two Worlds grants two additional ordinary spoken languages. Choose two distinct languages you do not already know; it does not grant another culture's abilities. A signed language is an ordinary language when the campaign uses it, but a grant restricted to spoken languages does not include it.

Unless a grant says otherwise, knowing a language includes speaking, understanding, and reading and writing its usual script, if it has one. A grant that specifically says spoken, understands or cannot speak keeps that restriction. Record such limits beside the language. Speaking a language does not require a separate skill rating, and attributes grant no automatic extra languages.

Ordinary languages

These are starting options, not a required history of the world. Their names describe familiar traditions; anyone raised among their speakers may learn them. Each row is one language unless it explicitly asks you to name a particular one.

Language	Where you might learn or encounter it
Common	Markets, mixed settlements, roads and adventuring companies.
Regional language	Choose one named local language: a river kingdom, island community or frontier valley. Each is a separate choice.
Dwarven	Deep halls, quarry towns and craft communities; records of lineage, work and agreements.
Elven	Woodland settlements and long-lived artistic traditions; songs, histories and correspondence.
Halfling	Hearth communities, traveling families and river villages; stories and everyday business.
Goblin	Goblin communities and their neighbors; salvage yards, markets and warrens.
Orc	Orc communities and their neighbors; border settlements, expeditions and oral histories.
Giant	Giant communities and peoples who trade with them; landmarks, stone records and remembered journeys.
Kobold	Kobold communities and their neighbors; tunnel works, workshops and trading posts.
Harbor Cant	Multilingual ports and ship crews. A full local language, not universal knowledge of every sailor's slang.
Way Sign	A complete signed language shared by participating communities. Communication requires sight and usable signing gestures.

Uncommon and ancient languages

These languages are not included in an unrestricted ordinary language grant. Choose one only when a grant explicitly allows it or the DA makes it an ordinary option for the campaign before character creation. Their availability reflects the setting, not a higher numerical bonus.

Language	Where it becomes useful
Draconic	Speaking with dragons and their learned allies; reading draconic inscriptions. Kobold is a separate language.
Fey	Negotiating with fey courts and woodland powers; understanding their stories and spoken bargains.
Infernal	Speaking with fiends and interpreting their correspondence or contracts. Knowing it does not bind or summon anything.
Celestial	Conversations with celestial beings and some sacred traditions. It grants no divine authority.
Elemental	Speech used by elemental beings capable of language. It does not let you command fire, weather or an unintelligent elemental.
Elder Tongue	Choose one named lost or ancient scholarly language. Different vanished civilizations need not share it.

A sacred text may be written in Common, Dwarven or any other language. "Sacred," "scholarly" and "courtly" describe use, not automatic additional languages. Beasts' calls, a spirit's images and a construct's signal lights are forms of communication, not languages you gain by choosing a row in these tables.

Use languages at the table

When you share a language and can hear, see or read it as required, ordinary communication needs no roll. State what you say or ask. A conversation can still involve uncertainty about persuasion, deception or evidence; use the normal attribute or the ability you declared. Knowing the words does not make the listener agree, reveal secrets or recognize your authority.

A language barrier is not simply extra Banes on a roll. Without a shared means of communication, you cannot deliver a precise argument merely by rolling well. Pointing, drawing or demonstrating can convey something simple: "danger there," "follow me," or an offered trade. Agree on what is actually understood. An interpreter, a translation, or an applicable ability can make a more complicated exchange possible. A card that explicitly requires a shared language still requires one; an interpreter does not silently change its target requirement.

Reading a clear message in a language you can read needs no roll. Damaged text, an unfamiliar technical subject or a cipher may present a separate problem. Sharing an alphabet does not grant another language, and a cipher is not an extra language choice. Ask the DA what evidence or expertise could make progress possible.

Translate the Fragment supplies a way to interpret unfamiliar written text. Use its printed time, progress and outcomes. Completing a translation does not teach you the whole language. A copied voice or disguise likewise supplies no vocabulary or memories unless its ability explicitly says so.

Keep learning grounded

Record new languages when an explicit trait, ability or agreed campaign grant provides them. Time with a teacher, a community or useful texts explains that learning; it does not create an unstated free advancement or a new universal DP price. Agree on the route before spending time or DP. Translation and ordinary practice remain useful even when they do not grant permanent fluency.

> At the gate. An elf raised in a dwarven mining town chooses Common and Dwarven. She reads the quarry's warning without a roll. Its damaged diagram still needs investigation. Her human companion's extra spoken Goblin lets him question a salvager, but does not let him read the salvager's written ledger.

CHAPTER 8

Harm and Recovery

You can catch your breath after a battle. You cannot always leave the battle behind. HP measures your immediate capacity to keep going. Grit gives you a limited reserve when you fall. Wounds record the lasting cost, even when their active penalties have been treated.

HP, healing and a safe breath

Subtract damage from current HP. Healing restores its printed amount, after any Life resistance, up to maximum HP. When the immediate danger has passed and you can safely take a breath, restore HP to full. The DA determines whether that pause is safe. A breath does not erase a wound or replenish spent Grit.

Deal with immediate conditions as the fiction permits. Companions can put out an ordinary fire when no danger prevents them from doing so. Poison, persistent injuries and other unresolved conditions do not all disappear because combat ended. Use each condition's removal rule. Resolve a Dying character's situation before leaving turn timing.

When you fall

Player characters enter Dying at 0 HP. Each entry causes a new wound. A creature or ordinary NPC normally dies at 0 HP; player-character survival procedures are not a second HP pool for every opponent.

Roll the new wound immediately. Roll three d6, plus one extra die for each prior wound, to a maximum of five dice total. Retain the highest three, sort them from lowest to highest, and read them as a three-digit number. Add the new scar to your wound count after determining this roll.

> Example — a second scar. You already have one wound, so roll four dice for the next one. On 2, 4, 4, 6, keep 4, 4, 6: result 446. Read 446 on the appropriate wound table. It is not a total of fourteen. Even after treatment, your earlier scar still adds its die to this roll.

Choose the table for the damage type that dealt the most damage after resistance. You choose on a tie. Physical includes sonic and force. Fire, Cold and Lightning use Elemental wounds, but keep separate resistances. Mental, Radiant and Life/Necrotic have their own tables.

> Playtest ruling — fully resisted components. If an event dealt only its minimum 1 total damage because all components were reduced to zero, choose a wound table from the event's original damage types. This closes an otherwise unspecified boundary.

If the listed body part is absent or the injury cannot apply, move to the next listed result until one does, such as 116 to 122. Do not reroll for a more convenient injury. The tables end at 666.

Your Dying turn

At the start of your turn while Dying, choose one Grit or a death roll. This choice stands for the turn; you cannot see the roll and then decide to spend Grit.

Spend one Grit to regain full HP. You retain the wound you just suffered. Otherwise, roll Fortitude and apply the death-roll result.

Death-roll result	Effect
Weak	Gain 1 death mark.
Standard	No change.
Strong	Stabilize at 0 HP and clear death marks.
Retained natural 111	Gain 2 death marks instead of the ordinary Weak result.
Retained natural 666	Restore 1 HP and clear death marks.

At three death marks, enter Last Words. Damage while already Dying adds one mark per damaging event; it does not create another wound. Damage that returns a stabilized character to Dying creates a new wound and adds one death mark.

A companion can use the universal Stabilize Maneuver. Stabilization clears death marks and leaves you at 0 HP, unable to act. Healing above 0 clears death marks and ends HP-caused unconsciousness. It does not necessarily remove another condition that also prevents action.

Last Words

A wound result of 666, or reaching three death marks, begins Last Words. You can speak, but do nothing else. You die at the end of the second following turn. Use that time for a farewell, a warning, a promise or silence. It belongs to the player.

Ordinary healing, treatment, potions and Grit cannot reverse Last Words. Only an explicit exceptional ability could say otherwise. Another character's ability may react to hearing those words without changing the finality of your death.

Treating a wound

A wound states its immediate effect, any lasting penalty, its required treatment and Recovery Value, or RV. Immediate pushes and knockdowns happen once. Temporary conditions decay under the condition rules. Lasting wound penalties remain until their stated remedy.

Use the appropriate treatment card: Soft Tissue, Bone, Mental, Elemental, Radiant or Life. Each attempt takes the card's full time. A wound can receive only one treatment attempt per day, across all healers. Weak, Standard and Strong add 1, 2 and 3 recovery progress. Keep accumulated progress with the wound.

When progress meets or exceeds RV, remove exactly the effects its remedy says it removes. The scar and accumulated wound count remain. Treatment does not regrow a missing limb. An artificial replacement or exceptional ability specifies the function it restores. Rest works as a remedy only when the wound explicitly lists it.

> Example — two different problems. Physical wound 333 applies Bleeding 1 and a lasting Bane. Bleeding resolves and decays, or can be reduced with an appropriate Main Action. It does not restart each turn because the scar exists. Soft Tissue treatment must accumulate RV 3 to remove the lasting Bane. The scar still counts on every later wound roll.

A cosmetic wound can need no treatment. If treating a socially significant scar removes its intimidation Boon and persuasion Bane, remove both, as printed. The DA decides when broad physical or mental activity penalties apply.

Read a condition

A numbered condition can use its rating for severity, duration, or both. At the end of the affected character's turn, resolve its effect, then reduce its temporary rating by 1. At 0 it ends. A condition gained during that turn also decreases at that turn's end.

An asterisk prevents automatic decay. Blinded 1 persists until its remedy; Blinded 2* would not make the blindness stronger. Record temporary and starred contributions separately. Add effective severity where relevant, but decay only the temporary part. Generic temporary reduction removes temporary rating; lasting treatment follows its source. Maintained Grappled and binary Prone have separate rules.

Dazed and Grappled determine your retained action categories at turn start. A change during the turn does not undo actions already spent or recalculate that turn's category selection. Grappled still prevents movement while the hold exists. Paralyzed, Asleep and Unconscious impose their immediate restrictions. You can spend a Main Action to reduce Bleeding, Burning or Freezing on yourself or an adjacent creature by 1 with a plausible method. This is not a cure for every condition. Specialized cards may remove more or use a cheaper action.

> Example — resolve, then decay. Untreated Bleeding 3 deals 3 damage at turn end, then becomes Bleeding 2. On later turns it deals 2 and then 1 before ending. Reducing it with a Main Action before the first tick changes the sequence to 2, then 1. Bleeding bypasses resistance; Burning and Freezing use matching resistance.

Asleep, Paralyzed, Unconscious and Petrified impose three defense Banes. Overlapping helpless states apply that penalty once. Dazed adds no defense Banes. Grappled gives attackers one Boon per rating of the actual target. When Dazed and Grappled overlap, use the greater action restriction, not their sum.

Conditions

Condition	Effect	Removal / persistence
Burning X	Fire X damage at end of turn; matching resistance applies	Resolve damage, then decay; appropriate Main reduces 1
Freezing X	Cold X damage at end of turn; matching resistance applies	Resolve damage, then decay; appropriate Main reduces 1
Bleeding X	X damage at end of turn, bypasses resistance	Resolve damage, then decay; appropriate Main reduces 1
Poisoned X	X Banes to action/defense/death rolls, not inventory dice; no damage	Decay unless explicitly maintained or persistent
Frightened X	X Banes while its source is perceptible; no forced choices or movement	Decay unless explicitly maintained or persistent; source must be identified
Blinded X	Cannot see; no direct sight-required targeting	Duration only; decay; Blinded 1* requires its specified remedy
Deafened X	Cannot hear; cannot respond to hearing-only triggers	Duration only; decay; Deafened 1* requires its specified remedy
Slowed X	Speed −X, minimum 0	Decay unless explicitly persistent
Dazed X	At 1/2/3+, choose 2/1/0 of Main, Maneuver, Reaction; movement remains	Choose at turn start; no retroactive change to spent actions; decay 1 at turn end
Grappled X	Movement 0; at 1/2/3+, choose 2/1/0 of Main, Maneuver, Reaction	Maintained; no decay. Force reduces 1/2/3 when a Main remains; rating 3 requires help
Prone	Crawl; standing costs 2 movement	Stand or source effect; occupied prone square traversable at cost 2
Asleep X	Unaware, no actions/movement	Default numbered decay; adjacent Main wake effort reduces 1; damage ends it; source can specify persistence
Paralyzed X	Aware, no actions or movement at any positive rating	Duration only; decay; no gradual return of options before 0
Unconscious	Unaware, prone, no actions/movement	Source; ordinary healing wakes only HP-caused unconsciousness
Petrified	Inert solid, unaware, no actions/movement	Source defines protection and cure
Hidden	Universal hidden state, not observer-specific	Ends on attack/open revelation; DA judges concealed movement
Invisible	Cannot be seen; not automatically unlocated	Source; attacking ends Hidden, not automatically Invisible

CHAPTER 9

Abilities

An ability is a practiced technique, a spell, a talent or a reliable piece of expertise. Its first lines describe what your hero does. Its rules tell you how that moment changes the game. Declare the ability before rolling and use its printed attribute.

The numbered diamond is the minimum level: 1 Novice, 3 Adept, or 7 Master. Novice purchases are allowed in level-0 creation. Shared cards cost 2, 4 or 8 DP. Every listed discipline rank must be owned before learning. No earlier card is required merely because its name or theme resembles a later one. The symbols beside a card name identify its disciplines; each discipline entry shows its symbol. Full requirements are also written out, so you never have to identify a symbol alone.

Universal actions are available to everyone. Their diamond reads U and they cost no DP, but they do not give you free equipment. The shared catalog follows by tier, alphabetically within each tier. Your class's signature choices are printed with that class. Each tier opens with a quick selection table. The tiered index at the back includes shared and class signature abilities, with requirements and page references.

Read the entry in play

Check the action, attribute, targets, range and equipment. Make any choices the card requires, then pay its costs. If it calls for a roll, apply just the outcome you rolled. Track duration and limits afterward. “Once per round” resets at the start of your next turn. “Scene” means one continuous situation; a brief pause does not reset it.

Type tags help you find abilities; they do not add rules. A card can be Attack, Magic and Control at once. Main Action, Maneuver, Reaction, Movement and Passive are separate action labels. Passive abilities cost no action unless their text says otherwise. A long activity still takes its printed full time.

Your equipment's appearance supplies the fiction. The attack supplies its mechanics. If you describe a cleaving strike with a stout walking stick, use the chosen card's range, damage and limitations. Special equipment adds its explicit effects only.

The ordinary way to attempt an activity remains available. An expert climbing card can provide better results, but you can choose an ordinary climb instead. Buying expertise gives you new options rather than forbidding everyone else from trying.

Shared card conventions

Unless a card states a limit, you may use it again by paying its action and stated costs. A free attack cannot trigger another free attack. An absent equipment grant means the ability supplies no item. Read the Gear line for specific grants and requirements; compatible abilities can share one item. These conventions apply to class signatures as well as shared abilities.

Instant effects resolve once; applied conditions use their normal duration and decay. For an area attack, make one roll using the least favorable net Boons/Banes among the targets. Apply it to each affected target. When a creature attacks an area, each affected player instead makes a defense roll. Target lines determine inclusions.

A summoning ability lets you choose an eligible profile anew each casting. Use that profile’s statistics and capabilities. The summon immediately receives one free Main command, counting as its command for that turn. Later commands cost your actions; without one it does nothing. It acts on your turn, has no independent Reactions, cannot summon, and disappears beyond 6 squares, including after forced movement. See Summoned Companions for profiles and the complete procedure.

Command a Summon

Main Action or Maneuver · None — no roll Universal
Universal · None

You point toward the opening and give a sharp instruction. The creature moves to carry it out, then stills when its task is done.

Target: One of your summons within its tether.
Spend Main Action to grant it Main Action plus Maneuver, or spend Maneuver to grant it Maneuver plus movement. Resolve its activity during your turn. Normal downward conversions apply; a Main command can convert the granted Maneuver to movement before an attack.
One command per summon on your turn. You may command two different summons using your Main Action and Maneuver. A new summon receives the summoning card's immediate free Main command, which counts as its command that turn.
An uncommanded summon does nothing. No following, attacks, hiding, aid, lookout, alerts or independent Reactions. Prior orders do not continue. Existing conditions and durations still resolve; passive defenses still apply. No summon chains.
Name the desired task; the chosen bestiary summon profile determines whether it can perform it and the action/roll required. A command grants neither extra capabilities nor automatic success. See the command examples and bestiary requirements.
Duration: Granted actions are used immediately during your turn; none are saved for later turns.

Limits: Pay each command's action cost; at most one command per summon per controller turn, including its immediate summoning command.

Convert an Action

Action conversion · None — no roll Universal
Universal · None

Duration: Instant

Defend

Maneuver · None — no roll Universal

You draw into a guarded stance, watching for the moment danger commits itself.

Maneuver · None — no roll Universal
Universal · None

You give ground carefully, refusing to offer the opening your enemy is waiting for.

Your voluntary movement does not provoke opportunity attacks for the rest of this turn.
Duration: Remainder of this turn

Force

Main Action · Brawn Universal
Universal · None

You set your shoulder, plant your feet and make the stubborn thing give ground.

Target: An adjacent obstacle, grapple, or creature
Choose the intended result before rolling: reduce an obstacle's remaining strength, reduce your Grappled rating, or push a creature. DA establishes any obstacle target. Grappled 3 leaves no Main Action to spend.

- Weak: 1 progress, grapple reduction, or square of push.
- Standard: 2 progress, grapple reduction, or squares of push.

Varies · None — no roll Universal
Universal · None

Your hands know where each familiar piece belongs, even when you have to hurry.

Target: An accessible item
Drawing a weapon is included in its attack action. Dropping is free. Proper stowing or picking up costs a Maneuver. Ordinary item use follows its own card. No free two-handed grip exception is assumed.
Duration: Instant

U Move

Movement · None — no roll Universal
Universal · None

You pick your route and go, boots finding the next patch of open ground.

Target: Self
Spend up to Speed in movement squares, split around your actions. Normal terrain costs 1; difficult terrain costs 2. Occupied squares cannot be crossed unless the occupant is prone; crossing costs 2 and cannot end there.
Duration: Instant

U Opportunity Attack

Reaction · None — no separate roll; resolve Basic Melee using Brawn Universal
Universal · None

You recognize the careless instant and strike before it passes.

Target: An adjacent creature triggering an opportunity
Make Basic Melee only; no specialty card. Leaving reach voluntarily provokes; casting, standing, stowing and retrieving are intended triggers. The start of the provoking action interrupts it: resolve this attack first, then continue the original action if the actor remains capable. Damage alone does not cancel it. Forced movement does not provoke.
Each granted Basic Melee attack uses its attacker's Brawn and Basic Melee outcomes; this card adds no separate roll beyond any roll it explicitly requires.
Duration: Instant

U Reduce a Condition

Main Action · None — no roll Universal
Universal · None

You smother the flame, bind the cut or steady your breath, attending to the hurt before it worsens.

Target: Self or one adjacent creature

Duration: Instant

U Shield Block

Reaction · None — no roll Universal
Universal · None

You hunker behind your shield, listening to the hard knocks against its face.

Target: Self, before a defense against an attack the DA judges blockable

Maneuver · None — no roll Universal
Universal · None

You press against the wound and keep your voice steady, giving your friend something to hold on to.

Target: One adjacent Dying player character
Stabilize at 0 HP and clear death marks. No roll. This grants no HP, removes no wound, and does not restore Grit. Taking damage while stable enters Dying again.
Duration: Instant

U Stand

Movement · None — no roll Universal
Universal · None

You draw a knee under yourself and rise to face what comes next.

Target: Self, while prone
Spend 2 squares of movement to stand. This spends movement, not a Maneuver.

U Use a Healing Potion

Maneuver · None — no roll Universal
Universal · None

You pull the stopper and swallow the sharp mouthful, feeling warmth return to aching limbs.

Target: Self or one adjacent willing creature
Requires a free hand. The giver spends the Maneuver; another recipient spends a Reaction unless at 0 HP. Restore the bottle's printed fixed HP, apply Life resistance with minimum 1 actual healing where HP is missing, then check inventory. No outcome roll. Potions do not restore the dead or end Last Words.
Duration: Instant

3 A Bough for the Fallen

Main Action · Reason 4 DP
Magic / Recovery · Life 2 and Wilderness 1

You kneel, and a cradle of roots lifts your companion as warmth drains from your hands.

Target: One willing creature within 3 squares.
Roots gently lift the fallen. Pay 3 HP first, leaving yourself above 0; cost bypasses resistance. Requires a free hand. Life resistance reduces healing, minimum 1.

- Weak: Restore 5 HP.
- Standard: Restore 9 HP; the target may stand without spending movement.
- Strong: Restore 13 HP; the target may stand without spending movement, then move 1 square without provoking.

Offensive healing: this spell may target an unwilling creature harmed by healing. Resolve it as an attack using its printed attribute, range, action and HP cost; the HP result becomes Life damage, without beneficial recovery riders. This is the explicit exception to willing-only targeting above. Use the creature's printed defense when a player defends; no opposed second roll.

3 A Breath beneath the Water

Main Action · None — no roll 4 DP
Magic / Utility · Wilderness 2 and Life 1

You touch your throat and feel the next breath come cool and easy beneath the surface.

Target: Self or one adjacent willing creature.
The target can breathe ordinary water and air for one hour. This does not change Speed, permit speech underwater, remove poison or protect against pressure or temperature. One recipient at a time from this card per caster; applying it again ends your previous application. Give the recipient a perceptible warning one minute before expiration.
Duration: One hour; ends early if you replace it.

Limits: No HP is restored, so this is not a healing spell and has no Life-energy payment.

3 A Camp without a Trace

Main Action · Guile 4 DP
Skill / Utility · Subterfuge 2 and Wilderness 1

You lift the crushed leaves, scatter the cold ash and leave the place looking as though it never held a story.

Time: One hour per attempt.
Target: One departed campsite used by up to six people; one hour.
Conceal ordinary evidence of your camp. The DA sets a progress target for its size and disturbance. On completion, attempts to track your departure from this site take 1 Bane. This does not erase magical marks, remove witnesses or hide occupants.

- Weak: 1 progress; identify one conspicuous trace still needing work.
- Standard: 2 progress; also learn which approach shows the clearest remaining trail.
- Strong: 3 progress; gain both details and preserve one useful ordinary item found while cleaning, if any is present.

Duration: Until new evidence exposes the departure route.

Limits: One application per departure; no stacking Banes from repeated cleanup.

3 A Line for Everyone

Main Action · Brawn 4 DP
Skill / Utility · Athletics 2 and Wilderness 1

You test the line, look back at your companions and show them where to put their hands.

Time: Ten minutes per attempt.
Target: One natural climb or gap and a suitable rope; ten minutes per attempt.
Establish a roped route toward a DA-declared progress target. You must reach and secure its anchors; this grants no remote placement or impossible foothold. On completion, you and up to six companions gain 1 Boon each to their next roll traversing this route while the rope remains secured.

- Weak: 1 progress; retain your safe grip.
- Standard: 2 progress; retain your grip and secure one carried item.
- Strong: 3 progress; gain both benefits and identify an available resting point along the route, if one exists.

Duration: Until the rope is removed or the route changes.
Gear: Suitable rope required; grants an ordinary rope coil, Bulk 1, if absent.

Limits: One Boon per traveler per route; rebuilding the same route does not refresh it. Existing ordinary rope use remains possible.

3 A Lock Has a Language

Main Action · Reason 4 DP
Skill · Subterfuge 2

You close your eyes and listen through your fingertips for the lockmaker's last little secret.

Target: One adjacent ordinary lock.
Use lock tools on one adjacent ordinary lock. An attempt takes a Main Action, including under pressure. The DA states the opening target and consequences before the attempt; accumulate progress toward opening it.

- Weak: Add 1 progress and learn whether the lock shows damage or tampering.
- Standard: Add 2 progress and learn the same detail.
- Strong: Add 3 progress and learn the same detail. If this opens it, you can later relock it with your tools in one Maneuver without rolling.

Duration: Opening progress persists; information remains known.
Gear: Lock tools required; gain one set, Bulk 1, on learning if absent.

3 A Ribcage for a Shield

Reaction · None — no roll 4 DP
Magic · Calling 2

You call, and pale ribs close around your companion like the hands of an old guardian.

Target: An adjacent willing ally before a physical defense.
A cage of spectral ribs catches the edge of the blow. Grant 1 Boon to the defense; on a Strong defense, the ally may push the adjacent attacker 1 square afterward. The ribs disappear immediately.

3 A Road through Rain

Maneuver · None — no roll 4 DP
Magic · Storm 2

You draw your hand through the rain, dust or smoke ahead. It parts along your gesture, leaving a narrow strip of clear air through which your companions can see.

Target: A straight route of up to 3 visible squares beginning adjacent to you.
Part nonmagical rain, airborne dust or smoke along that route until the start of your next turn. It removes those visibility obstructions only; solid cover and magical darkness remain. The cleared route improves visibility for everyone, including enemies; it grants no movement.
Duration: Until the start of your next turn; a next-roll benefit ends when used.

3 A Roof before Nightfall

Main Action · Knowledge 4 DP
Skill / Crafting / Utility · Wilderness 2 and Craft 1

You bend the first poles into place while your companions gather around the promise of a dry night.

Time: One hour per crafting attempt.
Target: A chosen campsite and available ordinary materials; one hour per attempt.
Build a temporary shelter for yourself and up to six companions. This card grants the reusable Camp Shelter recipe; use its target 4, materials, tools and one-hour attempt time. On completion it shelters the occupants from ordinary rain and wind; it is not fortification. No group crafting.

- Weak: 1 construction progress; identify any unsuitable material before consuming it.
- Standard: 2 construction progress and the same material check.
- Strong: 3 construction progress and the same material check; if this result completes the shelter, it can be packed for reuse as one Bulk 1 bundle under the recipe's rules.

Duration: Until dismantled or damaged; packing requires ten minutes.
Gear: Craft tools, Bulk 1, if absent. The recipe is known on learning this card; no materials granted.

Limits: This card crafts only its Camp Shelter recipe. Extreme weather and hostile attack can damage the shelter; DA states visible limitations before construction.

3 A Shelter of Light

Magic · Radiance 2

You stand beside your friend, holding a small brightness between them and the dark.

Target: One adjacent willing ally.
Hold your place beside them. Until the start of your next turn, that ally gains 1 Boon to defense while adjacent to you. You must remain able to act; this is one continuing benefit, not a new Boon on every use.
Duration: Until the start of your next turn, while the ally remains adjacent and you can act.

3 A Small and Watchful Shape

Maneuver · None — no roll 4 DP
Magic / Movement / Utility · Wilderness 2 and Subterfuge 1

You fold into a small furred shape and find the room suddenly full of towering furniture and interesting smells.

Target: Self.
Become a cat-sized nonflying land animal for ten minutes. Keep HP, wounds, attributes and Speed; fold equipment away and lose its benefits. You can fit through openings suitable for the described size, as judged by the DA. You cannot speak, cast, use equipment, attack, or command summons in this form. It grants no special sense, free Hidden or immunity. Returning costs a Maneuver; expiration returns you to the nearest free square that fits your normal body without crossing a barrier.
Duration: Ten minutes or until you return; one form at a time.

Limits: Transform only where both forms have a legal return space; if that space would become blocked, return before entering the obstruction. No second HP pool.

3 A Steady Hand at Dawn

Passive · None — no roll 4 DP
Skill / Utility · Medicine 2

You return to the bedside with clean hands and the patience to do the small things properly.

Target: A wound you treat using a learned treatment card.
When your treatment roll is Weak, add 2 recovery progress instead of 1. Standard and Strong remain unchanged. The wound must list that treatment; time, tools and the once-per-wound-per-day limit still apply. This grants no treatment permission and restores no HP.
Duration: When resolving an eligible treatment.

Limits: Cannot exceed the treatment's normal Strong recovery result or add a second treatment attempt.

3 A Word Apart

Maneuver · None — no roll 4 DP
Skill / Utility · Influence 2 and Subterfuge 1

You lean close beneath the surrounding chatter, shielding your lips as you give your companion the words they need.

Target: One adjacent willing ally who can hear and understand you.
Speak a private message of up to twenty words. Other creatures cannot overhear it through ordinary hearing while you and the ally can speak quietly; this does not defeat magic or prevent anyone noticing the exchange. Name a social task the message helps with. The ally gains 1 Boon to its next Guile or Reason roll for that task within the scene. This does not compel agreement or replace the conversation.
Duration: Message is immediate; the Boon ends when used or the scene ends.

Limits: An ally can hold only one unused benefit from this card; a later use replaces its message's task and expiry.

3 Armored Recovery

Maneuver · None — no roll 4 DP
Skill / Movement · Armor 2

You plant an armored fist and rise with the familiar weight settling around you.

Target: Self, prone while wearing armor
Stand without spending movement, then move up to 2 squares without provoking. You must be wearing armor; choose a legal route and free endpoint.
Duration: Instant
Gear: Requires armor.

3 Arrive under Guard

Maneuver · None — no roll 4 DP
Skill / Defense / Movement · Guard 2 and Athletics 1

You hurry to your companion's side with your guard raised, catching their eye as you settle between them and danger.

Target: Self and one visible willing ally within 2 squares.
Move up to 2 squares toward the ally along a legal route. This movement provokes normally. If you finish adjacent, the ally gains 1 Boon to its next defense before the start of your next turn, provided it is still adjacent to you and you can act when that defense begins. The ally spends no action.
Duration: Movement is immediate; defense benefit ends when used or at the start of your next turn.

Limits: A recipient can hold only one unused defense benefit from this card.

3 Ask the Falling Ash

Main Action · Reason 4 DP
Skill · Scholarship 2

You scatter the ash and watch for the pattern that makes your breath catch.

Time: Ten minutes.
Target: One scene or decision you can describe; ten minutes.
Read a pattern in ash, water or falling leaves. Ask about a possible next step, not a guaranteed future.

- Weak: DA names one evident risk.
- Standard: Also names one presently available way to investigate it.
- Strong: Also identifies one sign to watch for if that risk approaches.

Duration: Information and earned progress persist for the stated task; completed changes remain until circumstances alter them.

3 Behind the Hawthorn

Reaction · None — no roll 4 DP
Magic · Mind 2

You flinch into a scatter of leaves and emerge a few paces from where the blow found you.

Target: Self, after a visible attack resolves against you.
Vanish into a swirl of leaves and reappear in a visible free square within 2 squares. No opaque barrier may separate the squares. This teleport does not provoke.

3 Bind and Turn

Reaction · Agility 4 DP
Skill · Arms 2

You catch their momentum and feel the instant when strength becomes imbalance.

Target: An adjacent enemy after it attacks you.
Catch its weapon or striking limb and turn the struggle. This is a fresh maneuver, not another defense roll.

- Weak: Push it 1 square.
- Standard: Push it 2 squares.
- Strong: Push it 2 squares and knock it prone.

3 Borrow Tomorrow's Weather

Main Action · Guile 4 DP
Magic / Control / Utility · Flame 2

You reach through a rip in the air and pull back a clump of tomorrow's weather. You toss it onto the ground, where it spreads into rolling smoke or bursts into a sheet of ice.

Target: Up to 3/5/7 connected visible unoccupied ground squares, each within 4 squares.
Before rolling, choose smoke or ice. Roll Guile, then place up to the number of squares your result allows:

- Weak: 3 squares.
- Standard: 5 squares.
- Strong: 7 squares.

After the first square, each new square must share an edge with one already placed, forming one connected area. Smoke provides heavy cover across its squares. Ice makes its squares difficult terrain, costing 2 movement to enter. Neither effect deals damage or blocks movement. Both last until the end of your next turn.
Example: On Standard, place five smoke squares across an approach or bend them around a corner, keeping every square visible and within range.
Duration: Until the end of your next turn.

3 Borrowed Silhouette

Reaction · None — no roll 4 DP
Magic · Mind 2

You leave a flickering likeness where your enemy expects to find you.

Target: Self, before a visible attack.
A duplicate steps where you were. Gain 1 Boon to the defense, then move 1 square without provoking after the attack resolves. The duplicate vanishes immediately; it cannot absorb another attack.

3 Bottled Morning

2 1

Main Action · Knowledge 4 DP
Skill / Crafting · Craft 2 and Medicine 1

You stir until the sharp smell softens, then hold the bottle up to the dawn.

Time: One hour per crafting attempt.
Target: One compatible known ordinary recipe; one hour.
Use the Lesser Healing Bottle or Travel Food recipe; both are learned with this card. Spend the recipe's one-hour interval with a mixing kit and suitable ingredients, then roll Knowledge.

- Weak: Raise one matching supply by 1 inventory step.
- Standard: Raise it by 2 steps.
- Strong: Raise it by 3 steps.

The first step from out creates d4. Obey the recipe cap: d4 for Lesser Healing Bottle, d8 for Travel Food. Check carried ingredients after each attempt. No group crafting. Brewing restores no HP and pays no healing spell cost; using a finished potion follows Use a Healing Potion.
Duration: Finished supplies persist until used.
Gear: One mixing kit, Bulk 1, if absent; Lesser Healing Bottle and Travel Food recipes. No ingredients or finished bottles.

3 Break the Formation

2

Main Action · Brawn 4 DP
Skill / Attack · Arms 2

Drive one foe backward until the enemy line becomes a pile of limbs.

Target: One adjacent creature
Choose your target and make the attack.

- Weak: 4 physical damage; push 1.
- Standard: 4 physical damage; push 2.
- Strong: 6 physical damage; push 3 and knock prone.

Duration: Instant
Gear: Requires and grants one ordinary melee weapon, Bulk 1, only if none is owned.

3 Briar Gate

2

Main Action · Reason 4 DP
Magic / Control · Wilderness 2

You sweep your hand across the ground, calling a tangle of thorns into the opening.

Target: Up to 3/5/7 connected visible unoccupied ground squares, each within 4 squares.
Roll Reason, then raise a waist-high hedge in up to the indicated number of squares. Place one connected area, with squares joined along their edges.

- Weak: 3 squares.
- Standard: 5 squares.
- Strong: 7 squares.

The hedge makes those squares difficult terrain and gives heavy cover across them until the end of your next turn. It remains passable and deals no damage.
Duration: Until the end of your next turn.

3 Bridge of Winter

2

Main Action · None — no roll 4 DP
Magic / Utility · Frost 2

You press your palm toward the far side of the gap. Ice grows outward from both edges and joins into a pale bridge beneath drifting frost.

Target: A visible gap up to 3 squares wide within 4 squares
The bridge is one square wide. Requires solid anchors at both ends. Holds ordinary creatures and carried equipment; lasts 10 minutes. It creates normal terrain, not slippery terrain or a damaging trap. Warn all occupants visibly during its final round; cannot dismiss early to drop someone.
Duration: Ten minutes; final-round warning and no early dismissal.

Call the Opening

3 · 2

Main Action · Reason 4 DP
Skill · Influence 2

You see the gap before anyone else and shout the name of the friend who can reach it.

Target: One visible enemy within 5 squares
Choose willing allies that can hear your call. The Weak Boon expires at the start of your next turn. Free attacks never trigger additional free attacks.

- Weak: One ally gains 1 Boon to its next attack on that enemy.
- Standard: One ally adjacent to it makes a free Basic Melee attack.
- Strong: Two distinct adjacent allies each make a free Basic Melee attack.

Each granted Basic Melee attack uses its attacker's Brawn and Basic Melee outcomes; this card adds no separate roll beyond any roll it explicitly requires.
Duration: Free attacks resolve immediately. The Weak Boon lasts until the start of your next turn or until used.

Catch the Spell

3 · 2

Reaction · None — no roll 4 DP
Magic / Defense · Scholarship 2

You seize the shape of the spell and wrench it aside.

Target: Self, before defending against a single-target spell from a visible caster within 4 squares.
Spend your Reaction before making the spell's normal defense roll. Gain 2 Boons to that defense. If that defense is Strong, push the caster 1 square after the spell resolves. Make no additional roll.
This protects against the spell; it does not cancel casting or protect against an area spell. General spell cancellation remains an open design decision.

Circle of Old Names

3 · 2 · 1

Main Action · None — no roll 4 DP
Magic · Calling 2 and Guard 1

You speak the names that once meant safety, and hear your companions breathe more steadily.

Target: Self and willing allies within 2 squares.
Call the names of those who kept you safe. Until the start of your next turn, these allies gain 1 Boon to defense against forced movement and may reduce temporary Frightened by 1 immediately.
Duration: Remove Frightened immediately; the defensive Boon lasts until the start of your next turn.

Cut Off the Escape

3 · 2

Main Action · Agility 4 DP
Skill / Attack · Marksmanship 2

You follow their glance toward freedom and send your shot to meet it.

Target: One visible creature within 8 squares.
Drive a shot across its escape route. Requires ranged weapon and ammunition.

- Weak: 4 physical damage.
- Standard: 4 physical damage and push 1 square.
- Strong: 6 physical damage, push 1 square and Slowed 2.

Gear: Gain one ordinary ranged weapon and one d8 ammunition bundle if absent; each Bulk 1. Check ammunition after every attack.

Derive a Mechanism

3 · 2

Skill · Craft 2

You lay out the pieces and follow the maker's thinking, one ingenious decision at a time.

Time: Four hours per attempt.
Target: One accessible ordinary mechanical item; four hours target 12 for an ordinary mechanism. Requires tools and access to the item at every attempt. Creates a recipe, not the item or permission to craft it. Special items excluded.

- Weak: 1 derivation progress.
- Standard: 2 derivation progress.
- Strong: 3 derivation progress.

Draw the Current

3 · 2 · 1

Maneuver · None — no roll 4 DP
Magic / Control · Storm 2 and Scholarship 1

You wind a tight ribbon of air around your casting hand and let it tug toward the place you want your enemy to stumble.

Target: Self; one creature affected by your next qualifying spell.
Prepare your next Main Action spell this turn that deals damage. After resolving it, push one creature it damaged 1 square away from you. Choose the recipient after resolution; it must be visible within 5 squares then. Use ordinary forced-movement rules. This adds no direct damage and grants no attack.
Duration: Until the next qualifying spell resolves or the end of this turn.

Limits: Repeated uses do not multiply this card's benefit on the same recipient or prepared attack. Pay a Maneuver for each use.

3 Dread Reflection

2

Main Action · Guile 4 DP

3 Haul Them Home

2 1

Maneuver · None — no roll 4 DP
Skill / Movement / Utility · Athletics 2 and Guard 1

You wrap the rope across your back and lean into the pull, bringing your companion over the lip a handspan at a time.

Target: One willing creature within 3 squares, secured to a rope you hold.
Move the creature up to 2 squares toward you along a clear route the rope can support, including upward. It need not spend movement or a Reaction, and this movement does not provoke. It cannot pass through a barrier or an occupied standing creature; finish in a free square supported by ground or the secured rope. You must have secure footing, a free hand, and be able to support its weight as judged by the DA. This cannot extract a Grappled creature or deal collision damage. Ordinary rope use remains available without this card.
Stability exception: this willing rescue movement ignores Stability. It does not allow moving an unwilling target or bypassing a grapple.
Duration: Instant.
Gear: Requires a rope, supplied separately. Attaching it to the recipient is not part of this Maneuver.

Limits: Repeatable while the rope, route and support requirements hold. Each use costs a Maneuver.

Skill · Guard 2

You brace your shield in the narrow way and make room for your friends behind it.

Target: Self and adjacent willing allies
You and willing allies adjacent to you when this action resolves each gain 1 Boon to defense until the start of your next turn. An ally keeps this benefit only while adjacent to you and while you can act and hold the shield. This is one continuing benefit from this use; follow normal Boon/Bane stacking with other sources.
Duration: Until the start of your next turn
Gear: Requires a shield. Grants one ordinary shield, Bulk 1, if absent.

3 Ice across the Break

Maneuver · None — no roll 4 DP
Magic / Utility · Frost 2 and Wilderness 1

You sweep your hand across the broken path. Ice grows from both edges and meets with a sharp crack, leaving a narrow bridge shining between them.

Target: A straight line of up to 3 empty squares, all visible within 4 squares.
Form a one-square-wide bridge across a gap or water. Both ends must join solid supports at the same height; the bridge fills the selected squares and supports creatures crossing one at a time. Those squares cost 1 movement and are not slippery. Everyone can use the bridge. It causes no damage, traps no creature and cannot replace an existing surface or pass through a barrier. Only one bridge from this card per caster can exist; casting again ends the previous bridge.
Duration: Ten minutes; announce its impending end to anyone on it.

Limits: One active bridge per caster. Creatures cannot be enclosed or lifted by its creation.

Roll Knowledge, then cover up to the indicated number of squares with ice. Place one connected area, with squares joined along their edges.
- Weak: 3 squares.

Skill / Utility · Subterfuge 2 and Influence 1

You remember to be the borrowed person even when no one seems to be watching.

Duration: While the disguise is in use.

Limits: Ordinary activities remain available without this card. Roll only when uncertainty has consequences.

3 No Road Away

Skill · Influence 2

You move when they move, keeping yourself between them and an easy escape.

3 Pounce of the Red Claw

Main Action · Agility 4 DP
Magic / Attack · Wilderness 2 and Athletics 1

You gather yourself low and spring with a hunter's sudden certainty.

Target: One creature reachable by a legal move of up to 2 squares.

You turn the old fitting over and recognize a solution worth borrowing.

Time: Ten minutes handling the object.
Target: An ordinary object you can handle for ten minutes.
Recognize its ordinary materials and one visible construction method without a roll. When crafting a known ordinary recipe, you may reuse a suitable component from this object in place of the matching ordinary material; the component is consumed or incorporated. DA determines suitability. This grants no recipe, crafting permission, extra attempt or special material.
Duration: Knowledge persists; each salvaged component can be used once.

Limits: Ordinary activities remain available without this card. Roll only when uncertainty has consequences.

3 Read the Next Blow

Reaction · None — no roll 4 DP
Skill · Scholarship 2

You watch the shoulder rather than the blade and move before the strike is fully formed.

Target: Self, before defending against a visible physical attack.

- Strong: Jump up to 3 squares.

Duration: Instant

7 A Company of Reflections

2 2

Main Action · None — no roll 8 DP
Magic / Defense · Mind 2 and Guard 2

You sweep your hand past your companions, leaving a wavering double beside each one. The doubles lean into the path of approaching blows.

Target: Up to three willing creatures within 3 squares.
Give each target a flickering double until the start of your next turn. Each target gains 1 Boon to all defense rolls during that time. The doubles occupy no squares, block nothing, and make no attacks. Reapplying this card replaces your previous doubles.
Duration: Until the start of your next turn.

7 A Marvel on Wheels

3 1

Main Action · Knowledge 8 DP
Skill / Attack / Crafting · Craft 3 and Marksmanship 1

You set your folded contraption on the ground and pull its handle. Wheels snap outward, the launcher kicks, and its shot slams toward your target before the frame folds shut again.

Target: One visible creature within 6 squares.
Unfold a wheeled launcher you learned to build; reusable, Bulk 1, granted if absent. After firing it folds back into your hands.
- Weak: 4 physical damage and push 1.

7 A Shadow at the Heart

3

Main Action · Guile 8 DP
Skill / Attack · Subterfuge 3

You step so close that your enemy's certainty falters before your blade arrives.

Target: One adjacent creature.
Make a melee attack from the closest, least expected angle. If you began Hidden, gain 1 Boon, then end Hidden.
- Weak: 5 physical damage.
- Standard: 5 physical damage and Dazed 1.
- Strong: 7 physical damage and Dazed 2.

Gear: Use one ordinary melee weapon; gain one on learning this card if you do not own one. Bulk 1.

7 A Splendid Mistake

3

You cup a swelling ball of magic between your hands and hurl it away before it bursts. A final twist turns the blast into a rush of fire or branching lightning.

Target: Every creature in a visible 3-by-3 area within 5 squares.
Choose fire or lightning and the area before rolling. Affect every creature in it, including allies. Make one Guile attack using the least favorable net Boons/Banes among those targets.
- Weak: Deal 4 damage of the chosen type to each target.
- Standard: Deal 4 damage to each, then push each 1 square away from the area's center.
- Strong: Deal 6 damage to each, then push each 2 squares away from the center.

Time: Ten minutes to contact; up to one minute of exchange.
Target: One willing creature personally known to you within one day's ordinary travel; ten minutes.
Name the recipient and speak a message of up to twenty words. If the recipient is outside range or unwilling, learn only that no contact was made. The message conveys your identity but reveals no location. No sight or attack path is required; this is communication, not targeting for another card.
- Weak: Deliver the message; the recipient may acknowledge receipt with a yes or no.
- Standard: Deliver it and receive a willing reply of up to twenty words.
- Strong: Deliver it and exchange up to three messages of twenty words each in both directions during the next minute.

Duration: The exchange lasts at most one minute after contact.

Limits: Once per recipient per day. No mind reading or ability to command the listener.

7 All Voices as One

3

Main Action · None — no roll 8 DP
Skill / Utility · Influence 3

You call the moment, and your companions answer with a single rush of steel.

Target: Two allies within 4 squares who hear you and are adjacent to enemies.
Each makes one free Basic Melee attack. After its attack, each may move 1 square without provoking. These attacks never trigger additional free attacks.
Each granted Basic Melee attack uses its attacker's Brawn and Basic Melee outcomes; this card adds no separate roll beyond any roll it explicitly requires.
Gear: Each attacking ally needs its own melee weapon. This card grants no equipment.

7 An Impossible Theft

3

You stretch a hand toward the prize; your shadow's fingers arrive before yours.

- Strong: 7 physical damage, Slowed 2 and knock prone.

Gear: Use one ordinary melee weapon; gain one on learning this card if you do not own one. Bulk 1.

7 Borrow the Shadow

3

Skill / Utility · Subterfuge 3

You wait for someone to pass the concealment, then follow close behind their movement and slip into the hidden space they leave beside them.

Target: Self, when a visible creature within 2 squares moves past actual concealment
After the triggering creature finishes its movement, move up to your Speed along a legal route toward the concealment it passed. Do not provoke. You may become Hidden at the endpoint only if the concealment actually hides you under the normal Hidden rule; the card does not conceal an exposed creature. No teleportation or movement through occupied standing squares.
Duration: Movement resolves immediately; Hidden follows its normal rules.

Borrowed Identity

7 · 3 · 1

Main Action · Guile 8 DP
Skill · Subterfuge 3 and Influence 1

You settle into another life until even the way you wait at a doorway belongs to someone else.

Time: One hour preparation; resolve each new consequential challenge during the encounter.
Target: Self and, on Strong, one willing companion; one hour preparation, then the duration of each consequential encounter.
Prepare a mundane identity using suitable clothing, a plausible role and information you have obtained about it. Spend one hour establishing the appearance and rehearsing its habits. This card can sustain the identity across an extended infiltration, but grants no memories, language or compulsory authority. For a consequential challenge, the DA states the objective and a binary or cumulative progress target. On completion, that challenge is resolved; do not repeat it for routine interactions with people accepting the same evidence. A new contradiction, suspicious witness or different demand may create a new challenge.

- Weak: 1 progress; identify one visible inconsistency you can repair in ten minutes with suitable materials.
- Standard: 2 progress; also learn one expectation the listener openly expresses about your role.
- Strong: 3 progress; also establish cover for one willing companion as your attendant or colleague if their clothing and behavior support it. That cover lasts until new evidence challenges it, not indefinitely against every observer.

Duration: The prepared identity lasts until abandoned or contradicted; resolve new consequential challenges separately.

Bow to the Balcony

7 · 3

Main Action · Guile 8 DP
Skill / Attack · Arms 3

You finish the exchange with a sweeping bow, already slipping beyond their reach.

Make a melee attack, then end the exchange with a flourish. After the damage, move up to 3 squares without provoking along a legal route.

- Weak: 4 physical damage.
- Standard: 5 physical damage; the target is pushed 1 square away before you move.
- Strong: 7 physical damage; push it 2 before moving.

Skill / Attack · Arms 3

You plant your feet as the enemy rushes in, then strike into their advance with enough force to send them stumbling back.

Target: An enemy entering an adjacent square voluntarily.
Meet the charge with a melee blow; resolve after it enters. This attack cannot trigger additional free attacks.

- Weak: 4 physical damage.
- Standard: 4 physical damage and push 1 square back the way it came.
- Strong: 6 physical damage, push 2 and knock it prone.

Gear: Requires a melee weapon; gain one ordinary melee weapon, Bulk 1, on learning if absent.

Carry Them to Shore

7 · 3

Main Action · None — no roll 8 DP
Skill · Wilderness 3

You lock an arm around your companion and turn toward the bank with everything you have left.

Target: One adjacent willing or unconscious creature in water.
You need a free hand and must be physically able to support the target's weight, as judged by the DA. Move yourself and the target up to your Speed through water, ending side by side in free squares. This movement does not provoke; the target needs no movement or Reaction. You must choose legal endpoints first and cannot pass solid obstacles.

Carry the Sunrise

7 · 3

Magic · Radiance 3

You raise the light and step forward, giving your companions something bright to follow.

Target: Willing allies within 2 squares.
Carry the light forward. Move up to 2 squares without provoking, then each willing ally initially in range may move up to 2 squares toward your new position without provoking. At their endpoints they gain 1 Boon to their next defense before the start of your next turn.
Duration: Until the start of your next turn; a next-roll benefit ends when used.

7 Carry to Safety

Main Action · None — no roll 8 DP
Skill · Guard 3

You take your friend's weight and make their next few steps your responsibility.

Target: One adjacent willing or unconscious ally
Move up to your Speed with the adjacent willing or unconscious ally, then place it in a separate adjacent free square. Choose a legal route and both endpoints before moving. This movement does not provoke from either of you; the ally spends no action or movement. You need a free hand to carry or support it and must be physically capable of bearing its weight, as judged by the DA. Cannot cross blocked squares or move an unwilling target.
Duration: Instant
Gear: A free hand; no shield required or granted.

7 Cast through the Reflection

Maneuver · None — no roll 8 DP
Magic / Utility · Scholarship 3 and Mind 1

You turn your palm as though tilting a mirror. A wavering image of your casting hand appears across the room, pointing toward a new angle of attack.

Target: One visible empty square within 3 squares.
Place a shimmering casting point in the chosen square. Your next Main Action spell this turn may originate there. Determine its attack path, cover and area origin from that point; measure the spell's cast range from your own square. You must still see all targets the spell requires you to see. You must have an unobstructed path to the casting point; this does not cast through an opaque barrier. The point grants no extra range, spell or roll and disappears after that spell.
Duration: Until used or the end of this turn.

Limits: Repeated uses do not multiply this card's benefit on the same recipient or prepared attack. Pay a Maneuver for each use.

7 Checkmate in Three Steps

Main Action · Knowledge 8 DP
Skill / Attack · Scholarship 3

You watch how your opponent recovers from each movement, step where their balance will be weakest, and strike as their foot begins to land.

Target: One adjacent creature.
Name the weakness you are exploiting and make a melee or unarmed attack. You need not invent a hidden vulnerability; stance and timing are enough.
- Weak: 4 physical damage and push 1.
- Standard: 4 physical damage, push 1 and knock prone.
- Strong: 6 physical damage, push 2, knock prone and apply Dazed 1.

7 Dance beyond the Circle

Magic · Mind 3

You offer your companion a hand across the room; the world turns, and your places are exchanged.

Target: Two willing creatures within 4 squares, either of which may be yourself.
Exchange their positions by teleportation. Both must be visible and each destination must fit its new occupant. No damage or attacks are granted; the movement does not provoke.

7 Enchanting Workshop

Main Action · Knowledge 8 DP
Magic / Crafting / Utility · Craft 3

You set your tools beside the impossible ingredient and begin the work that ordinary hands cannot finish.

Time: The recipe's stated interval per attempt.
Target: One known special-item recipe; recipe interval
Requires a special recipe and its printed materials. Also permits ordinary recipes listed under Trail Workshop; grants two of those ordinary recipe choices and missing craft tools. No special recipe is granted. This is campaign-dependent access and should not be a recommended starter purchase.
- Weak: 1 progress.

- Weak: 3 physical damage and push 1.
- Standard: 4 physical damage and push 2.

Time: Ten minutes per attempt.
Target: One noncombat natural hazard and companions; 10 minutes
Prepare and lead a route through one noncombat natural hazard for yourself and up to six companions. The DA sets its progress target and confirms a physically possible method before rolling. When the target is met, companions who can follow your directions and method cross without separate rolls for the same hazard. New hazards or changed circumstances are resolved separately.

Magic / Recovery · Life 3 and Medicine 1

You seize your friend's hand and give a painful measure of your own strength to keep them here.

Target: An adjacent willing creature, after it enters Dying and its wound is resolved.
Pay 7 HP first, leaving yourself above 0; the payment bypasses resistance. With a free hand, restore 8 HP before Life resistance, minimum 1. The wound still occurs. This cannot reverse Last Words. The cost makes this urgent rescue different from an ordinary large heal.

7 One More Dawn

You pull an unseen latch, and heat rolls over your face like an opened forge.

Target: Every creature in a 3-wide, 2-deep rectangle immediately ahead of you.
A furnace door opens for a heartbeat. Include allies in the area. Work out each target's net Boons or Banes; make one roll using the combination least favorable to you and apply it to all targets.

- Weak: 4 fire damage and push 1.

Main Action · Reason 8 DP
Skill · Scholarship 3

You walk the empty scene until its scattered traces become a sequence of human choices.

Time: One hour per attempt.
Target: An accessible evidence set; one hour
Examine an accessible evidence set. The DA names the question and sets a cumulative progress target before a consequential reconstruction; obvious deductions need no roll. On completion, obtain an evidence-supported sequence answering that question as far as the surviving evidence allows. Identify the limits of that account explicitly. Share it with companions; they need no duplicate interpretation rolls for the same facts.

- Weak: 1 progress and one supported fact relevant to the sequence.

Target: One willing creature within 3 squares, including self
Moser's law of conservation of Life energy: pay 7 HP before rolling; bypass resistance and remain above 0 HP. Requires a free hand. Life resistance reduces restoration, minimum 1 where HP is missing. Healing-harmed creatures take the rolled result as Life damage. No resurrection or removal of wounds/Grit loss.

- Weak: Restore 8 HP.
- Standard: Restore 16 HP.
- Strong: Restore 24 HP; the recipient may stand without spending movement and move 1 square without provoking.

Duration: Instant

Offensive healing: this spell may target an unwilling creature harmed by healing. Resolve it as an attack using its printed attribute, range, action and HP cost; the HP result becomes Life damage, without beneficial recovery riders. This is the explicit exception to willing-only targeting above. Use the creature's printed defense when a player defends; no opposed second roll.

- Standard: 3 physical damage and push 2.
- Strong: 5 physical damage, push 2 and knock prone.

7 Summon Spirit — Master

3

Main Action · None — no roll 8 DP
Magic / Summoning · Calling 3

You speak into the hush between breaths. A pale outline gathers beside you, taking the shape of the spirit you called.

Target: One visible unoccupied placement within 3 squares, with enough legal space to fit the chosen creature's entire footprint.
Choose one bestiary entry explicitly approved for Spirit summoning with a minimum summoning tier no higher than 7. Summon one instance of that creature. Use its profile in Summoned Companions and the shared summoning procedure.
Duration: One scene; ends sooner if the summon reaches 0 HP or breaks its tether.
Gear: No equipment, corpse or consumable supplied or required. Summoned forms and their inherent gear provide no permanent loot or free supplies.

Limits: One creature per casting; no total summon cap. No earlier summon card required. Only explicitly eligible bestiary entries can be selected; ordinary monster statistics or encounter CV alone do not establish eligibility.

7 Summon Undead — Master

Main Action · None — no roll 8 DP
Magic / Summoning · Calling 3

You draw a cold breath and beckon. A shape assembles from spectral remains, settling into the form of the undead servant you called.

Target: One visible unoccupied placement within 3 squares, with enough legal space to fit the chosen creature's entire footprint.
Choose one bestiary entry explicitly approved for Undead summoning with a minimum summoning tier no higher than 7. Summon one instance of that creature. Use its profile in Summoned Companions and the shared summoning procedure.
Duration: One scene; ends sooner if the summon reaches 0 HP or breaks its tether.
Gear: No equipment, corpse or consumable supplied or required. Summoned forms and their inherent gear provide no permanent loot or free supplies.

Limits: One creature per casting; no total summon cap. No earlier summon card required. Only explicitly eligible bestiary entries can be selected; ordinary monster statistics or encounter CV alone do not establish eligibility.

7 Terms before Swords

Main Action · Guile 8 DP
Skill / Utility · Influence 3

You walk into the silence between two angry voices and give them a reason to wait.

Time: Ten minutes per attempt.
Target: Representatives of opposing groups who can hear and understand you; ten minutes.
Offer specific terms and a reason each side might prefer negotiation. The DA first states whether any party is willing to consider them; no willing listener means no attempt. For consequential negotiation set a progress target and state binary or cumulative. On completion, willing representatives agree only to the stated terms they have authority to accept. The card does not compel obedience or stop combat.

- Weak: 1 progress; learn one objection openly raised by a willing representative.
- Standard: 2 progress; also identify a concession that representative says could address it.
- Strong: 3 progress; also learn a practical guarantee a willing representative would accept to support the agreement.

Duration: An agreed arrangement lasts for its stated terms; participants retain agency.

Limits: No automatic truce, command or control of player characters.

7 The Circle Holds

Main Action · None — no roll 8 DP
Magic · Guard 3

You trace the last arc and stand inside the promise you have made together.

Target: Self and allies within 2 squares.
Until the start of your next turn, each gains 1 Boon to defense against spells. Each gains Stability 2 for the first forced movement against them, including collision chains; highest applicable Stability only, maximum 3. The grant is consumed after that event even if a higher Stability applied. The ward is not physical cover.
Duration: Until the start of your next turn; each Stability grant is used once.

7 The City Opens Its Doors

Main Action · Guile 8 DP
Skill / Utility · Subterfuge 3

You follow a familiar sign to a side entrance, and someone inside recognizes how you knock.

Time: Four hours per attempt.
Target: An inhabited settlement where an illicit network could plausibly operate; four hours.
Seek a willing contact for one specific clandestine service: an introduction, passage or a hiding place. The DA confirms a suitable provider could be found and states available leads, stakes and a progress target before rolling. Completion finds a willing provider if one exists, not free service or guaranteed loyalty. The price and risk must be stated before you accept.

- Weak: 1 progress; learn one local sign or custom actually used by the network.
- Standard: 2 progress; also learn one requirement a potential contact publicly or privately communicates.
- Strong: 3 progress; also identify a practical way to verify that contact's stated offer.

Duration: Information and earned contacts persist; their circumstances may change.

Limits: Cannot invent a network in an empty ruin or repeatedly roll without pursuing a new lead.

7 The Cleverest Mixture

Maneuver · Knowledge 8 DP
Skill / Crafting · Craft 3 and Medicine 1

You shake the bottle once, judge the color, and offer it with the confidence of long practice.

Time: Maneuver to administer; one hour per crafting attempt.
Target: Self or one adjacent willing creature.
Use the tonic — Maneuver. Use a prepared Clearing Tonic supply and a free hand. Another recipient spends a Reaction unless at 0 HP. Roll Knowledge, apply one result, then check the tonic's inventory die.

- Weak: Reduce temporary Poisoned by 1.
- Standard: Reduce temporary Poisoned by 2 or Dazed by 1.
- Strong: Reduce temporary Poisoned by 3 or Dazed by 2.

Choose one listed condition; reduce it no lower than 0. This restores no HP and does not remove starred conditions.
Brew — one hour per attempt. This card permits and grants Clearing Tonic and Travel Food recipes. With the recipe's tools and ingredients, roll Knowledge: Weak raises one supply by 1 inventory step; Standard by 2; Strong by 3, capped by the recipe. Check carried ingredients after the attempt. No group crafting.
Duration: Condition reduction is immediate; crafted supplies persist until used.
Gear: One mixing kit, Bulk 1, if absent; both named recipes. No ingredients or finished tonic.

7 The Grove Gives Back

Main Action · Reason 8 DP
Magic / Recovery · Life 3 and Wilderness 1

You open your hands to the circle, feeling your own warmth flow toward your friends.

Target: Up to three willing creatures within 3 squares.
Offer your strength to the whole circle. Pay 7 HP once before rolling, bypassing resistance and remaining above 0; requires a free hand. Allocate the rolled healing pool among the targets as you choose, minimum 1 allocated per chosen target. Each applies Life resistance to its share, minimum 1 while missing HP.

- Weak: Share 10 HP.
- Standard: Share 16 HP.
- Strong: Share 22 HP; each recipient may reduce temporary Poisoned by 1.

7 The Hunt Ends Here

Reaction · Knowledge 8 DP
Skill / Attack · Marksmanship 3 and Wilderness 1

You have watched every feint. When they finally run, your shot is already waiting.

Target: A visible creature within 8 squares after it moves voluntarily.
Take the shot you were waiting for. Requires ranged weapon and ammunition; check supply. This attack cannot trigger additional free attacks.

- Weak: 4 physical damage.
- Standard: 4 physical damage and Slowed 1.
- Strong: 6 physical damage and knock prone.

Gear: Gain one ordinary ranged weapon and one d8 ammunition bundle if absent; each Bulk 1. Check ammunition after every attack.

7 The Land Keeps No Secrets

Passive · None — no roll 8 DP
Skill / Utility · Wilderness 3

You look from the broken ridge to the river and understand the journey waiting between them.

Time: Ten minutes of examination.
Target: A natural route visible from a vantage point; ten minutes examination.
Identify one observable route hazard and an available way around it, if any. No roll. You and up to six companions who follow your chosen route gain 1 Boon each to their next consequential noncombat roll negotiating that hazard. Hidden dangers remain hidden; this neither finds absent resources nor reveals a route beyond what can be observed.
Duration: Until the identified hazard is passed or you abandon the route.

Limits: Reexamining the same hazard does not refresh an expended Boon. No routine travel roll is introduced.

7 The Moment Foretold

Reaction · None — no roll 8 DP
Skill · Scholarship 3

You recognize the instant from your dream and call the warning before it is too late.

Target: An ally within 3 squares before it makes a declared roll.
If it hears your warning, grant 2 Boons to that roll. If it achieves Strong, it may move 1 square without provoking immediately afterward. Only rolls using an attribute; no inventory or wound rolls and no change after dice land.
Duration: The triggering roll and any immediately granted movement.

7 The Orchard Wakes

Magic · Wilderness 3

You spread your arms, and the roots answer as if the whole orchard had stirred in its sleep.

Target: Up to three visible grounded creatures within 5 squares.
Branches and roots answer together. Make one roll using the net Boons or Banes least favorable to you among the targets; apply the result to all of them. You choose targets; allies need not be included.

- Weak: Pull each 1 square toward you.
- Standard: Pull each 2 squares and apply Slowed 1.
- Strong: Pull each 3 squares, apply Slowed 1 and knock each prone.

7 The Shape of Escape

Maneuver · None — no roll 8 DP
Magic / Movement / Utility · Scholarship 3

You soften into a ribbon of clay and feel the narrow opening slide around you.

Target: Self, through one narrow opening to a visible free square within 3 squares.
Become a ribbon of living clay and slip through a continuous open route to the destination. Carried equipment travels with you; reform immediately. This movement does not provoke. You cannot pass a sealed barrier, end inside an object, or remain amorphous for protection.

7 The Sky Comes Down

Main Action · Reason 8 DP
Magic / Attack · Storm 3

You close your fist, and the air falls with the thunder.

Target: Every creature in a visible 3-by-3 area within 6 squares.
Call a crack of lightning followed by a collapsing wall of air. Make one roll using the net Boons or Banes least favorable to you among the targets; include allies.

- Weak: 4 lightning damage.
- Standard: 4 lightning damage and push 1 away from the center.
- Strong: 6 lightning damage and push 2; the center target's direction is your choice.

For a target standing in the center square, choose its push direction before resolving the displacement.

7 The Tale Will Tell of You

Reaction · None — no roll 8 DP
Skill · Influence 3

You call your companion's name with all the certainty of someone who has not finished their story.

Target: One ally within 4 squares after it enters Dying.
Your voice reaches it through the noise. If it can hear, it may immediately spend one of its own Grit to regain full HP. The wound remains. Cannot interrupt Last Words; grants no Grit and cannot be used when none remains.

7 The Wind Makes Room

Maneuver · None — no roll 8 DP
Magic / Movement · Storm 3 and Guard 1

You spread your arms and send a low gust sweeping around your companions' legs, lifting their steps over the rubble.

Target: Up to three willing allies visible within 4 squares.
Each chosen ally may immediately move up to 2 squares along a legal route, one at a time, without provoking. Difficult terrain costs 1 for this movement. They must be able to move and end in supported free squares; the gust does not carry them over gaps, creatures or barriers. They spend no actions.
Duration: Instant.

Limits: Each recipient moves once per use. A further use requires another Maneuver.

7 Traverse the Impossible

Main Action · Agility 8 DP
Skill · Athletics 3

You look across the empty space, breathe once, and trust the leap you have practiced all your life.

Target: A visible unoccupied landing within 6 squares
Choose a landing within the rolled distance. If none is safe, remain at the origin. This crosses gaps, not walls; it is not flight. Ordinary jumping remains available without this card.

- Weak: Traverse up to 2 squares.
- Standard: Traverse up to 4 squares.
- Strong: Traverse up to 6 squares.

Duration: Instant

7 Turn the Crowd

Main Action · Guile 8 DP
Skill · Influence 3

You find the words people begin repeating to one another before you have finished speaking.

Time: Ten minutes per attempt.
Target: An audience able to hear; 10 minutes
Address an audience able to hear and understand you. Propose one plausible collective objective, such as providing volunteers, granting access or organizing evacuation. The DA states a binary or cumulative progress target and which listeners are willing to consider it. Completion secures the stated cooperation from willing participants, not authority over everyone present; their own choices and new events still matter.

- Weak: 1 progress; identify an objection voiced by the audience.
- Standard: 2 progress; also identify a willing spokesperson who can explain that objection.
- Strong: 3 progress; also identify willing volunteers who can organize the agreed practical next step, if such people are present.

Duration: Information and earned progress persist for the stated task; completed changes remain until circumstances alter them.

7 Wear the Great Beast

Magic · Wilderness 3

You draw a deep breath as muscle and fur reshape your outline into something formidable.

Target: Self.
Spend a Maneuver to become a mighty bear, elk or great hunting cat for the scene. Keep your HP, wounds, attributes and one-square footprint. Speed is ancestry base + Agility + 1, reduced by encumbrance and other applicable penalties, minimum 0. Equipment folds away and provides no benefits. Gain physical resistance 2; highest matching resistance applies. You cannot speak, cast spells or use items, and have no free hands.
Claw, antler or bite — Main Action, Brawn; one adjacent creature.

- Weak: Deal 5 physical damage.
- Standard: Deal 5 physical damage and push 2 squares.
- Strong: Deal 7 physical damage, push 3 squares and knock prone.

Return with a Maneuver. Another form ends this one; HP loss and conditions remain yours. No earlier form card is required.
Duration: Until the scene ends, unless ended earlier as stated above.

7 Weight of Iron

Reaction · None — no roll 8 DP
Skill · Armor 3

You feel the blow travel down through your armor and into the ground beneath your feet.

Target: Self, when an effect would knock you prone Remain standing.
Duration: Instant
Gear: Requires armor.

7 When the Stars Look Back

Main Action · Reason 8 DP
Magic / Attack · Mind 3

You point toward your enemy and open a brief vision of the star-filled dark in their thoughts. They falter beneath the sense that something vast has noticed them.

Target: One visible creature within 5 squares.
For a moment, it understands that it has been noticed.

- Weak: 4 mental damage and Dazed 1.
- Standard: 4 mental damage and Dazed 2.
- Strong: 6 mental damage and Paralyzed 2.

7 Where Only Eagles Pass

Main Action · Brawn 8 DP
Skill / Utility · Athletics 3

You put your hand against the sheer face and see a way upward that no roadmaker would dare name.

Target: One natural climb within reach; each attempt covers up to your Speed in squares.
Climb a natural surface too sheer for an ordinary unaided ascent if the DA confirms that small seams, projections or cracks exist. No purchase of an earlier climbing card is required. A featureless wall, a ceiling or an impossible load remains impassable. Choose a reachable resting place within the rolled distance; if none exists, keep your initial secure position.

- Weak: Climb up to 2 squares, capped by Speed, and keep a secure grip.
- Standard: Climb up to 4 squares, capped by Speed, with one willing or unconscious companion carried with you.
- Strong: Climb up to your Speed, with that companion; you may secure a held rope at a suitable anchor on arrival.

Duration: Movement resolves immediately.
Gear: A free hand; any carried rope is supplied separately.

Limits: The companion ends in a separate safe square or remains carried outside combat; in combat choose legal separate endpoints before moving. Carrying requires a body and load the DA judges physically supportable.

White Heat

7 · Flame 3

Main Action · Knowledge 8 DP
Magic / Attack · Flame 3

You draw a narrow line toward your enemy with one finger. White fire flashes around their body and leaves flames clinging where it passed.

Target: One visible creature within 6 squares
Proposed NPC defense attribute: Agility.
- Weak: 5 fire damage; Burning 1.
- Standard: 5 fire damage; Burning 2.
- Strong: 7 fire damage; Burning 3.

Duration: Instant

Wings over the Battle

7 · Flame 3

Magic · Flame 3

You spread sudden wings and feel the ground drop beneath your first sweeping beat.

Target: Self.
Wings carry you up to 4 squares, over creatures and difficult ground, to a visible free supported square. You may cross a gap but cannot pass through barriers. This movement does not provoke; you must land immediately. No hovering or permanent flight.

Winter Hold

7 · Frost 3

Main Action · Knowledge 8 DP
Magic / Attack · Frost 3

You close your hand slowly. Frost thickens around your enemy's limbs as they struggle to keep moving.

Target: One visible creature within 5 squares
Proposed NPC defense attribute: Agility.
- Weak: 4 cold damage; Freezing 1.
- Standard: 4 cold damage; Freezing 2.
- Strong: 6 cold damage; Freezing 2 and Paralyzed 1.

Duration: Instant

Write the Final Line

7 · Arms 3

Main Action · Agility 8 DP
Skill / Attack · Arms 3

You recognize the opening in your opponent's recovery and drive a precise strike into it before they regain their balance.

Target: One adjacent creature.
Step inside the familiar pattern and finish your melee attack before they find a new one.
- Weak: 5 physical damage.
- Standard: 5 physical damage and Dazed 1.
- Strong: 7 physical damage and Dazed 2.

Gear: Use one ordinary melee weapon; gain one on learning this card if you do not own one. Bulk 1.

CHAPTER 10

Equipment and Recipes

A coil of rope is easy to overlook until someone is hanging above a ravine. Choose equipment for the journey you expect, leave room for what you might find, and know which hand will reach your potion when the fight goes badly.

Coins and trade

HOL uses one currency: coins. A listed price buys the described ordinary item or full supply. Training, discipline ranks and signature access are purchased through character development, not coins. Owning armor does not teach you to use its gated capabilities.

Useful intact gear sells for half its listed value, rounded down, or trades at full value with a willing trader. A 12-coin weapon sells for 6 or trades for 12 coins of goods. Pay any shortfall in coins; excess trade value is not cash change. A merchant does not have unlimited stock or an obligation to buy everything you make.

Bulk and hands

Record each carried item's Bulk. Most individual equipment entries and supply bundles use 1 Bulk; the entry tells you otherwise. A pack adds its own Bulk and does not erase its contents. Capacity is 10 + 3 × Brawn. Each Bulk above capacity reduces Speed by 1, to a minimum of 0.

A single compatible weapon serves all the attacks that can use it. Ordinary weapon appearance changes no mechanics. A flaming melee weapon can add its printed fire effect to a compatible attack; it cannot become a ranged weapon simply because you chose a ranged card.

Track occupied hands. Healing requires a free hand. A bow, two-handed weapon, or weapon-and-shield combination leaves none. Drawing for an attack is part of that attack, dropping is free, and proper stowing or picking up costs a Maneuver. There is no automatic free grip-change exception.

Inventory dice

A supply bundle has an inventory die instead of a counted number of uses. After using it, roll that die. On a 1, reduce it one step. On any other result it stays where it is. The use you just completed still works.

d20 → d12 → d10 → d8 → d6 → d4 → out

Check at the interval printed on the supply: ammunition when used, food by its person-day rule, lighting by its hour, and so on. A d4 healing bottle has a one-in-four chance of becoming empty after each use. It is not a promise of four doses.

> Example — the last swallow. You drink a lesser healing bottle and restore its 6 HP, reduced by Life resistance if applicable. Then roll its d4 inventory die. A 1 empties the bottle; you still received that healing. At full HP the bottle cannot heal beyond your maximum.

Recipes raise an existing supply by their permitted number of steps, up to the recipe's cap. A store refill uses the listed policy. Do not turn unknown leftovers into additional full bottles by splitting them among containers.

Special equipment and understanding

A special item adds only the effects it prints: damage, resistance, an ability or another explicit benefit. Apply normal nonstacking rules to matching numerical bonuses. Different damage-type resistances can coexist; use the highest of each.

The item states whether understanding is required. Identification abilities reveal different kinds of information. Knowing a recipe is a separate permission from knowing what an item does. The recipe section lists tools, materials, time and what the crafting result produces; none of those are supplied by the recipe's name alone.

Coins and the ordinary market

What a coin buys

A simple meal costs 1 coin. A plain bed costs 2 coins per night, meals separate. Ordinary local labor pays about 3 coins per day; skilled work about 6. These are anchors, not a requirement to simulate wages. Dangerous adventuring earns more because it risks wounds, scarce Grit and death, not because food becomes expensive when a character gains levels.

Equipment grants still happen first. Coins buy objects and supplies, never DP, discipline ranks, signature access or training. Owning armor does not grant its training card. A purchased weapon's appearance supplies no damage modifier. Prices for functionally equivalent ordinary melee weapons are equal; a jeweled hilt may be valuable decoration but does not hit harder.

Price list

The linked item is the source for its price, use and Bulk. Most entries are Bulk 1. A worn plain outfit is the exception; an extra outfit is Bulk 1. Containers add their own Bulk and never reduce their contents' Bulk.

Supplies and restocking

The printed price buys one full supply at its listed die, including an ordinary holder. All three healing bottles currently use d4; their potency, not supply die, differs. This pass preserves those existing values rather than quietly increasing potion longevity. A die checks after use and on 1 steps down; the last use works.

A d4 averages 4 uses before empty; d6 averages 10 total uses through its d4 stage; d8 averages 18. These are expectations, not guaranteed charges. The inventory die cannot be converted into an exact number of arrows or spoonfuls.

Shop refills: a shop can refill a supply to its printed starting die for its full listed supply price. Or buy a separate full supply at that price, which costs another Bulk. No discounted partial refill, die combining, decanting into fresh full-die bottles or cash credit for unknown leftovers. This keeps the market simple without changing crafting's existing step-increase procedure. Fresh safe water can refill its flask freely; a town refill costs 1 coin if charged.

Services and transport

Service	Coins	Basis
Simple meal	1	One person
Plain bed	2	One person/night; no food
Private room	6	Up to two/night; no food
Comfortable room and meals	10	One person/day
Bath and laundry	2	One visit
Local ferry or cart passenger	2	One short local crossing/trip
Ordinary road or river passage	6	One passenger/travel day; food separate
Stable space and ordinary feed	2	One ordinary animal/day
Ordinary porter or laborer	3	One safe workday; load agreed in advance
Skilled local worker	6	One safe workday; tools/materials extra if needed
Local wilderness guide	8	One travel day on an agreed route; no combat obligation
Wound-treatment appointment	10	One eligible attempt; no guaranteed recovery
Ordinary magical identification	8	One attempt with an appropriate card; outcome as printed
Minor mundane repair	3	One small job; replacement parts extra

A service fee buys the provider's time, not an automatic Strong outcome. Daily wound-treatment limits still apply across all healers. Inn lodging does not refill Grit or erase scars. Transport quotes grant no mount statistics or summon eligibility. Hired people have agency; wages do not buy disposable combatants or unlimited ability access. Extended hazardous work needs a specific agreement with the DA.

Availability, selling and crafting

These prices assume a supplied town. Ordinary travel goods are common. Specialist tools, potions and unusual supplies need an appropriate seller. Special equipment prices are valuation benchmarks: the DA decides whether an item is actually on sale. No automatic stock refresh after a rest or new scene.

For an unusual shortage or remote seller, the DA may quote double ordinary prices; otherwise use the printed value rather than maintaining regional multipliers. Record a concrete offer before buying. Exact scarcity and merchant stock remain adventure decisions, not a universal cap on player purchases.

Agreed sale/trade rule: intact, useful gear sells for half list price, rounded down, or trades for its full listed value with a willing trader. A 12-coin weapon sells for 6 coins or trades for 12 coins of goods. Pay any shortfall in coins; unused trade value is not cash change. A trade cannot be redeemed for coins, vouchers or other cash equivalents at full value. Card-granted items use the same rule, and selling never renews their grant. Consumables and materials with uncertain remaining supply have no standard resale offer. Goods freshly crafted or acquired at full supply may attract half-price offers, but the buyer must actually need that quantity. Special items still require an available willing trader; apply the same half-sale/full-trade rule to the agreed item valuation. Treasure such as gems has its stated trade value, without a second automatic half-price reduction.

All material bundles must name their actual contents. Ordinary d6 ingredients cost 12 coins; a d6 prepared healing-ingredient bundle costs 80. Other rare inputs need a quote. Materials must meet the recipe: a common bundle cannot become life salts by relabeling it. Recipes are still found, derived or granted through cards, not automatically available for coin purchase.

Crafting remains useful. Gathering ingredients, knowing recipes and spending time can save coins. Foraging success, recipe yields, local demand and available downtime determine profit. A merchant's willing purchase is not an infinite exchange machine. Discuss large commercial projects with the DA before assuming guaranteed income.

Shopping bundles and starting range

Bundles are convenience lists at the exact sum of their parts, with no discount or Bulk exemption. Each person still chooses what to carry.

- Road essentials: 24 coins, 5 Bulk. Pack 3 + sleeping roll 4 + filled water flask 3 + d8 food 9 + d6 lighting 5. One plain worn outfit is free.
- Self-contained explorer: 31 coins, 7 Bulk. Road essentials + rope 5 and small necessities 2. At Brawn −1, this alone fills capacity 7.
- Road essentials plus lesser healing: 44 coins, 6 Bulk. Add a 20-coin d4 bottle.
- Explorer plus lesser healing: 51 coins, 8 Bulk. Useful, but too much for a Brawn −1 character without sharing a load or accepting a Speed penalty.

A spell light can replace a purchased lighting supply if the group accepts its limitations. Sharing rope, light and camp tools is a choice, not a free group inventory. Card-granted items remain part of carried Bulk even though they cost no coins at creation.

Equipment entries

These entries describe the things you can carry, buy, find and use. Each gives its Bulk, price and any special requirements or effects. Record the actual item once in your inventory, even when several learned abilities use it. Buying equipment with coins does not buy training or a discipline rank.

Ordinary weapon appearance is yours to describe; your attack card supplies its combat mechanics. Special equipment adds only the effects printed here. For consumables, record the current inventory die and check it after the stated use. Keep frequently used items and occupied hands visible on your character sheet.

Equipment grants no training or DP advancement. Use ordinary item-handling actions unless an ability says otherwise. An item may come from an explicit ability grant, a purchase or DA treasure; owning it supplies only its printed benefits. It does not also supply a crafting recipe.

Ammunition Bundle

You loosen the binding and feel the familiar shapes waiting for your hand.

- Bulk: 1
- Requirements / supply: Inventory d8

Check after each attack that consumes ammunition; on 1 reduce a die step. Last use works. One bundle, not one Bulk per arrow.
Market price: 9 coins.

Book of Quiet Doors

You turn the thin pages, following diagrams whose locks seem almost to breathe.

Requirements: Scholarship 1; identification required. Action: Main Action; ten minutes of study.
After studying for 10 minutes, gain 1 Boon to your next mundane lock attempt this scene. Further study before using it does not add another Boon from this item. Grants no lock-working permission.
Market price: 150 coins (special-order benchmark; availability is not guaranteed).

Chain Coil

You feed the links through your hands, listening for the clear ring of sound metal.

Market price: 12 coins. Bulk: 1.
A practical portable coil for securing or hauling, with length agreed with the DA when bought. No infinite reach or automatic restraint.

Cincture of Might

You tighten the belt and feel the next burden settle more easily against your body.

Requirements: No discipline requirement; understanding not required. Action: Passive unless the effect says otherwise.
Brawn +1 while worn. Does not stack with another positive Brawn item; does not change creation DP or class eligibility.
Market price: 500 coins (special-order benchmark; availability is not guaranteed).

Clearing Tonic Supply

You lift the bottle to the light and watch its sharp green tint settle.

Market price: 30 coins. Bulk: 1.
A d4 Clearing Tonic supply. Requires The Cleverest Mixture to administer its printed effect. Owning the bottle grants no ability or recipe. No HP restoration is implied.

Climbing Fittings

You lay out the hook, harness and iron fittings, testing each before trusting your weight to it.

Market price: 8 coins. Bulk: 1.
Reusable harness, hook, hammer and anchors. Rope is separate. Enables plausible anchoring; no automatic climb, Boon or specialist permission. Abandoned fittings need replacement at a DA-quoted fraction of the kit price.

Craft Tools

You unroll the worn cloth and set each trusted tool within reach.

- Bulk: 1
- Requirements / supply: Reusable

Required for recipes that list them; no inventory die.
Market price: 15 coins.

Digging Tools

You plant the spade and turn the first heavy clod aside.

Market price: 6 coins. Bulk: 1.
Compact shovel and pick for ordinary digging. Time and feasibility depend on the material; no combat damage profile or tunneling magic.

Disguise Clothes

You exchange familiar colors for another trade's working clothes and check the fit.

- Requirements / supply: Inventory d4

Mark material type. One use and inventory check per crafting attempt requiring it. Incompatible material cannot substitute.
Market price: 12 coins.
This 12-coin d6 price is for one named ordinary material type. Prepared healing ingredients cost 80 coins per d6 bundle instead; other rare materials require a DA quote. A cheap ordinary bundle cannot substitute for life salts or other specialist ingredients.

Mixing Kit

Stained spoons, a little mortar and bottles whose labels only you can read.

Bulk: 1. Use: Reusable tools for a recipe that names a mixing kit. No inventory die; ingredients and finished mixtures have their own supply dice. An ability that grants a missing kit supplies it on acquisition, not on every use.

Small Necessities

You unfold a cloth of useful odds and ends: thread, chalk, soap and a flint worn smooth by use.

Market price: 2 coins. Bulk: 1.
Bundle of ordinary firestarting, cleaning, sewing and marking supplies. Inventory d6; check after a scene of substantial consumption, not after every strike of the flint. Supplies no lock tools, medicine, ammo, food or crafting recipe ingredients.

Travel Clothes

You pull on well-mended clothes whose seams have learned your stride.

Market price: 4 coins. Bulk: 1.
A durable outfit with boots and cloak. One ordinary worn outfit is descriptive and contributes 0 Bulk; a carried spare is Bulk 1. Proposed creation baseline: everyone already owns one plain outfit, with no coin credit for declining it. This is the only new free starting equipment here.

Travel Pack

You tighten the straps and tuck the loose ends away before shouldering the load.

Market price: 3 coins. Bulk: 1.
A reusable backpack or shoulder pack. Its own Bulk is 1, even when empty. Contents retain their full Bulk; it grants no capacity increase or concealed inventory slots.

Water Flask

Ink, paper and pen as a d6 supply. Check once per substantial writing or mapping session, not each sentence. No automatic map accuracy or scholarly knowledge.

Recipes

A recipe is the knowledge of how to make a particular thing. It tells you which crafting ability permits the work, what tools and materials you need, how long an attempt takes, and what the result produces. Knowing a recipe does not supply its ingredients or grant the ability needed to use it.

Read the entry before beginning. A project may accumulate progress toward a completion target; a supply recipe may instead raise an existing inventory die. Follow the printed outcomes and limits. Starting crafting abilities provide their stated recipe choices; you can learn further compatible recipes through the appropriate ability or discover them during play.

Granted by tells you how a recipe enters your repertoire. Used with lists abilities that can carry out its work. Ordinary Recipe Study grants two compatible recipes, but you must already know an ability that can use them.

For every recipe, roll the crafting ability's printed attribute at the end of an attempt. Work alone; there is no group crafting. Accumulate project progress until you meet the completion target. For supplies, the first inventory step from empty creates d4; later steps are d6, d8, d10, d12 and d20, up to the recipe's cap. Check any carried material supply after each attempt. You must actually obtain the ingredients; recipe knowledge supplies no free stock. Recipes remain known for reuse. The plants and mixtures here are fictional game ingredients.

Strong completion: pack the intact shelter in ten minutes into one Bulk 1 bundle; erect it in one hour without another roll or materials. Otherwise, dismantling requires rebuilding. The shelter lasts until dismantled or damaged.

CHAPTER 11

Summoned Companions

You call across a boundary, and something answers: paws on stone, a flicker of ancestral light, a shape unfolding from cold air. The creature acts through your attention. Its presence gives you choices, not a second independent turn.

Choose from the profiles in this chapter when a summoning ability permits the category and tier. Higher-tier cards can choose eligible lower-tier creatures. Category names alone do not grant access to an unlisted creature.

Command the creature

Spend your Main Action to give one summon a Main Action and a Maneuver. Spend your Maneuver to give one summon a Maneuver and movement. Normal conversions apply. The Main-command package has no separate movement allowance: convert its Maneuver to movement if it needs to approach before attacking.

A summon receives at most one command on your turn. You can spend your Main Action on one creature and your Maneuver on another. A summoning card's immediate free Main command counts as that creature's command for the turn.

An uncommanded summon does nothing. It does not follow, keep watch, alert you, continue a previous task, or take Reactions and opportunity attacks. Existing conditions, durations and passive defenses still operate. Resolve its turn-based timing on your turn. You cannot summon creatures that summon more creatures.

Keep the connection

A summon disappears beyond 6 squares from you, including after forced movement of either participant. It also disappears at 0 HP, or when you become unconscious or die. Its duration may end earlier. It leaves no permanent equipment or loot.

For a large footprint, agree the tether measurement with the DA before placement; the general rules do not yet define every multi-square case. Do not quietly gain extra reach by moving only one corner of a creature inside the boundary.

Give a useful order

"Attack that creature," "defend this spot," "move into cover," and "help them cross" are clear intentions. The creature still needs the printed capability and enough commanded actions to carry them out. A previous order never buys activity next turn. Outside combat, you must continue directing a longer task for its full time.

Roll the creature's attack attribute, not your own, and read its player-facing attacker outcomes. When it is attacked, roll the defense attribute named by the incoming attack using the creature's value. Apply the profile's attack or defense Boons/Banes and resistance normally. There is never a second opposed roll.

The profiles below include only the summoned form's permitted capabilities. A monster's dramatic description does not grant its summoned form extra actions, active auras, independent attacks or skills.

Choose a summoned companion

Selection: select a listed creature whose category matches the card and whose minimum tier does not exceed it. Category or CV alone grants no access. The expanded roster provides 73 explicit selections. All use the established command limits, six-square tether and disappearance rules. No uncommanded activity, Reactions, opportunity attacks, permanent loot or summon chains.

CHAPTER 12

Wound Tables

Roll 3d6 plus one die per prior wound, maximum five dice total. Keep the highest three, sort ascending and read the three-digit result. Use the damage-type table. Each wound always leaves a scar; treatment removes only its printed treatable effects. See Harm and Recovery for the complete procedure.

Physical

Physical includes sonic and force injuries. The DA judges when a physical-activity penalty applies.

Elemental

Every entry leaves a permanent visible scar, even when its only effect is temporary. Burning/Freezing means Burning for Fire or Lightning and Freezing for Cold. Burning still deals Fire damage; Freezing deals Cold damage. The wound source does not change a condition's damage type. Elemental 556 converts the earlier single-turn Paralysis to Paralyzed 1 under the shared decay rule.

Band	Ordinary clothing consequence
100–200	Scorched, split, or discolored around the injury
300	Clothing covering the injured area is ruined
400	Extensive clothing loss around the injured area
500	Most clothing covering the affected body region is destroyed

Armor and special equipment are only destroyed by explicit wording. Treatment and ending a condition do not restore clothing. Fire, frost, and electrical injury supply different scar descriptions without changing the entry's mechanical effects.

Mental

Every result leaves a mental scar even after temporary effects clear. The player chooses its expression; no personality, allegiance, or behavior is imposed. Frightened uses the creature or phenomenon responsible as its source and now decays normally; it no longer has the earlier until-safely-away duration. Later reminders do not automatically reapply it. Mental sensory wounds need not injure eyes or ears.

Radiant

All entries leave visible scars: pale patches, bleached hair, branching marks, or faintly luminous-looking scars. Appearance grants no illumination or other benefit. Burning caused by Radiant wounds still deals Fire damage. The initial Radiant event and later Burning use their respective resistances. Ordinary treatment can restore sight at 466, but cannot restore destroyed eyes at 566.

CHAPTER 13

Ready-to-Play Heroes

These six level-1 heroes show complete creation, including both DP ledgers and paid equipment. Use one as written or follow its ledger as an example. A changed choice must still meet requirements. Lira is an archer built as a Blade; the Warden provides another route to a wilderness-focused hero.

Hero	Fantasy	Ancestry and class
Borin Bridgekeeper	Stalwart guardian	Dwarf Protector
Lira Ashbow	Woodland archer	Elf Blade
Pip Copperwink	Burglar-duelist	Halfling Shadow
Vaelis Emberglass	Elemental scholar	Elf Arcanist
Mara Reedheart	Grove healer / beast-shaper	Human Shepherd
Oren Brass	Investigator-tinker	Human Intellect

Borin Bridgekeeper — level 1

The shield-bearing guardian who brings everyone home.

Dwarf Protector · HP 25/25 · Grit 2/2 · Speed 5 squares · Bulk 11/13.

Languages: Common and Dwarven. See the language reference.

Attributes and ancestry

Brawn	Fortitude	Agility	Guile	Knowledge	Reason
+1	+2	+0	+0	-1	+1

Total +3. Protector minima: Fortitude, Reason ≥ 0; met. Mental sum +0, so each stage's base pool is 10 DP.

- Stubborn as Bedrock: Maximum HP +1. Gain no additional resistance from this trait.
- A Grudge Well Kept: Once per combat, after a creature damages you, gain 1 Boon to your next attack against it before the end of your next turn. Choose whether to invoke the trait when the damage occurs. No damage bonus or extra attack.

Borin can invoke A Grudge Well Kept after any creature damages him, once per combat; it need not be the first hit.

Level 0 — origins and purchases

- Walled Communities: Armor 1 and Wear Medium Armor.
- Household Guard: Arms 1 and Hook and Drive.

Opening pool: 10 + 0 duplicate compensation = 10 DP. No disciplines are purchased at this stage.

Purchase	Requirements held / price basis	DP spent	Remaining
Braced Harness	Armor 1	2	8
Take Them Alive	Arms 1	2	6
Conditioned Body	None	2	4
Catch a Falling Friend	None	2	2
Tell a Worthy Story	None	2	0

Spent 10; 0 DP expires. Stage closes at 0.

Level 1 — class and purchases

Choose Protector. Class grants Armor 1 and Guard 1; 1 duplicate(s) give +1 DP, not higher ranks. Free signature: Between Them. Its use procedure follows; the linked card remains the complete reference:

Action: Reaction · Attribute: None — no roll

Target / range / shape: One adjacent willing ally, after a single-target attack is declared against it but before rolling.

Become the target if you meet the attack's range and targeting requirements. Resolve the attack once against you; your ally receives none of its effects. Afterward the ally may move up to 2 squares without provoking if able. You do not move to intercept and cannot redirect an area attack.

Duration: The triggering attack and immediate ally movement.

Equipment / acquisition: None.

Signature limit: Repeatable; normal action economy applies.

Fresh pool: 10 + 1 = 11 DP. All discipline purchases below occur before cards that need them.

Purchase	Requirements held / price basis	DP spent	Remaining
Shielding Step	Guard 1	2	9
Medicine 1	Class price; previous rank 0	2	7
Treat Soft Tissue	Medicine 1	2	5
Athletics 1	Class price; previous rank 0	3	2
Sure Ascent	Athletics 1	2	0

Spent 11; 0 DP expires. Stage closes at 0.

Final disciplines: Armor 1, Arms 1, Athletics 1, Guard 1, Medicine 1.

Equipment and derived statistics

Owned item and chosen appearance	Grant	Bulk
Riveted medium armor	Wear Medium Armor	1
One-handed broad-headed hammer	Hook and Drive	1
Round shield	Shielding Step	1

HP: 12 + ancestry 4 + class 5 + Fortitude 2 + trait 1 + Conditioned Body 1 = 25. Capacity: 10 + 3 × Brawn (1) = 13. Granted Bulk 3 + purchased Bulk 8 = 11, so encumbrance penalty 0. Speed: ancestry 5 + Agility 0 + trait 0 = 5.

Physical resistance: 2 while wearing the granted medium armor. Other resistances: 0. Wounds and death marks: 0. Grit: 2. No HP or Grit has been spent during creation.

Starting coins and market purchases are resolved in the shopping ledger below. Card-granted equipment is not purchased again. Repeated compatible weapon/tool grants supply no duplicates.

Recipes: none granted or purchased.

At the table

Hook and Drive holds a doorway; Between Them lets Borin intercept a single attack before the roll and help the ally withdraw. Taking prisoners is a deliberate use of Take Them Alive. His shield and hammer fill both hands: potions require freeing a hand. Treat Soft Tissue supplies useful care after danger, not instant scar removal.

Lira Ashbow — level 1

The woodland archer who reads a trail as readily as a target.

Elf Blade · HP 20/20 · Grit 2/2 · Speed 8 squares · Bulk 10/10.

Languages: Common and Elven. See the language reference.

Attributes and ancestry

Brawn	Fortitude	Agility	Guile	Knowledge	Reason
+0	+1	+2	+0	+1	-1

Total +3. Blade minima: Agility, Brawn ≥ 0; met. Mental sum +0, so each stage's base pool is 10 DP.

- Footfall on the Leaves: Natural undergrowth does not increase the cost of your voluntary movement. Other difficult terrain, forced movement and occupied-square rules are unchanged.
- The Wood Whispers: In woodland, gain 1 Boon to a consequential roll interpreting living signs of nearby disturbance. The signs can indicate a general direction, not an unseen creature's exact square; this does not bypass Hidden.

Level 0 — origins and purchases

Target / range / shape: Self, before a defense against an adjacent enemy.

Gain 1 Boon to the defense. After the attack resolves, you may move up to 2 squares without provoking, whatever the defense result. This does not prevent the attack's damage or conditions; you must still be able to move.

Duration: The triggering defense and immediate movement.

Equipment / acquisition: None.

At the table

Pinning Shot uses Agility; Read the Quarry offers a Knowledge-based alternative. Take the Measure rewards staying still for the shot. Foraging, climbing and river crossing support the scout role. Measured Guard is an emergency answer when an enemy closes, not an archery signature: this build exposes a real class-identity gap. The bow needs both hands while in use; the knife is stowed then.

Mara Reedheart — level 1

The grove healer who can become the beast defending it.

Human Shepherd · HP 18/18 · Grit 2/2 · Speed 7 squares · Bulk 7/10.

Languages: Common and Reed Speech (an ordinary regional language). See the language reference.

Attributes and ancestry

Brawn	Fortitude	Agility	Guile	Knowledge	Reason
+0	+1	+0	+0	+0	+2

Total +3. Shepherd minima: Reason, Guile ≥ 0; met. Mental sum +2, so each stage's base pool is 12 DP.

- Road in the Blood: Base Speed +1. Long journeys remain ordinary travel; this creates no exhaustion rule.
- Make Room at the Fire: Once per scene, when you offer genuine food, shelter or shared work to a nonhostile person, gain 1 Boon to the next Guile roll seeking ordinary hospitality or trust from them before the scene ends. No automatic friendship or compelled response.

Level 0 — origins and purchases

- Forest Communities: Wilderness 1 and Forage Woodland.
- Grove Tended: Life 1 and Sap and Breath.

Opening pool: 12 + 0 duplicate compensation = 12 DP. No disciplines are purchased at this stage.

Level 1 — class and purchases

Choose Shepherd. Class grants Life 1 and Medicine 1; 1 duplicate(s) give +1 DP, not higher ranks. Free signature: Gentle Return. Its use procedure follows; the linked card remains the complete reference:

Action: Passive · Attribute: None — no roll

Target / range / shape: One willing ally you have just restored HP to with a spell or potion.

That ally may stand without spending movement, then move 1 square without provoking if able. This works even if it was above 0 HP before healing. It grants no extra HP, reduces no healing payment and cannot reverse Last Words.

Duration: Immediate stand and movement after healing.

Equipment / acquisition: None.

Signature limit: Once on your turn; the ally must actually regain HP.

Fresh pool: 12 + 1 = 13 DP. All discipline purchases below occur before cards that need them.

Purchase	Requirements held / price basis	DP spent	Remaining
Radiance 1	Class price; previous rank 0	1	12

Rouse the Senses	Medicine 1	2	0

Spent 13; 0 DP expires. Stage closes at 0.

Final disciplines: Life 1, Medicine 1, Radiance 1, Wilderness 1.

Equipment and derived statistics

No mechanical equipment is granted by these ability choices. Market purchases are listed below. Ordinary appearance/clothing is descriptive; no armor, weapon, focus, tools or adventuring supplies are assumed.

HP: 12 + ancestry 2 + class 3 + Fortitude 1 + trait 0 + Conditioned Body 0 = 18. Capacity: 10 + 3 × Brawn (0) = 10. Granted Bulk 0 + purchased Bulk 7 = 7, so encumbrance penalty 0. Speed: ancestry 6 + Agility 0 + trait 1 = 7.

Physical resistance: 0. Other resistances: 0. Wounds and death marks: 0. Grit: 2. No HP or Grit has been spent during creation.

Starting coins and market purchases are resolved in the shopping ledger below. Card-granted equipment is not purchased again. Repeated compatible weapon/tool grants supply no duplicates.

Recipes: none granted or purchased.

At the table

Sap and Breath pays 1 HP before healing 3/5/7 HP; Mara must remain above zero and have a free hand. Gentle Return adds the printed recovery movement once on her turn. Roots Remember Feet controls ground, while Borrow the Beast provides close fighting at the cost of spellcasting, speech and item use. Returning costs a Maneuver, so healing and beast fighting are a real choice. No potion or herb supply is silently granted.

- Road in the Blood: Base Speed +1. Long journeys remain ordinary travel; this creates no exhaustion rule.
- A Foot in Two Worlds: Know two additional ordinary spoken languages. Choose the communities that taught you; this does not grant a second culture's discipline or card.

Level 0 — origins and purchases

- Deep Halls: Craft 1 and Trail Workshop.
- Court Questioner: Scholarship 1 and Anatomy of an Opening.

Action: Main Action · Attribute: None — no roll

Time: One minute.

Target / range / shape: An accessible person, object or scene with evidence you can examine.

Spend one minute examining the evidence and state a question. Learn one supported fact relevant to it and a specific way to investigate further: a person to question, place to examine or test to perform, if one exists. If the evidence cannot answer your question, learn what kind of evidence is missing. No roll; obvious clues remain available to everyone. This does not reveal thoughts or invent events.

Duration: Information remains known.

Equipment / acquisition: None.

Signature limit: One reading per question until new evidence becomes available.

Fresh pool: 13 + 2 = 15 DP. All discipline purchases below occur before cards that need them.

Starting coins and market purchases are resolved in the shopping ledger below. Card-granted equipment is not purchased again. Repeated compatible weapon/tool grants supply no duplicates.

Recipes chosen: Trail Workshop → Bound Torches and Fletched Ammunition; Make Something Useful → Travel Food and Twisted Cord; Ordinary Recipe Study → Wooden Brace and Simple Replacement Leg. All six are distinct compatible ordinary recipes. One craft tool set serves both crafting cards. The shopping ledger supplies one compatible ordinary material bundle; other ingredients still need to be obtained.

At the table

Anatomy of an Opening uses Knowledge in a fight; Oren chooses its optional melee-weapon grant. Make the Connection turns actual evidence into a fact and follow-up lead. Crafting and identification make discoveries useful, while Medicine supports wound care. Oren's card grants supply tools and recipe knowledge; his shopping ledger adds ordinary ingredients, but no finished crafted supplies.

Smile Before Steel lets Pip fight with Guile; Sell the Feint prepares that attack. Quiet Latch and the illusion/voice cards support infiltration. Vaelis Emberglass — level 1

The old elemental scholar with dangerous curiosity.

Elf Arcanist · HP 17/17 · Grit 2/2 · Speed 7 squares · Bulk 7/7.

Languages: Common and Elven. See the language reference.

Attributes and ancestry

Brawn	Fortitude	Agility	Guile	Knowledge	Reason
-1	+0	+1	+0	+2	+1

Total +3. Arcanist minima: Agility, Knowledge ≥ 0; met. Mental sum +3, so each stage's base pool is 13 DP.

- A Lifetime Ago: Choose one place or community you knew in an earlier age. Gain 1 Boon to Knowledge or Reason rolls recalling its history, people or construction. The DA can tell you what you genuinely witnessed without a roll; memory reveals no events you never knew.
- Dream beneath the Stars: You may rest in a quiet waking reverie instead of sleeping, remaining aware of nearby ordinary sights and sounds. It grants no automatic detection, extra downtime work, shorter treatment interval or Grit recovery. Magical Asleep still works normally.

A Lifetime Ago: the community of Emberglass Observatory, where Vaelis studied before its abandonment. This is fictional history, not an extra culture grant.

Level 0 — origins and purchases

Action: Passive · Attribute: None — no roll

Target / range / shape: One creature hit by your Main Action damaging spell.

On a Standard or Strong result, after resolving the spell, you may push one of its targets 1 square directly away from you. Use this once on your turn. It adds no direct damage; normal collision rules apply.

Duration: Immediate push after the spell.

Equipment / acquisition: None.

Signature limit: Once on your turn; no benefit from free attacks.

Equipment and derived statistics

No mechanical equipment is granted by these ability choices. Market purchases are listed below. Ordinary appearance/clothing is descriptive; no armor, weapon, focus, tools or adventuring supplies are assumed.

HP: 12 + ancestry 2 + class 2 + Fortitude 0 + trait 0 + Conditioned Body 1 = 17. Capacity: 10 + 3 × Brawn (-1) = 7. Granted Bulk 0 + purchased Bulk 7 = 7, so encumbrance penalty 0. Speed: ancestry 6 + Agility 1 + trait 0 = 7.

Physical resistance: 0. Other resistances: 0. Wounds and death marks: 0. Grit: 2. No HP or Grit has been spent during creation.

Starting coins and market purchases are resolved in the shopping ledger below. Card-granted equipment is not purchased again. Repeated compatible weapon/tool grants supply no duplicates.

Recipes: none granted or purchased.

At the table

Cinder Cast and Rime Grip provide distinct elemental choices; Gust Hammer adds another positioning tool. Deliberate Spark adds its printed shove to a qualifying Standard or Strong Main spell once on Vaelis's turn. Reading remains, identifying enchantments and speaking with a hearth establish the scholar outside battle. No staff, spellbook or focus is required or granted by these cards; both hands begin available.

Their equipment and situation requirements still apply.

Summoning revision: the former tiny-scout card is now Summon Fey — Novice. Its Calling 1 requirement and 2-DP cost are unchanged, so this ledger stays valid; choose from the Summoned Companions chapter. No tiny form, scouting sense or object-carrying ability is automatically supplied.

Starting coins and shopping allocation

CHAPTER 14

Table References

Use these pages when the action pauses for a rule. Keep your most-used abilities beside your sheet, along with the conditions currently affecting you. The tiered ability index includes universal actions, shared abilities and class signatures.

Your turn in order

1. Resolve any start-of-turn instructions. If Dying, choose Grit or a death roll.
2. Refresh your turn budget. If Dazed or Grappled, choose the action categories you retain.
3. Move and take permitted actions in your chosen order. Declare an ability before rolling.
4. Resolve end-of-turn conditions, then reduce temporary numbered ratings by 1.
5. Mark continuing effects and keep your available Reaction ready for its trigger.

Quick rules

Situation	Rule
Ordinary roll	3d6 + one attribute; Weak ≤8, Standard 9–14, Strong ≥15
Boons / Banes	Cancel; add up to 3 net dice; keep highest / lowest 3
Natural 111 / 666	Weak + complication / Strong + benefit, using retained dice
Initiative	One unmodified 3d6; 12+ players first; same side begins each round
Action conversion	Main → Maneuver → movement; never upward
Ordinary movement	Normal 1; difficult 2; diagonal 1; stand costs 2
Occupied space	Cross only if occupant Prone, cost 2; never end there
Cover	Partial 1 Bane; heavy 3 Banes; no path means no attack
Resistance	Highest matching type, cap 3; minimum 1 damage per event
Stability	Default 0; highest explicit grant, cap 3; deduct once per new creature
Free attacks	Spend no actions; never trigger more free attacks
Healing spell cost	Novice 1, Adept 3, Master 7 HP; pay first, stay above 0
Potion	Free hand, Maneuver; another recipient uses Reaction unless at 0 HP
Safe breath	Full HP; Grit and wounds remain
Wound treatment	One attempt per wound per day; 1/2/3 progress toward RV
Supplies	Roll inventory die after use; on 1, step down; last use works

Glossary

Ability. A learned technique, spell, talent or other capability with its own procedure. “Card” refers to that rules entry, whether printed on a card or in this book.

Action. Something a character chooses to do. An action can call for a roll; a roll itself is not an extra action. A Main Action is a specific part of the turn budget.

Attribute. One of Brawn, Fortitude, Agility, Guile, Knowledge or Reason. Add only the attribute called for by the action or DA.

Benefit. A useful additional advantage, including the extra consequence of a natural 666. Apply the stated Strong outcome as well.

Boon / Bane. An extra die that changes which three dice you retain. Boons and Banes cancel before applying their net cap.

Bulk. An item's inventory load. Capacity and carried Bulk determine encumbrance.

Class. Your signature identity and discipline pricing. Choose one; there is no multiclassing.

Complication. An additional problem that does not erase progress already earned.

Condition. A named state with defined effects and removal. A condition's rating may measure severity, duration or both.

Consequence. What is at stake in an uncertain attempt. Establish it before rolling.

DA. Dungeon Architect, the participant who presents and adjudicates the world.

Discipline. A ranked field of study used to qualify for learned abilities. Rank alone grants no bonus or action.

DP. Development Points, spent on eligible ranks and abilities. Level-0 and level-1 pools expire separately; later awards may be saved.

DR. Damage reduction. Armor DR is physical resistance, applied after the attack outcome.

Dying. A player character's state at 0 HP before stabilization or recovery. Entering it causes a wound; repeated damage while already Dying adds death marks.

Effect. A change produced by a rule. It might be immediate damage, movement, a condition or a continuing benefit. Its duration does not repeat instant damage.

Evasion / Threat. A creature's printed dice adjustments to player attacks / player defenses. They are Boons or Banes, not added numerical totals.

Free attack. An attack granted by a specific rule without spending an action. It cannot trigger another free attack.

Grit. A limited reserve that can restore a Dying hero to full HP. Ordinary rest does not replenish it; the wound remains.

Hidden. A universal concealed state, maintained by actual circumstances. Attacking or openly revealing yourself ends it.

HP. Current capacity to keep going. Record current and maximum separately.

Inventory die. A supply's remaining uncertainty. Roll after use; step down on 1.

Last Words. Speech only, then death at the end of the second following turn. Ordinary healing, potions, treatment and Grit cannot reverse it.
Maneuver. A smaller action used for movement techniques, setup, support and practical tasks.
Passive. A capability that requires no action unless its text says otherwise.
Reaction. Your limited response to a stated trigger. An ordinary defense roll is not itself a Reaction.
Recovery Value. The accumulated treatment progress needed to remove the wound's listed lasting effects. Scar count remains after recovery.
Resistance. Reduction to a matching damage type; highest source, maximum 3. Life resistance also reduces ordinary healing.
Safe place. A location the DA judges suitable for spending saved DP. A safe breath is the shorter recovery pause that restores HP when immediate danger is resolved.
Signature. A class-exclusive ability. Its prerequisites are class and minimum level, not discipline ranks or earlier signatures.
Stability. Resistance to the distance of forced movement. Default 0, cap 3. It does not reduce damage, Prone or other conditions.
Tier. Novice, Adept or Master, with minimum levels 1, 3 and 7 and prices 2, 4 and 8 DP.
Wound. A lasting injury record caused by entering Dying. Its active penalty may be treated; its scar continues to count for later wound rolls.

Record useful playtest feedback

Write down what happened, which abilities were used, and what slowed the table. Note a confusing phrase as well as the ruling you made. Record striking moments: a rescue, a clever use of terrain, an ability that never found a useful opportunity. Those observations help improve the game more than a bare claim that something is strong or weak.
